Matthew Abraham, 2014-01-02 Academic freedom is a key element of the academic enterprise in the U S However it does not seem to exist when scholars seek to advocate on behalf of Palestinian self determination This unique work examines how the knowledge power nexus is shaping the discourse around the Israel Palestine conflict and restricting academic freedom Beginning with a discussion of American Zionism the work proceeds to explain why scholars working on the question of Palestine are often denied standard academic freedom This is supported by prominent cases such as Norman G Finkelstein s denial of tenure the Middle East Studies Department at Columbia University and Mearsheimer and Walt s book The Israel

Lobby The work of Edward Said and Noam Chomsky are also discussed and the book concludes with recommendations for protecting intellectual freedom to those seeking to critically pursue the question of Palestine This scholarly study will appeal to a broad audience of faculty students and readers who seek to understand the importance of academic freedom and the thorny debates surrounding the Israel Palestine conflict

Totalitarianism David D. Roberts, 2020-04-20 Less than a century old the concept of totalitarianism is one of the most controversial in political theory with some proposing to abandon it altogether In this accessible wide ranging introduction David Roberts addresses the grounds for skepticism and shows that appropriately recast as an aspiration and direction rather than a system of domination totalitarianism is essential for understanding the modern political universe Surveying the career of the concept from the 1920s to today Roberts shows how it might better be applied to the three classic regimes of Fascist Italy Nazi Germany and the Stalinist Soviet Union Extending totalitarianism's reach into the twenty first century he then examines how Communist China Vladimir Putin's Russia the Islamic Republic of Iran the self proclaimed Islamic State IS and the threat of the technological surveillance state can be conceptualized in the totalitarian tradition Roberts shows that although the term has come to have overwhelmingly negative connotations some have enthusiastically pursued a totalitarian direction and not simply for power control or domination This volume will be essential reading for any student scholar or reader interested in how totalitarianism does and could shape our modern political world

Cities into Battlefields Stefan Goebel, Derek Keene, 2017-03-02 Cities have always had a key role in warfare as strategic centres which periodically suffered the horrors of siege and sack With industrialisation however they were drawn ever closer to the front line and to direct and continuous experience of fighting and destruction Cities into Battlefields Metropolitan Scenarios Experiences and Commemorations of Total War explores the cultural imprint of military conflict on metropolises world wide in the era of the First and Second World Wars It brings together cultural and urban historians and scholars of related disciplines including anthropology education and geography The volume examines how the emergence of total warfare blurred the boundaries between home and front and transformed cities into battlefields The logic of total mobilisation turned the social and cultural fabric of urban life upside down Arranged so as to bring out the evolution of experience over time the essays explore Eastern and Central Europe Britain and Western Europe and Japan and address several key themes The first strand scenarios explores the apocalyptic imagination of intellectuals and experts in peacetime Artists and writers anticipating doom presented the coming upheaval as an urban event a commonplace of late Victorian and post 1918 pessimism On a different plane civil servants and engineers materialised visions of urban chaos and devised countermeasures in case of emergencies Both groups helped to furnish a repertoire of cultural forms which channelled and encoded the actual experience of war The second strand deals with metropolitan experiences notably mobilisation deprivation and destruction in wartime Ruins and the repercussions of war is the central theme of the third strand commemorations which investigates post war efforts to remember and forget The quest for meaningful forms of commemoration was hard enough after the First World War the Second World War which saw whole cities disappear in flames raised the possibility that the limits of representation had been reached The central contention of this volume that total war in the twentieth century has a significant but often overlooked metropolitan dimension is fully addressed thereby filling a conspicuous gap in the currently available literature

I Must Not Think Bad Thoughts Mark Dery, 2012-04-06 From the cultural critic Wired called provocative and cuttingly humorous comes a viciously funny joltingly insightful collection of drive by critiques of contemporary America where chaos is the new normal Exploring the darkest corners of the national psyche and the nethermost regions of the self the gothic the grotesque and the carnivalesque Mark

Liminality in Tourism Robert S. Bristow,Ian Jenkins,2021-09-05 Liminality is not typically associated with tourism even though it can be viewed as an intrinsic element of the social cultural experiences of tourism Liminality in Tourism Spatial and Temporal Considerations aims to build upon the tradition of liminality as expounded in social and anthropological disciplines elaborating on the theoretical principles and concepts found within certain aspects of the tourist journey and tourist product The emergence of post modern society has impelled a change in the tourist gaze towards a more experiential and adventuresome globalised experience An important aspect of the tourist phenomenon of liminality is where a transformative experience is triggered by entering a liminoid tourist space leaving the tourist permanently psychologically transformed before returning to normalised society The narrative provides a new perspective on the tourist experience with a provocative examination into the multidimensional aspects of tourism by exploring tourism within the spatial and temporal aspects of liminal landscapes Covid 19 has further changed the rubric of tourism Until the current pandemic tourism has basically been a fun experience In a post pandemic world however the tourist is now facing an unknown future which will almost certainly affect tourism liminality This book presents the reader with a wealth of examples and case studies closely illustrating the association between tourism and liminal experiences The geographical perspectives explore the more subconscious outcomes of destination and tourist product consumption The book should be a useful reader to tourism geography where the theory of liminality can be synthesized into tourist experiences The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal Tourism Geographies

Justifying the Obligation to Die Ilan Zvi Baron,2009-06-16 One of the state s key features is its ability to oblige its citizens to risk their lives on its behalf by being sent into war However what is it about the state or its equivalent that makes this obligation justifiable Justifying the Obligation to Die is the first monograph to explore systematically how this obligation has been justified Using key texts from political philosophy and just war theory it provides a critical survey of how this obligation has been justified and using illustrations from Zionist thought and practice demonstrates how the various arguments for the obligation have functioned The obligation to risk one s life for the state is often presumed by theorists and practitioners who take the state for granted but for the Zionists a people without a state but in search of one and who have little history of state based political thought it became necessary to explain this obligation As such this book examines Zionism as a Jewish political theory reading it alongside the tradition of Western political thought and critiques how Zionist thought and practice sought to justify this obligation to risk one's life in war what Michael Walzer termed the obligation to die Finally turning to the political thought of Hannah Arendt the author suggests how the obligation could become justifiable although never entirely justified For the obligation to become at all justifiable the type of politics that the state enables must respect human diversity and individuality and restrict violence so that violence is not a continuation of politics      Toward the Visualization of History

Mark Moss, 2008-06-19 Over the past 50 years the influence of visuals has impacted society with greater frequency No subject is immune from the power of visual culture and this fact becomes especially pronounced with regards to history and historical discourse Where once the study of the past was books and printed articles the environment has changed and students now enter the lecture hall with a sense of history that has been gleaned from television film photography and other new media They come to understand history based on what they have seen and heard not what they have read What are the implications of this process this visualization of history Mark Moss discusses the impact of visuals on the study of history with an examination of visual culture and the future of print Recognizing the visual bias of the younger generations and using this as a starting point for teaching history is a critical component for reaching students By providing an analysis of photography film television and computer culture Moss uses the Holocaust as an historical case study to illustrate the ways in which visual culture can be used to bring about an awareness of history as well as the potential for visual culture becoming a driving force for social and cultural change
