Lurking Fear And Other Stories:

The Lurking Fear H. P. Lovecraft, 2018-10-17 The Lurking Fear is a story by H P Lovecraft in the horror fiction genre The narrator hearing tales of a lurking fear upon Tempest Mountain in the Catskills takes two men with him to investigate They camp inside the deserted Martense mansion as a lightning storm approaches and feeling strangely drowsy they all fall asleep The narrator wakes up to find both his companions missing and in a flash of lightning sees a demonic shadow cast upon the fireplace chimney from a grotesque monsters like the other one Continuing his investigation the narrator teams up with Arthur Munroe another journalist The two find as much information as they can on the mansion and environs until they find themselves trapped by yet another storm Bunkered in a small cabin they witness a bright flash of lightning Arthur looks out the window to survey the damage The narrator curious as to why Arthur is still staring out the window turns him to find his face chewed off As the narrator digs open the grave of Jan Martense he describes the history of the Martense family Upon reaching the coffin he continues to dig and subsequently falls into a subterranean burrow He crawls along until he sees two eyes reflecting his torch light in the darkness Yet another lightning strike causes the tunnel to cave in above the beast and the narrator has to dig his way to the surface He spots a red glare in the distance that he learns was a cabin that the hillside squatters had set alight with one of the beasts inside The narrator continues to search for more clues until it occurs to him that peculiar mounds of earth lead out in lines from the mansion He finds a burrow entrance in the basement as another storm approaches Finding a hiding place he watches as countless creatures crawl from the hole The narrator then sees one of the weaker members of the grotesque mob get attacked and eaten by one of its compatriots He shoots one of the creatures as it straggles behind the rest of the pack using a clap of thunder to disguise the muzzle blast and upon closer inspection notices the creature s heterochromia and realizes that the deformed hair covered creature is in fact a member of the Martense family who after many years of isolation have degenerated into apelike creatures

New Perspectives on the Gothic investigates the diverse roles that the uncanny as defined by Sigmund Freud Helene Cixous and other theorists plays in representing lesbian and male gay sexualities and transgender in a selection of contemporary British American and Caribbean fiction published 1980-2007. Novels by Christopher Bram, Alan Hollinghurst, Randall Kenan, Shani Mootoo, James Purdy, Sarah Schulman, Ali Smith, Sarah Waters, Jeanette Winterson and other writers are discussed in the context of queer theory and gothic critical writing. The notion of the uncanny as tangential and to one side and appearing on the fringe of something else as defined by Cixous and Rosemary Jackson appropriately evokes the situation of the queer individual living in a minority sub culture and existing in oblique relation to hetero normative society. Motifs with uncanny connotations discussed include secrets that society would prefer to remain hidden but come to light, spectral visitation, the emergence of repressed fears and desires, the double and the homely/unhomely house. Writers employ them to explore topics integral to queer existence. These include secrets relating to the closet and AIDS, homosexual panic, lesbian social invisibility, transgender subjectivity, the intersection between sexuality and race, the vilification of the queer subject as monstrous. Other the domestic life of the gay couple destabilised by homophobic influences from the public world and the heterosexual family disrupted by homosexual secrets from within. The queer recasting of gothic motifs such as the haunted house, the uncanny city, the grotesque body and the breakdown of the family due to paternal incest receives attention.

The Bloomsbury

Introduction to Popular Fiction Christine Berberich, 2014-12-18 Guiding readers through key writers and genres, historical contexts and major theoretical approaches, this is a comprehensive introduction to the study of popular fiction. Charting the rise of commercial fiction from the 19th century to today, The Bloomsbury Introduction to Popular Fiction includes introductory surveys written by leading scholars to a wide range of popular genres including Science Fiction, Crime Writing, Romance and Chick Lit, Adventure Stories and Lad Lit, Horror, Graphic Novels, Children's Literature. Part II of the book also includes case study readings of key writers and texts from the work of H.G. Wells, Ian Fleming and Raymond Chandler to more recent books such as Pride and Prejudice and Zombies. The book also includes a chapter covering The Writer's Perspective on popular publishing while annotated guides to further reading and online resources throughout give students the tools they need to pursue independent study on their courses.

Stephen King Albert Rolls, 2008-12-30 Now known worldwide for his horror creations in best selling books and popular film adaptations, Stephen King spent years in obscurity trying to find his voice and his audience. For much of his career he chose to remain in the small town Maine of his youth, far from glittering publishing and film centers, yet few American writers can now equal his hold on audiences worldwide. This biography traces King's evolution from would-be pulp magazine writer to master of his craft, whose work both epitomizes and transcends the horror genre.

Stephen King Rebecca Stefoff, 2011 Readers of the books in Today's Writers and Their Works will learn the story behind each writer's story.
