Self Consciousness An Alternative Anthropology Of Identity:

Self Consciousness Anthony Cohen,2002 Traditionally the self and the individual have been treated as micro versions of larger social entities by the social sciences in general and by anthropology in particular In Self Consciousness Cohen examines this treatment of the self arguing that this practice has resulted in the misunderstanding of social aggregates precisely because the individual has been ignored as a constituent element By acknowledging the individual s self awareness as author of their own social conduct and of the social forms in which they participate this informs social and cultural processes rather than the individual being passively modelled by them Self Consciousness Anthony P. Cohen,1994

Narrative Identity Trevor Castor, 2021-11-09 Narrative Identity is the product of seven years of research among Muslim immigrants living in America. This book will help you to understand the role that stories have in shaping how we see the world ourselves and others by exploring the process of identity formation for one of the most feared and least understood Muslim peoples in the world: the Pashtun. The Pashtun are most often associated with the Taliban and for harboring Osama bin Laden after the attacks on 9/11. For centuries these people have been accustomed to war and ethnic tribal and religious violence in the regions of Afghanistan and Pakistan. As a result, the Pashtun are also one of the largest ethnic groups migrating throughout the West. More recently, their identity has been reduced to the violent actions of Islamic terrorism committed by a few Pashtun immigrants living in Western nations. This study explores the various factors that impact identity formation for Pashtun immigrants, including transnationalism, social media, and the ongoing negative media attention concerning Islam and Muslims. This book helps readers understand the nuances of identity formation which are critical to consider in order to avoid the crude categorizations so often associated with identity politics.

Social Identity Richard Jenkins, 2008 Developing the argument that identity is both individual and collective, the author explores the work of major social theorists such as Mead, Goffman, and Barth to explain the experience of identity in everyday life.

Urban Identity and the Atlantic World E. Fay, L. von Morze, 2013-02-21 The constant flow of people, ideas, and commodities across the Atlantic propelled the development of a public sphere. Chapters explore the multiple ways in which a growing urban consciousness influenced national and international cultural and political intersections.

The Oxford Handbook of Personality and Social Psychology Kay Deaux, Mark Snyder, 2018-10-02 The second edition of The Oxford Handbook of Personality and Social Psychology beautifully captures the history, current status, and future prospects of personality and social psychology. Building on the successes and strengths of the first edition, this second edition of the Handbook combines the two fields of personality and social psychology into a single integrated volume, offering readers a unique and generative agenda for psychology. Over their history, personality and social psychology have had varying relationships with each other, sometimes highly overlapping and intertwined, other times contrasting and competing. Edited by Kay Deaux and Mark Snyder, this Handbook is dedicated to the proposition that personality and social psychology are best viewed in conjunction with one another and that the synergy to be gained from considering links between the two fields can do much to move both areas of research forward in order to better enrich our collective understanding of human nature. Contributors to this Handbook not only offer readers fascinating examples of work that cross the boundaries of personality and social psychology but present their work in such a way that thinks deeply about the ways in which a unified social personality perspective can provide us with a greater understanding of the phenomena that concern psychological investigators. The chapters of this Handbook effortlessly weave together work from both disciplines, not only in areas of longstanding concern but also in newly emerging fields of inquiry addressing both distinctive contributions and common ground In so doing they offer compelling evidence for the power and the potential of an integrated approach to personality and social psychology today

The Griqua Conundrum Linda Waldman, 2007 This book offers a reconceptualisation of indigenous people and their political involvement It demonstrates the deep intertwining of constructions of indigeness and identity with national social and political histories and argues that differences and fractures within the indigenous movement between leaders spokespeople and ordinary men and women shape the nature of indigenous politics both nationally and internationally South Africa's resident population of Griqua provide the context for this exploration of indigenous mobilisation politics and ethnic identity The Griqua people have long sought and only recently acquired official recognition within their country of birth Using qualitative research methodologies and an anthropological approach this book documents negotiation between Griqua leaders organisers and government officials and in so doing details a complex process of mediation and interaction generally overlooked in the discourse of indigenous identity This exploration of identity is essential to understanding post apartheid South African history politics and society In addressing the marginalisation of Griqua followers and examining the meaning of being Griqua for those quieter poorer people who live in the small town of Griquatown and who are relatively isolated from the Indigenous People's Forum and the United Nations the book also examines the hidden dimensions of political and indigenous mobilisation

Carbaugh, 2001-01-01 Annotation This text evolved out of a December 1995 conference at the International Research Center for Cultural Studies IFK in Vienna attended by scholars from psychology psychiatry philosophy social sciences literary theory classics communication and film theory and exploring the importance of narrative as an expression of our experience as a form of communication and as a form for understanding the world and ourselves Nine scholars from Canada the US and Europe contribute 12 essays on the relationship between narrative and human identity how we construct what we call our lives and create ourselves in the process Coverage includes theoretical perspectives on the problem of narrative and self construction specific life stories in their cultural contexts and empirical and theoretical issues of autobiographical memory and narrative identity Annotation c Book News Inc Portland OR booknews.com Identity and the State in Malaysia Fausto Barlocco, 2013-12-04 Using the case study of the Kadazan of Sabah a region in the Malaysian section of Borneo this book examines national ethnic and local identities in post colonial states It shows the importance of the connection between lived experience and identity and belonging and by doing so provides a deeper and fuller explanation of the apparently contradictory conflict between different collective forms of identification and the way in which they are employed in reference to everyday situations Based on ethnographic fieldwork and historical analysis the book reconstructs the development of the cultural forms and labels associated with the collective identities it studies The author employs an approach that sees collective identification as an expression of everyday practices and that stresses the importance of participation and familiarity between forms of identification and lived experience In this context he considers anthropological debates about state minorities relations and issues of dignity and respect Explaining state minority relations in Malaysia and more generally in other post colonial realities the insights presented are highly relevant to other cases of conflicting allegiances and identity politics in settings of post colonial nation building

Exploring Prehistoric Identity in Europe
Victoria Ginn, Rebecca Enlander, Rebecca Crozier, 2014-03-19 Identity is relational and a construct and is expressed in a myriad of ways For example material culture and its pluralist meanings have been readily manipulated by humans in a prehistoric context in order to construct personal and group identities Artefacts were often from or reminiscent of far flung places and were used to demonstrate membership of an imagined regional or European community Earthworks frequently archive maximum visual impact through elaborate ramparts and entrances with the minimum amount of effort indicating that the construction of identities were as much in the eye of the perceiver as of the perceived Variations in domestic architectural style also demonstrate the malleability of identity and the prolonged intermittent use of particular places for specific functions indicates that the identity of place is just as important in our archaeological understanding as the identity of people By using a wide range of case studies both temporally and spatially these thought processes may be explored further and diachronic and geographic patterns in expressions of identity investigated
