Reel Civil War Mythmaking In American Film:

The Reel Civil War Bruce Chadwick, 2002-12-03 During the late nineteenth century magazines newspapers novelists and even historians presented a revised version of the Civil War that intending to reconcile the former foes downplayed the issues of slavery and racial injustice and often promoted and reinforced the worst racial stereotypes The Reel Civil War tells the history of how these misrepresentations of history made their way into movies More than 800 films have been made about the Civil War Citing such classics as Birth of a Nation and Gone With the Wind as well as many other films Bruce Chadwick shows how most of them have until recently projected an image of gallant soldiers beautiful belles sprawling plantations and docile or dangerous slaves He demonstrates how the movies aided and abetted racism and an inaccurate view of American history providing a revealing and important account of the power of cinema to shape our understanding of historical truth

Reel Civil War: Mythmaking in American Film Bruce Chadwick, 2002-12 In this landmark study cultural historian Bruce Chadwick traces the ways in which American film including such classics as Birth of a Nation and Gone With the Wind has consistently misrepresented history The Civil War has been depicted on film more than any other event in American history But until recently the war itself was more often portrayed as a misunderstanding between gentlemen than as the great national cataclysm it was Movie after movie has diminished or ignored the impact of slavery and romanticized the cause of the Confederacy Revealing how these distortions became accepted as essentially true by an ill informed public this is a fascinating portrait of the power of film to shape our understanding of history sure to appeal to film and history buffs alike

Writing History with Lightning

Matthew Christopher Hulbert, John C. Inscoe, 2019-02-05 Films possess virtually unlimited power for crafting broad interpretations of American history Nineteenth century America has proven especially conducive to Hollywood imaginations producing indelible images like the plight of Davy Crockett and the defenders of the Alamo Pickett's doomed charge at Gettysburg the proliferation and destruction of plantation slavery in the American South Custer's fateful decision to divide his forces at Little Big Horn and the onset of immigration and industrialization that saw Old World lifestyles and customs dissolve amid rapidly changing environments Balancing historical nuance with passion for cinematic narratives Writing History with Lightning confronts how movies about nineteenth century America influence the ways in which mass audiences remember understand and envision the nation's past In these twenty six essays divided by the editors into sections on topics like frontiers slavery the Civil War the Lost Cause and the West notable historians engage with films and the historical events they ostensibly depict Instead of just separating fact from fiction the essays contemplate the extent to which movies generate and promulgate collective memories of American history Along with new takes on familiar classics like Young Mr Lincoln and They Died with Their Boots On the volume covers several films released in recent years including The Revenant 12 Years a Slave The Birth of a Nation Free State of Jones and The Hateful Eight The authors address Hollywood epics like The Alamo and Amistad arguing that these movies flatten the historical record to promote nationalist visions The contributors also examine overlooked films like Hester Street and Daughters of the Dust considering their portraits of marginalized communities as transformative perspectives on American culture By surveying films about nineteenth century America Writing History with Lightning analyzes how movies create popular understandings of American history and why those interpretations change over time

Rollins, John E. O'Connor, 2008-07-25 A wide ranging and sophisticated anthology comparing theaters of war to wars in the movie theater Dennis Showalter author of Patton and Rommel Why We Fought makes a powerful case that film can be as valuable a tool as primary documents for improving our understanding of the causes and consequences of war A comprehensive look at war films from depictions of the American Revolution to portrayals of September 11 and its aftermath this volume contrasts recognized history and historical fiction with the versions appearing on the big screen The text considers a selection of the pivotal war films of all time including All Quiet on the Western Front Sands of Iwo Jima Apocalypse Now Platoon and Saving Private Ryan revealing how film depictions of the country's wars have shaped our values politics and culture and offering a unique lens through which to view American history Named as a Choice Outstanding

Academic Title Americanizing the Movies and Movie-Mad Audiences, 1910-1914 Richard Abel, 2006-08-28 This engaging deeply researched study provides the richest and most nuanced picture we have to date of cinema both movies and movie going in the early 1910s At the same time it makes clear the profound relationship between early cinema and the construction of a national identity in this important transitional period in the United States Richard Abel looks closely at sensational melodramas including westerns cowboy cowboy girl and Indian pictures Civil War films especially girl spy films detective films and animal pictures all popular genres of the day that have received little critical attention He simultaneously analyzes film distribution and exhibition practices in order to reconstruct a context for understanding moviegoing at a time when American cities were coming to grips with new groups of immigrants and women working outside the home Drawing from a wealth of research in archive prints the trade press fan magazines newspaper advertising reviews and syndicated columns the latter of which highlight the importance of the emerging star system Abel sheds new light on the history of the film industry on working class and immigrant culture at the turn of the century and on the process of imaging a national community

The Columbia Companion to American History on Film Peter C. Rollins, 2004-03-24 American history has always been an irresistible source of inspiration for filmmakers and today for good or ill most Americans sense of the past likely comes more from Hollywood than from the works of historians In important films such as The Birth of a Nation 1915 Roots 1977 Apocalypse Now 1979 and Saving Private Ryan 1998 how much is entertainment and how much is rooted in historical fact In The Columbia Companion to American History on Film more than seventy scholars consider the gap between history and Hollywood They examine how filmmakers have presented and interpreted the most important events topics eras and figures in the American past often comparing the film versions of events with the interpretations of the best historians who have explored the topic Divided into eight broad categories Eras Wars and Other Major Events Notable People Groups Institutions and Movements Places Themes and Topics and Myths and Heroes the volume features extensive cross references a filmography of discussed and relevant films notes and a bibliography of selected historical works on each subject The Columbia Companion to American History on Film is also an important resource for teachers with extensive information for research or for course development appropriate for both high school and college students Though each essay reflects the unique body of film and print works covering the subject at hand every essay addresses several fundamental questions What are the key films on this topic What sources did the filmmaker use and how did the film deviate or remain true to its sources How have film interpretations of a particular historical topic changed and what sorts of factors technological social political historiographical have affected their evolution Have filmmakers altered the historical record with a view to enhancing drama or to enhance the truth of their putative message
