Selected Readings in the Anthropology of Religion Stephen D. Glazier, Charles A. Flowerday, 2003-12-30 Brings together in one volume a number of key theoretical and methodological advances in the anthropological study of religion Chapters cover important topics not ordinarily included in books dealing with the anthropology of religion e g bipedalism the study of alcohol film and video images notions of religious agency In addition this collection is intended to build bridges between anthropologists of religion and religious studies scholars Over the last four decades anthropologists have grappled with the dialectical relationship between the examination of cultures from the emic or insider perspective and the etic or outsider perspective Nowhere is this creative tension more evident than in the anthropological study of religion In this volume anthropologists and religious studies scholars come to terms not only with a landscape that has shifted fundamentally but a landscape that is still shifting Essays in this collection raise new and important issues for the anthropological study of religion in new and important ways In intensely personal essays a number of contributors address two fundamental concerns in the study of religion 1 how should anthropologists deal with the beliefs and practices of others and 2 how should anthropologists deal with their own religious backgrounds and beliefs as these may affect their understanding of the beliefs and practices of others A partial resolution to both questions is necessary before the anthropological study of religion can advance to a higher level

Africa, in the Early 20th Century Caroline Jeannerat, 2023-01-20 Research into the history of Christian missions in the context of colonialism has focused primarily on missions as institutions and on the ways in which people were integrated into the economic political and ideological spheres of imperial powers Reduced to an experience occurring within a person faith was deemed unapproachable by scientific methods This has in effect constituted a silence regarding the everyday experience of religiosity among those drawn to Christianity The Ethnography of Faith is a detailed study of the ways in which people engage with and experience the religious in order to recognise and understand this suppressed voice of religiosity In her analysis of the Lutheran church in the Soutpansberg of early 20th century South Africa Caroline Jeannerat listens closely to how people describe their own faith and that of others in the archive in accounts of work done in texts written for mission publications in songs composed for church services in letters and newspaper articles and in oral memories A careful reading of this archive for breaks for misunderstandings and oppositions for sentiments of agreement praise compatibility and claims of shared experiences identifies negotiations of meaning which give indications of conceptualisations of faith that stand in distinction to those of the missionaries and their expectations

State, Nationalism, and Islamization Raja M. Ali Saleem, 2017-07-11 This book argues that Islam's role in state nationalism is the best predictor of the Islamization of government using two most different cases Turkey which was an aggressively secular country until recently and Pakistan a country that is synonymous with Islamization It establishes a causal link between Islam's role in state nationalism and Islamization of government during various periods of the history of both countries The indicators used to establish the causal link between Islam's role in state nationalism and Islamization are the presence of Islamic provisions in the constitution Islam inspired national symbols Islamic images on the national currency Islamic basis of family law a Department of Religious Affairs and governmental support for religious education The book concludes by identifying three causal mechanisms legitimacy mobilization and authenticity that link Islam's role in state nationalism and the Islamization of government Jesus Imandars and Christ Bhaktas

Jonas Adelin Jørgensen, 2008 The massive changes of Christianity during the 20th century raise the perennial question about its identity in a new radical form The author addresses the question of identity and asks how globalisation religious pluralism and the polycentric nature of Christianity affect Christian self identification and theological reflection First religious life and theological reflection among believers in Jesus from Muslim and Hindu background in South Asia is presented in two empirical studies Secondly the findings are analysed and interpreted within a broad theoretical framework drawing on models for syncretistic processes from history of religions cultural anthropology and Christian theology Finally the study concludes with a systematic theological perspective on the interreligious hermeneutics underlying the changes of Christianity and discusses how interreligious hermeneutics might inform missiology as well as Christian theologies of religions and how this might challenge our understanding of the church's nature and mission In conclusion it is argued that a global polycentric Christianity can be interpreted as fellowship created by the Spirit and centred on Christ Custodians of Purity
