

Much Ado About Nothing - Characters

Benedick-

1. Benedick is presented as being a womaniser and promiscuous- this is to show attitudes in Elizabethan time towards women, for example- it is not okay for Hero not to be pure but it is ok for Benedick. "a good soldier to a lady" "I am loved of all ladies, only you excepted" "my custom, as being a professed tyrant to their sex"
2. Benedick develops and progresses throughout the play as he denounces his REPUTATION as a womaniser. "a man loves a meat in his youth that he cannot endure in his age" "To bind me or undo me one of them"
3. Benedick disregards love and marriage from the very beginning of the play to contrast the character of Benedick. This is shown when he disregards Hero and Claudio's love for her. "I noted her not but I looked on her" "she's too little for high praise, too brown for a fair praise and too little for great praise" "I can see yet without spectacles and I see no such matter" "truly I love none"
4. However, his witty banter with Beatrice from the very start of the play could foreshadow their love story- Beatrice says that Benedick "won it of me with false dice" about her heart— could foreshadow a history and "my dear lady disdain" regards her with endearing terms and he insults and compliments her at the same time "I would my horse had the speed of your tongue"

Claudio-

1. Has a conventional love story with Hero he loves her from the very beginning of the play, establishes them as a core storyline, paints them as a perfect pair perhaps to foreshadow their downfall later in the play "Can the world buy such a jewel" "sweetest lady that ever I looked on"
2. However, as the plot develops Claudio's love is found to be superficial he slanders her publicly "give not this rotten orange to a friend" "her blush is guiltiness not modesty" but declares his love again as soon as Hero is innocent- LOVE is linked to REPUTATION "sweet Hero now thy image doth appear in the rare semblance I loved it first"
3. "Till hold my mind were she an Ethiop" hyper-racist views from Claudio, however the main reflection of this quote is that to Claudio marriage is a duty and here it is a way to pay back Leonato, this shows transgressions from his earlier views where he said because he loves Hero he would marry her "that I love her I feel"
4. "and on my eyelids shall conjecture hang" Claudio isn't only disgusted by the acts he thinks Hero has committed he thinks his own PRIDE has been wounded by almost marrying such a woman. He feels he's been DECEIVED about love in general and this is what wounds him- these are his parting words before hero 'dies'.
