values particularly as they assess the relative merits of men and women spirit and matter In depictions of comparative encounters the commonplace meetings of everyday life such fiction often registers the inequalities that distinguish one individual from another by marking one of them with a smell In a surprisingly consistent fashion these references constitute what cultural anthropologists call an osmology a system of differentiations that reveals the status within a particular culture of the persons and things associated with specific odors Featuring often innocuous and even potentially pleasing aromas emanating from food flowers and certain kinds of labor novels of the 1860s array their characters into distinct categories finding in some rather than others olfactory proof of their materiality Central to this osmology is the difference between characters who give off odors and those who do not and this study draws upon the work of Victorian psychophysiologists and popular commentators on the senses to establish the subtlety with which fictional representations make that distinction By exploring the far reaching implications of this osmology in specific novels by Dickens Eliot Meredith Oliphant Trollope and Yonge Common Scents argues that the strikingly similar plots and characterizations typical of the 1860s responding as they do to the economic and political concerns of the decade reconfigure conventional understandings of the relations between men and women Determining who smells reveals what Victorian culture at its epitome takes for granted as a deeply embedded common sense the recognition of whose self evident truth seems to be as instinctive and automatic as a response to an odor

Sacred Scents in Early Christianity and Islam Mary Thurlkill, 2016-07-26

Medieval scholars and cultural historians have recently turned their attention to the question of smells and what olfactory sensations reveal about society in general and holiness in particular Sacred Scents in Early Christianity and Islam contributes to that conversation explaining how early Christians and Muslims linked the sweet smell of sanctity with ideals of the body and sexuality created boundaries and sacred space and imagined their emerging communal identity Most importantly scent itself transgressive and difficult to control signaled transition and transformation between categories of meaning Christian and Islamic authors distinguished their own fragrant ethical and theological ideals against the stench of oppositional heresy and moral depravity Orthodox Christians ridiculed their stinking Arian neighbors and Muslims denounced the reeking corruption of Umayyad and Abbasid decadence Through the mouths of saints and prophets patriarchal authors labeled perfumed women as existential threats to vulnerable men and consigned them to enclosed private space for their protection as well as society's At the same time theologians praised both men and women who purified and transformed their bodies into aromatic offerings to God Both Christian and Muslim pilgrims venerated sainted men and women with perfumed offerings at tombstones indeed Christians and Muslims often worshipped together honoring common heroes such as Abraham Moses and Jonah Sacred Scents begins by surveying aroma's quotidian functions in Roman and pre-Islamic cultural milieus within homes temples poetry kitchens and medicines Existing scholarship tends to frame scent as something available only to the wealthy or elite however perfumes spices and incense wafted through the lives of most early Christians and Muslims It ends by examining both traditions' views of Paradise identified as the archetypal Garden and source of all perfumes and sweet smells Both Christian and Islamic texts explain Adam and Eve's profound grief at losing access to these heavenly aromas and celebrate God's mercy in allowing earthly remembrances Sacred scent thus prompts humanity's grief for what was lost and the yearning for paradisiacal transformation still to come A Nightmare's Point of View April Kuper Winterblade 1980, 2021-06-02 Nightmares never go away You may chase them away You can think you killed them You may stop believing and forget them but Nightmares never go away Nightmares don't die They just wait Scent of Magic Maria V. Snyder, 2013-01-01 As the last Healer in the Fifteen Realms Avry of Kazan is in a unique position in the minds of friends and foes alike she no longer exists Despite her need to prevent the megalomaniacal King Tohon from winning control of the Realms Avry is also determined to find her sister and repair their estrangement And she must do it alone as Kerrick her partner and sole confidant returns to Alga to summon his country into battle Though she should be in hiding Avry will do whatever she can to support Tohon's opponents Including infiltrating a holy army evading magic sniffers teaching forest skills to soldiers and figuring out how to stop Tohon's most horrible creations yet an army of the walking dead human and animal alike and nearly impossible to defeat War is coming and Avry is alone Unless she figures out how to do the impossible again The Ephemeral History of Perfume Holly Dugan, 2011-09-14 In contrast to the other senses smell has long been thought of as too elusive too fleeting for traditional historical study Holly Dugan disagrees arguing that there are rich accounts documenting how men and women produced consumed and represented perfumes and their ephemeral effects She delves deeply into the cultural archive of olfaction to explore what a sense of smell reveals about everyday life in early modern England In this book Dugan focuses on six important scents incense rose sassafras rosemary ambergris and jasmine She links these smells to the unique spaces they inhabited churches courts contact zones plague ridden households luxury markets and pleasure gardens and the objects used to dispense them This original approach provides a rare opportunity to study how early modern men and women negotiated the environment in their everyday lives and the importance of smell to their daily actions Dugan defines perfume broadly to include spices flowers herbs animal parts trees resins and other ingredients used to produce artificial scents smokes fumes airs balms powders and liquids In researching these Renaissance aromas Dugan uncovers the extraordinary ways now largely lost that people at the time spoke and wrote about smell objects ambered civited expired fetored halited resented and smeeked or were described as breathful embathed endulced gracious halited incensial odorant pulvil redolent and suffite A unique contribution to early modern studies The Ephemeral History of Perfume is an unparalleled study of olfaction in the Renaissance a period in which new scents and important cultural theories about smell were developed Dugan's inspired analysis of a wide range of underexplored sources makes available to scholars a remarkable wealth of information on the topic American Rambler David Latham, 2007 You'll laugh out loud when you read American Rambler AWARD WINNING HUMOR WRITER DAVID F LATHAM is editor of The Montanian a weekly newspaper in Libby Montana and author of over 170 humor columns short stories and news parodies Readers say his American Rambler column is funnier than Dave Barry and a cross between Patrick McManus and George Carlin His first two books of short stories The Storyteller's Guide to Leona
