Secret Africa:

Inventing Africa Robin Derricourt, 2011-03-04 Inventing Africa is a critical account of narratives which have selectively interpreted and misinterpreted the continent's deep past. Writers have created alluring images of lost cities, vast prehistoric migrations and golden ages of past civilisations. Debates continue on the African origins of humankind, the contributions of ancient Egypt to the world and Africa's importance to global history. Images of Africa simplifying a complex and diverse continent have existed from ancient Mediterranean worlds, slave trading nations and colonial powers to today's political elites, ecotourists and aid givers. Robin Derricourt draws on his background as publisher and practitioner in archaeology and history to explore the limits and the dangers of simplifications, arguing as with Said's concept of Orientalism that ambitious ideas can delude or oppress as well as inform. Defending Africa against some of the grand narratives that have been imposed upon its peoples, Inventing Africa will spark new debates in the history of Africa and of archaeology. Africa Various Authors, 2013-01-11 Complete set Since 1961 the Adelphi Papers have provided some of the most informed accounts of international and strategic relations. Produced by the world renowned International Institute of Strategic Studies, each paper provides a short account of a subject of topical interest by a leading military figure, policy maker or academic. The project reprints the first forty years of papers arranged into thematic sets. The collection as a whole provides a rich and insightful account of international affairs during a period which spans the second half of the Cold War, the fall of the communist bloc and the emergence of a new regime with the United States as the sole superpower. There is a wealth of global coverage. Four volumes on east and southeast Asia as well as individual volumes on China, Japan and Korea. Particular attention is given to the Middle East with volumes addressing internal sources of instability, geopolitics and the role of the superpowers, the Israel-Palestine conflict and the Iran-Iraq War and the first Gulf War. There is also a volume on oil and insecurity. There are also two volumes on Africa, the site of most of the world's wars during the period. The IISS has obviously made a particular contribution to the understanding of military strategy and this is reflected with material on topics such as urban and guerrilla warfare, nuclear deterrence and the role of information in modern warfare. Volumes on military strategy are complemented by approaches from other disciplines such as defence economics. Key selling points: Early papers were only distributed by the IISS and will have achieved limited penetration of the academic market. A host of major authors on a range of different subjects: eg Gerald Segal on China, Michael Leifer on Southeast Asia, Sir Lawrence Freedman on the revolution in military affairs, Raymond Vernon on multinationals and defence economics. Individual volumes will have a strong appeal to different markets: eg the volume on defence economics for economists, various volumes for Asian Studies etc. Africa's Hidden

Histories Karin Barber, 2006 Africa's Hidden Histories takes a private and personal look into the world of everyday Africans as they put pen to paper. As it explores the innovative, intense and sociable interest in reading and writing, the text opens new avenues for understanding a rich and hidden history of Africa's creative expression. Lehloesa,2011-08-22 In Africa no European country has had an influence as Britain The first tangible break in the development was achieved by the South African parliament in 1934 But already Britain had shaped and predetermined South Africa's future The country wanted no other than evolutionary change and this theme informed all administrations Deception was the name of the game as was the violation of resolutions of the United Nations Thus by the 1990s Britain was relative to other European countries in a far better position to influence the policies of an African National Congress run government elements break off from the Afrikaner Broederbond and form the Reyger an organization named after one of the sailing ships in Jan Van Riebeeck's fleet that anchored at Table Bay South Africa in April of 1652. They believe they are the enlightened. Led by the Shepherd Frederick Van Willem V the undisputed czar of Afrikaner, the Reyger draws up a master plan called the Voogskop strategy to influence the selection of government leadership in post-apartheid South Africa to ensure white mastery. On the other side is Jefferson Makanda, a young black man who has lost his father, uncle, and cousin because of race issues. He joins the African National Congress and trains to support the cause when he realizes that life for a black man in South Africa is nasty, brutish, and short. He understands he may pay for his life while paving a better path for other blacks. The Reyger Conspiracy follows a trail of betrayal, deceit, and love as the Voogskop strategy unfolds and others try to defeat it. AF Press Clips, 1980

South Africa's Weapons of Mass Destruction Helen E. Purkitt, Stephen F. Burgess, 2005-05-11. South Africa's Weapons of Mass Destruction offers an in-depth view of the secret development and voluntary disarmament of South Africa's nuclear, biological, and chemical weapons program. Project Coast. Helen E. Purkitt and Stephen F. Burgess explore how systems used for nuclear, biological, and chemical weapons in South Africa were acquired and established beyond the gaze of international and domestic political actors. On the basis of archival evidence from Project Coast and their own extensive interviews with military and political officials, Purkitt and Burgess consider what motivates countries to acquire and build such powerful weaponry and examine when and how decisions are made to dismantle a military arsenal voluntarily. Questions such as how to destroy weapons safely and keep them from reappearing on international markets are considered along with comparative strategies for successful disarmament in other nation states.
