Handbook Of The Sociology Of Youth In Brics Countries Tom Dwyer, Mikhail K Gorshkov, Ishwar Modi, Chunling Li, Mokong S Mapadimeng, 2017-11-08 Youth are by definition the future This book brings initial analyses to bear on youth in the five BRICS countries Brazil Russia India China and South Africa which are home to nearly half of the world's youth Very little is known about these youth outside of their own countries since the mainstream views on youth and youth culture are derived from the available literature on youth in the industrialized West which is home to a small part of the world's youth This book aims to help fill in this gap The handbook examines the state of youth their past present and permits the development of insights about future The BRICS countries have all engaged in development processes and some remarkable improvements in young people's lives over recent decades are documented However the chapters also show that these gains can be undermined by instabilities poor decisions and external factors in those countries Periods of economic growth political progress cultural opening up and subsequent reversals rearticulate differently in each society The future of youth is sharply impacted by recent transformations of economic political and social realities As new opportunities emerge and the influence of tradition on youth's lifestyles weakens and as their norms and values change the youth enter into conflict with dominant expectations and power structures The topics covered in the book include politics education health employment leisure Internet identities inequalities and demographics The chapters provide original insights into the development of the BRICS countries and place the varied mechanisms of youth development in context This handbook serves as a reference to those who are interested in having a better understanding of today's youth Readers will become acquainted with many issues that are faced today by young people and understand that through fertile dialogues and cooperation youth can play a role in shaping the future of the world

Making Sense of Education in Post-Handover Hong Kong Thomas Kwan-Choi Tse, Michael H. Lee, 2016-11-10 Since 1997 when Hong Kong became a Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China a string of education reforms have been introduced to improve the quality of education and maintain Hong Kong's economic competitiveness in the age of globalization This book provides a comprehensive and critical analysis of major issues and challenges faced by the education system ranging from pre school to higher education It analyses the prospects for educational development in Hong Kong It further addresses how the Hong Kong government has responded to the perceived challenges of the external environment and internal forces and explains the rationales for the actions taken Not only does it review how the reform initiative challenges have been dealt with it also reviews how effective these initiatives are and its implications on future directions

Higher Education and the Common Good Simon

Marginson,2016-12-19 In the last half century higher education has moved from the fringe to the centre of society and accumulated a long list of functions In the English speaking world Europe and much of East Asia more than two thirds of all school students enter tertiary education Bulging at the seams universities are meant to be fountains of new knowledge engines of prosperity and innovation drivers of regional growth skilled migration and global competitiveness and makers of equality of opportunity Yet universities cannot drive prosperity on their own and they can do little to stop rising income inequality which is shaped by taxation policy and income determination in the workplace Worse the growing emphasis on the private benefits of higher education without regard for its public benefits has positioned the higher education sector as elite forming as a maker of social inequality rather than a corrective to it In the English speaking countries in which government sees itself as servant of high capitalism official policy models higher education as a market and has narrowed its purpose to the enhancement of individual earnings and employability partly to justify the ever rising tuition fees Higher education systems have become intensely competitive and increasingly stratified with value concentrated at the top In this quasi aristocratic economics of education mass institutions are losing social value and the collective public benefits of universities are unmonitored underfunded and ignored In short governments expect both too much and too little of higher education and its contribution to the common good is being eroded Yet this sector can play a key role in rebuilding social solidarity and mobility in fractured societies

Hall,Neha Mishra,2024-08-04 This timely and unique edited book explores the concept of colorism which is discrimination based on the color of a person s skin

It takes a global approach that draws on authentic voices from varied contexts and is dedicated to exploring and enriching the diverse intellectual discourse on colorism. The book explores colorism across the globe and studies how it has been woven into the cultural fabric of communities of color. With 22 chapters organised geographically into parts representing six continents, it looks at various facets of colorism, offering international insights beyond a Western perspective. The handbook examines policy making in the sphere of colorism internationally and across countries and provides thoughtful insights on colorism discrimination in different contexts. Chapters are written by leading experts from different disciplinary backgrounds who present cutting edge research on the topic of colorism in different country contexts, contributing to a global dialogue on colorism. The Routledge International Handbook of Colorism comprehensively highlights colorism and skin color bias which blurs the national and international boundaries. It will be fascinating reading for students and academics in psychology, social work, education, criminal justice, and other social sciences. It will also be of interest to those working in areas relating to marginalization, human rights, diversity, and inclusion.

Metrolingualism Alastair Pennycook, Emi Otsuji, 2015-03-05. This book is about language and the city. Pennycook and Otsuji introduce the notion of metrolingualism, showing how language and the city are deeply involved in a perpetual exchange between people, history, migration, architecture, urban landscapes, and linguistic resources. Cities and languages are in constant change as new speakers with new repertoires come into contact as a result of globalization and the increased mobility of people and languages. Metrolingualism sheds light on the ordinariness of linguistic diversity as people go about their daily lives, getting things done, eating and drinking, buying and selling, talking and joking, drawing on whatever linguistic resources are available. Engaging with current debates about multilingualism and developing a new way of thinking about language, the authors explore language within a number of contemporary urban situations, including cafés, restaurants, shops, streets, construction sites, and other places of work in two diverse cities, Sydney and Tokyo. This is an invaluable look at how people of different backgrounds get by linguistically.

Metrolingualism: Language in the city will be of special interest to advanced undergraduate, postgraduate students, and researchers of sociolinguistics and applied linguistics.

Monumentalising Life in the Neolithic Anne Birgitte Gebaer, Lasse Sørensen, Anne Teather, António Carlos Valera, 2020-09-30. One of the principal characteristics of the European Neolithic is the development of monumentality in association with innovations in material culture and changes in subsistence from hunting and gathering to farming and pastoralism. The papers in this volume discuss the latest insights into why monumental architecture became an integral part of early farming societies in Europe and beyond. One of the topics is how we define monuments and how our arguments and recent research on temporality impacts on our interpretation of the Neolithic period. Different interpretations of Göbekli Tepe are examples of this discussion, as well as our understanding of special landmarks such as flint mines. The latest evidence on the economic and paleoenvironmental context, carbon 14 dates, as well as analytical methods, are employed in illuminating the emergence of monumentalism in Neolithic Europe. Studies are taking place on a macro and micro scale in areas as diverse as Great Britain Denmark Sweden Poland Germany the Dutch wetlands Portugal and Malta involving a range of monuments from long barrows and megalithic tombs to roundels and enclosures Transformation from a natural to a built environment by monumentalizing part of the landscape is discussed as well as changes in megalithic architecture in relation to shifts in the social structure An ethnographic study of megaliths in Nagaland discuss monument building as an act of social construction Other studies look into the role of monuments as expressions of cosmology and active loci of ceremonial performances Also a couple of papers analyse the social processes in the transformation of society in the aftermath of the initial boom in monument construction and the related changes in subsistence and social structure in northern Europe The aim of the publication is to explore different theories about the relationship between monumentality and the Neolithic way of life through these studies encompassing a wide range of types of monuments over vast areas of Europe and beyond
