Robert Vickrey, Artist at Work Robert Vickrey, 1979      Robert Vickrey Philip Eliasoph, Robert Vickrey, 2008 Robert Vickrey's unique vision and meticulous painstaking technique have sustained him throughout a sixty year career. He is widely considered to be a living master of using egg tempera, the same labor intensive medium used by Renaissance painters including Giotto and Cennini. But Vickrey's concerns are distinctly twentieth century in the subjects and themes he has chosen from childhood innocence to the dichotomy of urban versus country living. A quintessential Realist, Vickrey endeavored to explore the human condition within a distinctively American environment. writes author Philip Eliasoph whose essay argues that Vickrey's work builds a bridge from Surrealism and New Objectivity to Magic Realism. Described by the New York Times as the world's most proficient craftsman in tempera painting and an immaculate technician, Vickrey's oeuvre is the fiercely independent work of one of its most unorthodox and even most daring inventors. according to Eliasoph.
