Reflexivity And Revolution In The New Novel

Karen L. Taylor

Reflexivity And Revolution In The New Novel:

Reflexivity and Revolution in the New Novel Cecile Lindsay, 1990 The eight novel in Claude Ollier's fictional cycle Le Jeu d'enfant Child's play game are linked by a complex pattern of recurring characters structures situations and passages that form an investigation into the nature and functioning of fiction itself The principal thread binding the works is a male protagonist who in various guises journeys through alien threatening environments Simultaneously Ollier leads his reader into an exploration of the nature of alien texts that disrupt and undermine the traditional forms and procedures of the novel in an effort to create a revolutionary way of writing and reading fiction

Reflexivity and Revolution in the New Novel Cecile Lindsay, Of Words and the World David R. Ellison, 1993-03-22 Here David Ellison explores the problems encountered by France's best experimental authors writing between 1956 and 1984 when faced with the question What should my writing be about These years are characterized by the rise of the new novelists who questioned the representational function of writing as they created works of imagination that turned in upon themselves and away from exterior reality It became fashionable at one point to affirm that literature was no longer about the world but uniquely about the words on a page the signifying surface of the text Ellison tests this assumption showing that even in the most seemingly self-referential fictions the words point to the world from which they can never completely separate themselves Through close readings Ellison examines the novels and theoretical writings of authors whose works are fundamental to our perception of contemporary French writing and thought Camus Robbe Grillet Simon Duras Sarraute Blanchot and Beckett The result is a new understanding of the link between the referential function of literary language and the problematic of the ethics of fiction

The Facts on File Companion to the French Novel Karen L. Taylor, 2006 French novels such as Madame Bovary and The Stranger are staples of high school and college literature courses This work provides coverage of the French novel since its origins in the 16th century with an emphasis on novels most commonly studied in high school and college courses in world literature and in French culture and civilization

Heterosexual Masculinities and the Self Reflexive Novel examines how the narratives of four world renowned authors namely J M Coetzee Milan Kundera Philip Roth and Mario Vargas Llosa offer a standpoint through which to address the inscription of heterosexual masculinity into Western literary legacy and the ways in which masculinity is re fashioned in contemporary self reflexive novels Considering the interconnectedness of their narratives for the first time the book explores unexamined patterns of dialogue among Coetzee Kundera Roth and Vargas Llosa while also contextualising their writing in the light of the European literary tradition inaugurated by Cervantes s Don Quixote and continued by Flaubert s Madame Bovary Rather than building on conventional theoretical approaches to literary studies Stefano Rossoni develops a fresh and engaging approach by looking at these two works not only as narrative texts but most importantly as theories of literature In dialogue with critical contributions that examined men s emotional illiteracy and struggle to develop a language for self reflection the book argues that the narratives of Coetzee Kundera Roth and Vargas Llosa engage with the tradition of the self reflexive novel and its ramifications to reflect on masculinity as a socio cultural construction Ultimately their writing reveals men s novelistic self reflexivity as a site of unintelligibility Presocratic Reflexivity: The Construction of Philosophical

Discourse c. 600-450 B.C. Barry Sandywell,2002-11-01 In this third Volume of Logological Investigations Sandywell continues his sociological reconstruction of the origins of reflexive thought and discourse with special reference to pre Socratic philosophy and science and their socio political context Art, History, and Postwar Fiction Kevin

Brazil,2018-10-18 Art History and Postwar Fiction explores the ways in which novelists responded to the visual arts from the aftermath of the Second World War to the present day If art had long served as a foil to enable novelists to reflect on their craft this book argues that in the postwar period novelists turned to the visual arts to develop new ways of conceptualizing the relationship between literature and history The sense that the novel was becalmed in the end of history was pervasive in the postwar decades In seeming to bring modernism to a climax whilst repeating its foundational gestures visual art also raised questions about the relationship between continuity and change in the development of art In chapters on Samuel Beckett William Gaddis John Berger and W G Sebald and shorter discussions of writers like Doris Lessing Kathy Acker and Teju Cole this book shows that writing about art was often a means of commenting on historical developments of the period the Cold War the New Left the legacy of the Holocaust Furthermore it argues that forms of postwar visual art from abstraction to the readymade offered novelists ways of thinking about the relationship between form and history that went beyond models of reflection or determination By doing so this book also argues that attention to interactions between literature and art can provide critics with new ways to think about the relationship between literature and history beyond reductive oppositions between formalism and historicism autonomy and context

Revolutionary Imaginings in the 1790s A. Garnai,2009-10-09 Revolutionary Imaginings in the 1790s discusses the work of three prominent women writers by focusing on the response to the French Revolution and the struggle for reform in Britain Examining previously neglected texts as well as more familiar ones the book contributes to our understanding of a period of intense political and literary engagement
