Selections from Berkeley George Berkeley,Alexander Campbell Fraser,1879 Selections from Berkeley George Berkeley,1874 Selections from Berkeley George Berkeley,1972 Selections from Berkeley George Berkeley,2016-04-27 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible Therefore you will see the original copyright references library stamps as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world and other notations in the work This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work As a reproduction of a historical artifact this work may contain missing or blurred pages poor pictures errant marks etc Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public We appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant Selections from Berkeley; with an Introduction and Notes, for the Use of Students in the Universities George Berkeley,2012-01 Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts 1 We have not used OCR Optical Character Recognition as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos 2 In books where there are images such as portraits maps sketches etc We have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images so they represent accurately the original artefact Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy Selections from Berkeley. With an introduction and notes ... By Alexander Campbell Fraser. George Berkeley,1879 Selections from Berkeley; with an Introduction and Notes George Berkeley,2013-09 This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher Not indexed Not illustrated 1884 edition Excerpt AN ESSAY TOWARDS A NEW THEORY OF VISION 1 My design is to shew the manner wherein we perceive by Sight the Distance Magnitude and Situation of objects also to consider the difference there is betwixt the ideas of Sight and Touch and whether there be any idea common to both senses 1 2 It is I think agreed by all that Distance of itself and immediately cannot be seen For distance being a line directed endwise to the eye it projects only one point in the fund of the eye which point remains invariably the same whether the distance be longer or shorter 2 1 The design of this Essay is to compare the phenomena presented in Sight and in Touch and to shew how we learn to see the primary or mathematical qualities of things But we are led to consider the office of all the Five Senses in the formation of knowledge in the course of this analysis of Sight the most perfect and delightful of them all 2 Sect 2 51 explain how we learn to see Distance or an interval between two visible points Of Vindication sect 62 69 Sect 2 takes for granted but without distinct proof that distance is necessarily invisible It must be noted that the distance of which

this can be assumed is space in its third dimension depth or thickness not space merely as plane superficial extension In relation to the distance which Berkeley says cannot be seen that which is in the line of sight the percipient is at the end of a straight line the interval between the two points of which must it is argued be invisible because only one of them can be seen When we see superficial distance on the other hand we are at the side and not at the end of the line at a point where it forms a larger or smaller angle with the eye so that this
