Self Healing Power And Therapy Old Teachings From Africa:

Self- Healing Power and Therapy K. Kia Bunseki Fu-Kiau, Self-healing Power and Therapy Kimbwandènde Kia Bunseki Fu-Kiau, The wisdom of having good health can't be overemphasized. If you're tired of being sick and tired, here's the perfect book for you. In Self Healing Power and Therapy, Dr. K. Kia Bunseki Fu-Kiau presents an extraordinary and revolutionary thesis that successfully combines centuries-old Black African medical practices with the principles of contemporary medicine. Self Healing Power and Therapy is based on the Bantu Kongo teachings on the art of healing, which are devoted to assisting the human being in understanding the key principles that govern life. Combining ancient practices with today's sophisticated methods of healing, here, for the very first time, is a thorough exploration and explanation of an ancient art in a modern setting whose efficacy has survived the test of time. Culturally Adaptive Counseling Skills

Miguel E. Gallardo, Christine J. Yeh, Joseph E. Trimble, Thomas A. Parham, 2011-01-24. Each chapter has two case studies by an invited expert who also provides commentary and lessons drawing upon each case. Handbook of Multicultural Assessment Lisa A. Suzuki, Joseph G. Ponterotto, 2007-12-10. Handbook of Multicultural Assessment offers the most comprehensive text on testing of racial and ethnic minorities in the United States. This thoroughly revised and updated edition includes the most current and state-of-the-art assessment information in a variety of psychological and educational domains. The book highlights new and innovative testing practices and expands the populations of interest to include recent immigrants and refugees. It also includes ways to overcome barriers in the assessment process as well as forensic assessment. This important resource offers an instructional text for conducting culturally competent psychological assessment for clinicians, educators, and researchers.

The Search for Wholeness and Diaspora Literacy in Contemporary African American Literature Silvia Castro-Borrego, 2011-05-25. This volume has as a cohesive argument the exploration of the different manifestations of the search for wholeness and spirituality in the writings of contemporary African American women writers covering different literary genres such as fiction, both novels and short stories, drama, and poetry. Together with the issue of spirituality, the African American search for wholeness is analyzed as a source of creativity and agency. As expressed in the contemporary literature of Black women writers starting in the 1980s, the search for wholeness reflects a beauty realized through the healing of the spirit and the body and is a process that takes on dimensions of reconciling the past and the present, the mythical and the real, the spiritual and the physical, all in the context of an emerging world view that welcomes synthesis and expects both synthesis and generative contradictions. The book will be a valuable collection for scholars of African American literature, comparative American ethnic literature, American literature, and spirituality, as well as women's studies. In addition, it will be an important text for both undergraduate and graduate students in those fields As Professor Johnnella Butler 2006 points out the African American search for wholeness is tightly linked to the search for freedom and agency Ever since the 19th century African American writers have given expression to an African American self which functions in Western civilization simultaneously as a colonized other and an assertive self Due to the continuous ordeal of the African Diaspora this self is caught in between the binaries proposed by the material and the spiritual world seeking a balance where the person can become whole The search for wholeness feeds from cultural roots that imply the presence of ancestral spiritualism rememory and double consciousness Contemporary black women writers reflect the metaphor of building spiritual bridges seeking the possibilities of building a bridge to the archetypal African past that is carried in their memories as a presence that offers sustenance via spiritual reconnection Their works seek to bridge the gap between the myths and traditions of the past and contemporary African American culture The texts included in this collection are examples of writing as an exercise of what V v Clark calls Diaspora literacy The texts written by contemporary African American women writers explicitly show how to recognize and read the cultural signs left scattered along the road of progress In this way material acquisition is achieved along with cultural dispossession becoming a metaphor for the history of the African in America The powerful message is that one should not exclude the other
