Monteiro,2021-05-11 A poem is best read in the light of all the other poems ever written So said Robert Frost in instructing readers on how to achieve poetic literacy George Monteiro's newest book follows that dictum to enhance our understanding of Frost's most valuable poems by demonstrating the ways in which they circulate among the constellations of great poems and essays of the New England Renaissance Monteiro reads Frost's own poetry not against all the other poems ever written but in the light of poems and essays by his precursors particularly Emerson Thoreau and Dickinson Familiar poems such as Mending Wall After Apple Picking Birches Stopping by Woods on a Snowy Evening The Road Not Taken and Mowing as well as lesser known poems such as The Draft Horse The Ax Helve The Bonfire Dust of Snow A Cabin in the Clearing The Cocoon and Pod of the Milkweed are renewed by fresh and original readings that show why and how these poems pay tribute to their distinguished sources Frost's insistence that Emerson and Thoreau were the giants of nineteenth century American letters is confirmed by the many poems variously influenced that derive from them His attitude toward Emily Dickinson however was more complex and sometimes less generous In his twenties he molded his poetry after hers But later after he joined the faculty of Amherst College he found her to be less a benefactor than a competitor Monteiro tells a two stranded tale of attraction imitation and homage countered by competition denigration and grudging acceptance of Dickinson s greatness as a woman poet In a daring move he composes out of Frost s own words and phrases the talk on Emily Dickinson that Frost was never invited to give In showing how Frost s work converses with that of his predecessors Monteiro gives us a new Frost whose poetry is seen as the culmination of an intensely felt New England literary experience Robert Frost Harold Bloom,2003 A collection of critical essays discuss the works of the American poet By Design Anne Ferry,2008 By Design is a study of instances of poets enacting literary history by the ways they use and alter key elements of earlier poems sometimes the work of predecessors sometimes their own poems in order to create new designs The Alcaic Metre in the English Imagination John Talbot,2022-06-16 This book reveals how a remarkable ancient Greek and Latin poetic form the alcaic metre found its way into English poetry and continues shaping the imagination of poets today English poets have always admired the extraordinary beauty and intricacy of the alcaic stanza Tennyson called it the grandest of all measures and their inventive responses to the ancient alcaic have generated remarkable innovations in the rhythms sounds and shapes of modern poetry This is the first book length study of this neglected strand of English literary history and classical reception Attending closely to the rhythm and texture of their verses John Talbot reveals surprising connections between English poets across five centuries among them Mary Shelley Milton Marvell Tennyson Edward FitzGerald Wilfred Owen W H Auden and Donald Hall He gives special attention to a flourishing of English alcaics during the late twentieth and twenty first centuries and what it suggests about the changing place of classics and poetic form in contemporary culture Tradition and the Individual Poem Anne Ferry,2001 A theoretical historical and critical inquiry this book looks at the assumptions anthologies are predicated on how they are put together the treatment of the poems in them and the effects their presentations have on their readers Robert Frost in Context Mark Richardson,2014-04-14 Forty essays from influential scholars and poets offer a fresh multifaceted assessment of the life and works of Robert Frost Sixteen Modern American Authors Jackson R. Reading the Mountains of Home John Elder, 1998 Small farms once occupied the heights that John Elder calls home but now only a few cellar holes and tumbled stone walls remain among the dense stands of maple beech and hemlocks on these Vermont hills Reading the Mountains of Home is a journey into these verdant reaches where in the last century humans tried their hand and where bear and moose now find shelter As John Elder is our guide so Robert Frost is Elder's companion his great poem Directive seeing us through a landscape in which nature and literature loss and recovery are inextricably joined Over the course of a year Elder takes us on his hikes through the forested uplands between South Mountain and North Mountain reflecting on the forces of nature from the descent of the glaciers to the rush of the New Haven River that shaped a plateau for his village of Bristol and on the human will that denuded and farmed and abandoned the mountains so many years ago His forays wind through the flinty relics of nineteenth century homesteads and Abenaki settlements leading to meditations on both human failure and the possibility for deeper communion with the land and others An exploration of the body and soul of a place an interpretive map of its natural and literary life Reading the Mountains of Home strikes a moving balance between the pressures of civilization and the attraction of wilderness It is a beautiful work of nature writing in which human nature finds its place where the reader is invited to follow the last line of Frost's Directive to Drink and be whole again beyond confusion
