Selected Poems 196999:

New and Selected Poems Fred Beake, 2006 Fred Beake has been writing since the late Sixties and this New and Selected provides a much needed overview of a constantly developing body of work About a third of the book is given over to the very fresh and colourful poems that have been written since he moved to South Devon in 2003 Beake has maintained an interest throughout his career in the short often very visual lyric but has also written offbeat fictions around particular characters and very musical longer pieces such as Marona and Towards the West that reflect if at a distance the poet's early interest in the French Surrealists This is an unusual poetry and hard to place in terms of the modern scene It occupies a position that is equidistant between the Imagists and Objectivists the Surrealists and much older things Maven in Blue Jeans Steven L. Jacobs, 2009 This collection of academic essays have been written in tribute to Professor Zev Garber and are divided to reflect the areas in which Professor Garber has devoted his teaching and writing energies the Holocaust Jewish Christian relations philosophy and theology history and biblical interpretation Robert Creeley Mary Novik, 1973-01-01

The Sound Sense of Poetry Peter Robinson, 2018-09-13 What real role can poetry have in the world How are its truths created by the words and sounds chosen by the poet and by the way readers respond to them Acclaimed poet Peter Robinson brings his knowledge of poetic art to the understanding of the reader's contribution in enabling poetry to play its part in life Emphasising the value of individual writers and readers interactions together with such key matters as meter and rhythm voicing and form rhyme and syntax Robinson shows how poems engage in speech performances such as promising justifying excusing and explaining including the telling of truths Illustrated with detailed readings of poems by among others Jonson Marvell Blake Wordsworth Coleridge Tennyson Christina Rossetti Dickinson Kipling Basil Bunting Frank O'Hara Tony Harrison and Denise Riley this book shows how important poetry is as a means to do things with words and make things happen Scattering Point Jeff Gundy, 2012-02-01 Part memoir part family history part meditation on history and the present this work of creative nonfiction allows Jeff Gundy to ask what it should mean to live in the world but not of it as the traditional Mennonite saying recommends As Scattering Point moves through time and space it repeatedly questions how a modern assimilated Mennonite poet and professor might live with some kind of fidelity to his tradition and to the promises and griefs of contemporary life Scattering Point takes its title from Scattering Point Creek which has its source on the author's family farm in Illinois This book explores that place while also ranging widely from it and the Amish and Mennonites who have been associated with the area for nearly the last century It traverses the Illinois prairie to churches and caves in Europe and incorporates family stories soil geology the architecture of cathedrals and churches reflections on depression and Mennonite martyrdoms and schisms Scattering Point speaks of the great questions of history and religion the quiet lives of Amish and Mennonite men and women whose histories are almost forgotten and of our lives today Readers of all backgrounds will see something of themselves in Jeff Gundy who writes I must admit it I do love this world and many though

The Edge of the Swamp Louis D. Rubin, Jr., 1999-03-01 The flowering of literary imagination known as the American Renaissance had few roots in the South While Hawthorne Emerson Melville Thoreau and Whitman were creating a body of work that would endure the only southern writer making a lasting contribution was Edgar Allan Poe This failure on the part of antebellum southern writers has long been a subject of debate among students of southern history and literature Now one of the region s most distinguished men of letters offers a cogently argued and gracefully written account of the circumstances that prevented early southern writers from creating transcendent works of art Louis D Rubin Jr brings forty years of critical integrity and imaginative involvement with the history and literature of the South to his informal inquiry into the foundations of the southern literary imagination His exploration centers on the lives and works of three of the most important writers of the pre Civil War South Poe William Gilmore Simms and Henry Timrod In a close and highly original reading of Poe s poetry and fiction Rubin shows just how profoundly growing up in Richmond Virginia influenced that writer The sole author of the Old South whose work has endured did not use southern settings or concern himself with his region s history or politics Poe was according to Rubin in active rebellion against the middle class community of Richmond and its materialistic values Simms on the other hand aspired to the plantation society ideal of his native Charleston South Carolina He was not the most devoted and energetic of southern writers and one of the country s best known and most respected literary figures before the Civil War Rubin finds an explanation for much of the lost promise of antebellum southern literature in Simms s career Here was a talented man who got caught up in the politically obsessed plantation community of Charleston becoming an apologist for the system and an ardent defender of slavery Timrod also a Charlestonian native was a highly gifted poet whose work attained the stature of literature when the Civil War gave him a theme He was known as the poet laureate of the Confederacy Only when his region was locked in a desperate military struggle for the right to exist did he suddenly find his enduring voice Anyone interested in southern life and literature will welcome his provocative and engaging new look at southern writing from one of the region s most perceptive critics [Sehnsucht: The C.
