Natural Museums:

National Museums Simon Knell, Peter Aronsson, Arne Amundsen, 2014-05-22 National Museums is the first book to explore the national museum as a cultural institution in a range of contrasting national contexts. Composed of new studies of countries that rarely make a showing in the English language studies of museums, this book reveals how these national museums have been used to create a sense of national self, place the nation in the arts, deal with the consequences of political change, remake difficult pasts, and confront those issues of nationalism, ethnicity, and multiculturalism which have come to the fore in national politics in recent decades. National Museums combines research from both leading and new researchers in the fields of history, museum studies, cultural studies, sociology, history of art, media studies, science and technology studies, and anthropology. It is an interrogation of the origins, purpose, organisation, politics, narratives, and philosophies of national museums.

National Museums in Africa Raymond Silverman, George Abungu, Peter Probst, 2021-08-30 National Museums in Africa brings the voices of African museum professionals into dialogue with scholars and by so doing is able to consider the state of African national museums from fresh perspectives. Covering all regions of the continent, the volume's thirteen chapters allow for a deep and nuanced understanding of the intricate interplay between past and present in contemporary Africa. Taking stock of the shifting museum landscape in Africa with new players like China and South Korea challenging the conditions of cultural exchange, the book demonstrates that national museums are being rediscovered as important sites of political engagement and cultural negotiation. This is the first book to critically examine the roles national museums in Africa have played in the societies in which they are situated, but it is also the first to consider the roles that national museums might play in current debates concerning the restitution and repatriation of cultural patrimony taken from Africa during the colonial era. Informed by a comparative and interdisciplinary perspective, this ground-breaking book will appeal to anyone interested in museums in Africa. It will be particularly useful to scholars and students working in the areas of museum and heritage studies, African studies, anthropology, archaeology, history, art history, and cultural studies.

National Museums and the Origins of Nations Sheila Watson, 2020-10-28 National Museums and the Origins of Nations provides the first international survey of origin stories in national museums and examines the ways in which such museums use the distant past as a vehicle to reflect the concerns of the political present. Offering an international comparison of institutions in China, North and South America, the Middle East, Europe, and Australia, the book argues that national museums tell us more about what sort of community a nation wishes to be today than how and why that nation came into being. Watson also reveals the ways in which narrative and exhibition design attempt to engage the visitor in an emotional experience designed to promote loyalty to and pride in the nation, or to remind visitors who are not citizens that they do not belong. These narratives of origin, it is claimed, are based on so-called factual accuracies, but this book reveals that they are often selective, emotional, and rarely critiqued within institutions. At a time when nationalism is very much back on the political agenda this book highlights how museums reflect current political and social concerns National Museums and the Origins of Nations will appeal to academics and students engaged in the study of museums heritage politics nationalism and history

National Museums and Nation-building in Europe 1750-2010 Peter Aronsson, Gabriella Elgenius, 2014-12-05
Europe's national museums have since their creation been at the centre of on going nation making processes National museums negotiate conflicts and contradictions and entrain the community sufficiently to obtain the support of scientists and art connoisseurs citizens and taxpayers policy makers domestic and foreign visitors alike National Museums and Nation building in Europe 1750 2010 assess the national museum as a manifestation of cultural and political desires rather than that a straightforward representation of the historical facts of a nation National Museums and Nation building in Europe 1750 2010 examines the degree to which national museums have created models and representations of nations their past present and future and proceeds to assess the consequences of such attempts Revealing how different types of nations and states former empires monarchies republics pre modern modern or post imperial entities deploy and prioritise different types of museums based on art archaeology culture and ethnography in their making this book constitutes the first comprehensive and comparative perspective on national museums in Europe and their intricate relationship to the making of nations and states

Report of the National Museum United States National Museum, 1903      Report of the United States National Museum ... United States National Museum, 1901      Museums in the Second World War Catherine Pearson, 2017-06-26 Peacetime return to traditional collections concerns The past is intrinsic to museums The complexities of peacetime Appendix primary sources References Index      Reframing the Ethnographic Museum Michael Rowlands, Nick Stanley, Graeme Were, 2025-03-20 Since the later part of the twentieth century ethnographic museums have come under increasing scrutiny and many have reflected on and changed their presentation as they questioned collections so often made by colonial officials and explorers Now is a good time to explore whether new developments in display and cultural politics provide a viable future for ethnographic museums In particular policies for restitution by colonial era institutions create a changed landscape for ethnographic display both in the countries from which they originate and in former colonising states Reframing the Ethnographic Museum presents a wide range of cultural settings across the world where ethnographic displays have appeared in their local circumstances Non European museum strategies raise new problems but also new solutions Nationalism has been especially significant in museology in Asia and in Africa new museum objectives have emerged They share a problematic future in a digital age when the aura of artefacts is challenged by digital repositories and a public less willing to travel to visit original objects Authors in this book grapple with the new complexities facing them as curators in the contemporary world Praise for Reframing the Ethnographic Museum Ethnographic museums have been controversial and have been undergoing re invention for decades They are considered illegitimate but have renewed prominence as highly visible contact zones and theatres of cross cultural mediation This book reviews and explores the sector with insight and nuance reporting the successes and failures of key curatorial projects both within Europe and across the Global South Nicholas Thomas University of Cambridge      African Museums in the Making Munyaradzi Mawere, Henry Chiwaura, 2015-04-03 One of the central theoretical and practical issues in post colonial Africa is the relevance nature and politics at play in the management of museum institutions on the continent Most African museums were established during the 19th and 20th centuries as European imperialists were spreading their colonial tentacles across the continent The attainment of political independence has done little to undo or correct the obnoxious situation Most African countries continue to practice colonial museology despite surging scholarship and calls by some Afro centric and critical scholars the world over to address the quandaries on the continents museum institutions There is thus an unresolved struggle between the past and the present in the management of museums in Africa In countries such as Zimbabwe the struggle in museum management has been precipitated by the sharp economic downturn that has gripped the country since the turn of the millennium In view of all these glitches this book tackles the issue of the management of heritage in Zimbabwe The book draws on the findings by scholars and researchers from different academic orientations and backgrounds to advance the thesis that museums and museology in Zimbabwe face problems of epic proportions that require urgent attention It makes insightful suggestions on possible solutions to the tapestry of the inexorably enigmatic amalgam of complex problems haunting museum institutions in Zimbabwe calling for a radical transformation of museology as a discipline in the process This book should appeal to policy makers scholars researchers and students from disciplines such as museology archaeology social cultural anthropology and culture and heritage studies

Holocaust Memory and National Museums in Britain

Emily-Jayne Stiles, 2021-11-16 This book explores the Holocaust exhibition opened within the Imperial War Museum IWM in 2000 setting out the long and often contentious debates surrounding the conception design and finally the opening of an important exhibition within a national museum in Britain It considers a process of memory making through an assessment of Holocaust photographs material culture and survivor testimonies exploring theories of cultural memory as they apply to the national museum context Anchored in time and place the Holocaust exhibition within Britain's national museum of war is influenced by and reflects an international rise in Holocaust consciousness in the 1990s This book considers the construction of Holocaust memory in 1990s Britain providing a foundation for understanding current and future national memory projects Through all aspects of the display the Holocaust is presented as meaningful in terms of what it says about Nazism and what this in turn says about Britishness From the original debates surrounding the inclusion of a Holocaust gallery at the IWM to the acquisition of Holocaust artefacts that could act as concrete evidence of Nazi barbarity and criminality the Holocaust reaffirms an image of Britain that avoids critical self reflection despite raising uncomfortably close questions The various display elements are brought together to consider multiple strands of the Holocaust story as it is told by national museums in Britain

Report on the Progress and Condition of the United States National Museum

United States National Museum, 1903 Museum Provision and Professionalism Gaynor Kavanagh, 2005-06-20 Museums are public places where objects images and memories are kept and shared They exist in infinite variety and contradiction They can be places of great excitement and great boredom sharply insightful and hopelessly bland Museums are anything that the political climate and the imagination allows them to be No two museums are the same The papers which make up this volume give ample evidence of the variety of views that exist about museums They also demonstrate that museums and museum professionals are moving forward with energy and conviction This volume will be invaluable to students and museum professionals and will provoke them to consider museum provision and professionalism in all their forms
