Sports of Santa Cruz County Geoffrey Dunn, 2013. Its inviting climate, enticing rugged mountains and welcoming beaches have always made Santa Cruz County a haven for athletic activities. A wide variety of sporting endeavors, some beyond the norm, have called Santa Cruz home over the decades. In the 19th century, Santa Cruz served as a springboard for modern surfing. It was an early bastion for organized baseball too, beginning in the 1860s and it was home to a series of professional teams as early as the 1870s. Other colorful athletic activities took place here including fire hose teams, long distance walking and bicycling along with more traditional American sports like basketball, football, boxing and tennis. The region boasts of a strong tradition of women athletes as well, in particular Marion Hollins, perhaps the greatest all around woman athlete of the early 20th century.
