ABOUT THE ILLUSTRATOR

"For a man with a soul the theatre in London is alone worth the journey." These words were written by Henry Fuseli (1761-1825), the Anglo-Swiss historical painter and author who was one of the most exotic, original, and unusual painters of the Romantic period. Born in Zurich to a family of painters, Fuseli grew up in an atmosphere of progressive and radical ideas. He himself possessed a remarkable aptitude for painting, but his father ignored his gift and decided to make a Zwingerian minister of him. Although he was ordained in 1781 and preached for a year in Geneva, Fuseli regarded poetry as his true vocation and Milton and Shakespeare as his inspiration. He was one of the first members of Shakespeare into German, attempting a version of Macbeth while still in his teens.

At the age of twenty when Fuseli moved to London and plunged himself into the city's life, Thomson-going became and remained one of his great passions, and he came to know some of the great actors and actresses of his day. Fuseli worshipped Shakespeare as "the supreme master of passions and the ruler of my heart," and memorized the plays so completely that he could recollect any passage to which one alluded. This intimate knowledge was remarked upon again and again by his colleagues. He continued to draw, but only as an avocation. Upon seeing some of Fuseli's sketches, Sir Joshua Reynolds encouraged him to abandon his literary pursuits altogether and devote himself to an artistic career. This he did, beginning in the spring of 1779. Although a late starter, he was never short of commissions from patrons and admirers.

In 1786, the noted engraver and publisher of prints John Boydell invited Fuseli, as well as other well-known artists, to participate in a monumental project: the creation of a Shakespeare Gallery. Boydell commissioned oil paintings of scenes from the plays, which would be exhibited in the Gallery in Pall Mall, London, and later engraved and published by subscription. Fuseli's contributions faithfully captured the conventions of the London stage: the exaggerated gestures of the declamatory style of acting, the minimal use of props, and the angle of view from the audience's pit.

Although Henry Fuseli's art was long overshadowed by that of his friend William Blake, it has been acclaimed in recent years for its imagination and mysticism. Perhaps Fuseli became the twentieth century's version of his work when he wrote, "Therefore, but expect not, to be praised by your contemporaries for any excellence, save the dispensation of justice to posterity."

Yellow Street Veza Canetti,1991 Set in Vienna in the 1930s Yellow Street is a novel in five scenes that captures the despair poverty enforced idleness and crumbling moral values of those years just before the political catastrophes that led to World War II. It weaves together stories about the people of Yellow Street the home of the leather merchants in the Leopoldstadt district. Living cheek by jowl on the bustling thoroughfare crabbed merchants impoverished bourgeois canny profiteers and out and out criminals alike find no privacy respected and no secrets possible. Canetti's concern however is the victims in the main seemingly helpless women and children perhaps poor and exploited but grown streetwise and cagey each protecting a core of integrity and dignity. From p 4 of cover The Philosopher's Window Allen R. Grossman, 1995.

The speaker of The Philosopher's Window and Other Poems Allen Grossman tells us is an old man compelled by the insistent questioning of the children to explain himself and in this way the world. He begins with creation The Great Work Farm Elegy recalls the romantic quest of youth. The Philosopher's Window returns to reality. The Snowfall and Whoever Builds His tales told the old man wakes in a stormy springtime June June when the lilacs are gone. Grossman's allegory of life's journey at once sonorous and antic takes in the high and the low in these new visionary songs of innocence and experience. Allen Grossman is Andrew W. Mellon Professor of the Humanities at The Johns Hopkins University. He counts among his many honors and awards MacArthur Guggenheim and NEA fellowships the Witter Bynner Prize for Poetry and the PEN Sheaffer New England Award for Literary Distinction. The Philosopher's Window is his eighth book of poetry. His previous collection The Ether Dome Other Poems New and Selected 1991 was a National Book Critics Circle Award nominee Solitudes

Crowded with Loneliness Bob Kaufman, 1965. Published in 1965 Solitudes Crowded with Loneliness assembles ten years work of Bob Kaufman celebrated in San Francisco as the original Beat and in France as the American Rimbaud. Bob Kaufman promotes a spontaneous prophetic verse mixing street talk and jazz with vision We'll to the Woods No More Edouard Dujardin, 1990. A delightful period piece of Paris in the late 1880s We'll to the Woods No More Les lauriers sont coupés retains its importance as the first use of the monologue intérieur and the inspiration for the stream of consciousness technique perfected by James Joyce. Dujardin's charming tale told with insight and irony recounts what goes on in the mind of a young man about town in love with a Parisian actress. Mallarmé described the poetry of the telling as the instant seized by the throat. Originally published in France in 1887 the first English translation by Joyce scholar Stuart Gilbert was published by New Directions in 1938. In 1957 Leon Edel's perceptive historical essay reintroduced the book as the rare and beautiful case of a minor work which launched a major movement.
