Seed Quality Enhancement: Principles and Practices K. Vanangamudi,G. Sastry,S. Kalaivani,A. Selvakumari,M. Vanangamudi,P. Srimathi,2010-03-01 Seed is the source of future plants or foods is the storage place of culture of history is the first link in the food chain is the ultimate symbol of food security Seed is the source of life Seeds are basic in crop production No agricultural practice can improve a crop beyond the limits set by the seed Quality seed is the key for successful agriculture which demands each and every seed should be readily germinable and produce a vigorous seedling ensuring high yield Care with the seed and joy with the harvest and Good seed doesn't cost it always pays are the popular adage which enlightens the importance of the quality seed. The farmers are always very much interested in the best seed management practices which are safe environmentally sound and scientifically proven technologies. Understandably in view of the importance of quality seeds in Agriculture both as a product and as a means of establishing a crop most attention at all levels of investigation has been directed to crop seeds. Since seed is a biological entity deterioration beyond harvest is inevitable. The consequences of low quality seeds are poor germination low and delayed emergence and weak growth leading to poor field stand and ultimately reflecting on reduced yield. Low productivity could be attributed broadly to use of poor quality seeds. At present to overcome this several seed enhancement techniques are available for quality upgradation. It has two goals one is related to seed designing and other to seed functioning. The rationale for pre sowing seed enhancement techniques is to mobilize the seeds own resources and to augment them with external resources to get maximum improvement in field stand establishment and yield. To achieve this several physical physiological and biochemical treatments are available at present to give value addition to seeds. Physiological seed treatments that improve seed performance are based primarily on seed hydration and dehydration. Among several non physiological seed treatments coating or pelleting can also indirectly improve seed germination stand establishment and crop productivity.

The Complete Plant Selection Guide for Landscape Design Marc C. Stoecklein, 2011-03-15 This book is a quick and easy to use reference guide for choosing plant material for landscape designs. This reference manual includes comprehensive lists with search criteria for each of the major plant groups including trees shrubs groundcovers perennials vines grasses and ferns. These plant groups contain hundreds of specific species varieties and cultivars that are readily available in the marketplace from the major production nurseries. Landscape architects designers contractors or anyone who designs with plants can easily choose plants that will work on their site. The book is technical enough for the professional yet simple enough to be used by the layperson. Both botanical and common names are used and an extensive amount of cultural and environmental information is presented. While many other books of this kind give only basic information such as sun shade height width there are so many as 30 specific categories for each plant group. The categories cover such important criteria as light and soil requirements zone hardiness height and width pest and disease susceptibility urban tolerance and tolerance to salt and drought. The lists also include many criteria often overlooked such as growth rates overall messiness root systems minimal fall clean up maintenance levels soil PH and landscape value use and many visual characteristics such as texture foliage color and fall colors bloom colors and seasons shapes and forms attractive bark and foliage and more. There is also a candid Pros Cons section covering some realistic considerations for each of the plant species groups.
