Handbook of Brain Connectivity Viktor K. Jirsa, A.R. McIntosh, 2007-08-16 Our contemporary understanding of brain function is deeply rooted in the ideas of the nonlinear dynamics of distributed networks Cognition and motor coordination seem to arise from the interactions of local neuronal networks which themselves are connected in large scales across the entire brain The spatial architectures between various scales inevitably influence the dynamics of the brain and thereby its function But how can we integrate brain connectivity amongst these structural and functional domains Our Handbook provides an account of the current knowledge on the measurement analysis and theory of the anatomical and functional connectivity of the brain All contributors are leading experts in various fields concerning structural and functional brain connectivity In the first part of the Handbook the chapters focus on an introduction and discussion of the principles underlying connected neural systems The second part introduces the currently available non invasive technologies for measuring structural and functional connectivity in the brain Part three provides an overview of the analysis techniques currently available and highlights new developments Part four introduces the application and translation of the concepts of brain connectivity to behavior cognition and the clinical domain

Small-scale Models for Studying Effects of Creep and Shrinkage on Long-term Deflection of Reinforced Concrete Slabs Frank B. Cox, 1972 The objective of the study was to determine the feasibility of using small scale models to study the effects of creep and shrinkage on long term deflections of reinforced concrete slabs and if feasible to determine a the smallest length scale N that can be reliably used to study these effects b to what degree creep and shrinkage may affect model slabs loaded with either dead loads dead loads plus estimated actual live loads or dead load plus design live loads and c if creep and shrinkage measurements obtained from model slabs can be correlated with those of standard laboratory specimens such as 6 by 12 in cylindrical specimens Strain and deflection readings were obtained on six simply supported square slabs for periods up to and slightly exceeding 1000 days Similar readings were also obtained on corresponding slabs and 6 by 12 in cylindrical specimens positioned whereby the effects of shrinkage creep and autogenous volume change could be either investigated or correlated with the strain and deflection measurements from the test specimens Author
