School At Mopass A Problem Of Identity:

The School at Mopass Alfred Richard King, 1982 School at Mopass A. Richard King, 1983 Therapeutic Nations Dian Million, 2013-09-26 Self determination is on the agenda of Indigenous peoples all over the world This analysis by an Indigenous feminist scholar challenges the United Nations based human rights agendas and colonial theory that until now have shaped Indigenous models of self determination Gender inequality and gender violence Dian Million argues are critically important elements in the process of self determination Million contends that nation state relations are influenced by a theory of trauma ascendant with the rise of neoliberalism Such use of trauma theory regarding human rights corresponds to a therapeutic narrative by Western governments negotiating with Indigenous nations as they seek self determination Focusing on Canada and drawing comparisons with the United States and Australia Million brings a genealogical understanding of trauma against a historical filter Illustrating how Indigenous people are positioned differently in Canada Australia and the United States in their articulation of trauma the author particularly addresses the violence against women as a language within a greater politic The book introduces an Indigenous feminist critique of this violence against the medicalized framework of addressing trauma and looks to the larger goals of decolonization Noting the influence of humanitarian psychiatry Million goes on to confront the implications of simply dismissing Indigenous healing and storytelling traditions Therapeutic Nations is the first book to demonstrate affect and trauma s wide ranging historical origins in an Indigenous setting offering insights into community healing programs The author s theoretical sophistication and original research make the book relevant across a range of disciplines as it challenges key concepts of American Indian and Indigenous studies Nichu John Calhoun Singleton, 1982-12 The Cultural Production of the Educated Person Bradley A. Levinson, Douglas E. Foley, Dorothy C. Holland, 1996-03-07 Eleven historical ethnographic case studies examine the social and cultural projects of modern schools and the contestations dramatic and not that emerge in and around and against them These case studies ranging from Taiwan to South Texas build upon an original joining of anthropology critical education theory and cultural studies The studies advance the concept of cultural production as a way of understanding the dynamics of power and identity formation underlying different forms of education Using the concept of the educated person as a culture specific construct the authors examine conflicts and points of convergence between cultural practices and knowledges that are produced in and out of schools Resources in Education , 1972 Places of Memory Alan Peshkin, 2013-11-26 While visiting New Mexico the author was struck with the opportunity the state presents to explore the school community relationship in rural religious and multiethnic sociocultural settings In New Mexico the school community relationship can be learned within four major culture groups Indian Spanish American Mexican and Anglo Together studies of these culture groups form a portrait of schooling in New Mexico further documenting the range of ways that host communities in our educationally decentralized society use the prerogatives of local control to create schools that fit local cultural inclinations The first of four planned volumes this book studies the Pueblo Indians and Indian High School The school is a nonpublic state accredited off reservation boarding school for more than 400 Indian students A large majority of the students are from Pueblo tribes while others are from Navajo and Apache tribes As a state accredited school it subscribes to curricular safety and other requirements of New Mexico As a nonpublic school devoted to Indian students it has the prerogative to be as distinctive as the ethnic group it serves USE SHORT BLURB COPY FOR CATALOGS This ethnography of the Pueblo Indians and Indian High School explores some of the ways that host communities in our decentralized society use the prerogatives of local custom to create schools that fit local cultural inclinations Research in Education ,1972

American Indian Education, 2nd Edition Jon Reyhner, Jeanne Eder, 2017-11-02 Before Europeans arrived in North America Indigenous peoples spoke more than three hundred languages and followed almost as many distinct belief systems and lifeways But in childrearing the different Indian societies had certain practices in common including training for survival and teaching tribal traditions The history of American Indian education from colonial times to the present is a story of how Euro Americans disrupted and suppressed these common cultural practices and how Indians actively pursued and preserved them American Indian Education recounts that history from the earliest missionary and government attempts to Christianize and civilize Indian children to the most recent efforts to revitalize Native cultures and return control of schools to Indigenous peoples Extensive firsthand testimony from teachers and students offers unique insight into the varying experiences of Indian education Historians and educators Jon Reyhner and Jeanne Eder begin by discussing Indian childrearing practices and the work of colonial missionaries in New France Canada New England Mexico and California then conduct readers through the full array of government programs aimed at educating Indian children From the passage of the Civilization Act of 1819 to the formation of the Bureau of Indian Affairs in 1824 and the establishment of Indian reservations and vocation oriented boarding schools the authors frame Native education through federal policy eras treaties removal assimilation reorganization termination and self determination Thoroughly updated for this second edition American Indian Education is the most comprehensive single volume account useful for students educators historians activists and public servants interested in the history and efficacy of educational reforms past and present They Called it Prairie Light K. Tsianina Lomawaima, 1995-08-01 Established in 1884 and operative for nearly a century the Chilocco Indian School in Oklahoma was one of a series of off reservation boarding schools intended to assimilate American Indian children into mainstream American life Critics have characterized the schools as destroyers of Indian communities and cultures but the reality that K Tsianina Lomawaima discloses was much more complex Lomawaima allows the Chilocco students to speak for themselves In recollections juxtaposed against the official records of racist ideology and repressive practice students from the 1920s and 1930s recall their loneliness and demoralization but also remember with pride the love and mutual support binding them together the forging of new pan Indian identities and reinforcement of old tribal ones A National Crime John S.

Milloy,2011-08-01 I am going to tell you how we are treated I am always hungry Edward B a student at Onion Lake School 1923 If I were appointed by the Dominion Government for the express purpose of spreading tuberculosis there is nothing finer in existence than the average Indian residential school N Walker Indian Affairs Superintendent 1948 For over 100 years thousands of Aboriginal children passed through the Canadian residential school system Begun in the 1870s it was intended in the words of government officials to bring these children into the circle of civilization the results however were far different More often the schools provided an inferior education in an atmosphere of neglect disease and often abuse Using previously unreleased government documents historian John S Milloy provides a full picture of the history and reality of the residential school system He begins by tracing the ideological roots of the system and follows the paper trail of internal memoranda reports from field inspectors and letters of complaint In the early decades the system grew without planning or restraint Despite numerous critical commissions and reports it persisted into the 1970s when it transformed itself into a social welfare system without improving conditions for its thousands of wards A National Crime shows that the residential system was chronically underfunded and often mismanaged and documents in detail and how this affected the health education and well being of entire generations of Aboriginal children
