Johannes A. van der Ven, 2010-03-08 The relation between religion and human rights is a contested one as they appear to compete with one another Religion is often considered to represent a tradition of heteronomy and subordination in premodern times Human rights emerged from early modern and modern times and stand for principles like human dignity autonomy equality The first question in this book is how to define religion its meaning functions and structures and how to study it The second question is how to understand religion from its relation with human rights in such a way that justice is done to both religion and human rights These questions are dealt with using a historical and systematic approach The third question is what the impact of religion might be on attitudes towards human rights i e human rights culture For an answer empirical research is reported among about 1000 students Christians Muslims and nonreligious at the end of secondary and the beginning of tertiary education in the Netherlands Methodologies on the Move Anna Amelina, Thomas Faist, Devrim Sel D. Nergiz, 2014-10-14 This volume establishes a new agenda for approaches to migration research and the corresponding methodologies A wide range of international contributors focus on the question of how to overcome the so called methodological nationalism within empirical studies on migration They address two main challenges how to contextualize the empirical research field and how to deal with national and ethnic categorizations within the empirical studies Methodologies on the Move outlines first of all a new epistemological basis for migration research which is pinpointing the relational concept of space Second building on the multi sited method of ethnography it provides detailed insights into novel qualitative and quantitative research designs Third it presents innovative data collection methods on geographic and virtual mobility and on cross border social practices This volume transcends the early criticisms of methodological nationalism in migration research and suggests both general methodological lines as well as helpful tools for empirical analysis This book was originally published as a special issue of Ethnic and Racial Studies The Materiality of Ancient Greek Identities, 9th to 2nd Centuries BCE Emma Gooch, Jerome Ruddick, 2025-08-07 Material culture is the physical trace of what was used to construct and define identities in the past and is therefore a key source of evidence for archaeologists and ancient historians investigating ancient identities The focus of this volume is reflective of broader theoretical and methodological shifts in recent cross disciplinary explorations of identity Through the use of case studies each chapter demonstrates the benefits and crucial need to embrace inter and multi disciplinary approaches when investigating life and society in ancient Greece In particular this book covers the ever increasing spectrum of identities across the ancient Greek world ranging from collective groups such as women migrants children and slaves to individual figures Using archaeological iconographic and textual material as the basis of each exploration the contributors seek to understand the intersectional nature of what it meant to be an individual or group within a recognised social identity in ancient Greece More specifically this involves the analysis of various types of material culture such as artefacts from burials excavated settlements figurines statuary painted pottery small finds and monuments The contributors study the material using geo spatial and architectural methods along with more traditional approaches such as epigraphy Among other conclusions the chapters investigate the experiences of identity what the experience of having a particular identity was like as far as we can ascertain in ancient Greece as represented by the archaeological material record
