This volume makes an important contribution to our understanding of the complex relationship between economic growth and poverty reduction. The focus on assessing the impact of specific poverty reduction interventions at the disaggregated case study level marks an important and welcome departure from the standard approach to research in this area. Researchers and practitioners working in the field of poverty reduction and development in Asia and beyond will find much to interest them in this stimulating and informative volume. Colin Kirkpatrick, University of Manchester, UK. Poverty Strategies in Asia is an examination of a wide range of measures aimed at reducing poverty in the region. It is widely recognized that while high and sustained economic growth is critical for poverty reduction, there are other policy interventions that may also be significant in a growth plus approach to poverty reduction. This volume brings together a series of case studies on the poverty impact of alternative interventions in a broad range of Asian economies. The measures examined within the book cover trade liberalization both in general and in a specific market infrastructure investment, particularly in roads, population policies, cash transfers, microfinance, employment guarantee programs, and contract farming. The countries covered include the Philippines, Lao PDR, Pakistan, India, and Thailand. While the results illustrated by the contributors are mixed, they demonstrate the potential for further progress in poverty reduction. This latest joint publication by the ADBI and Edward Elgar Publishing will be warmly welcomed by scholars and researchers of Asian studies and development. Professional economists within international and bilateral development agencies and policymakers will also find much to engage them. Dynamics of New Panchayati Raj System in India: Capacity building G. Palanithurai, 2002. Contributed articles Politics Embedded Stefanie Strulik, 2014. As a contribution to the anthropology of democracy, this book examines a local governance reform in India, focusing particularly on the 33% women's quota. It highlights the interrelatedness of doing gender and doing politics and delineates the transformations of gendered political spaces and the shifting boundaries within which women of various castes and classes negotiate the meanings of politics. The book investigates the vernacularization of democracy and analyzes local politics as socially embedded, a framework that allows the frictions and contradictions of local politics to be explained without having to take recourse to dichotomies of traditional vs. modern or formal vs. informal politics.
