The Realist Tradition and Contemporary International Relations W. David Clinton, 2007-07 The tradition in international relations theory known as realism has often been associated with the Cold War The contributors to this intriguing volume argue however that realism remains a profound and relevant perspective on contemporary international politics They point out that classical realism is based on concepts that were elucidated long before the Cold War began and are not confined by its boundaries Further they believe that insights of the realist tradition can provide valuable guidance in our contemporary world W David Clinton and ten scholars of foreign policy reexamine the work of thinkers spanning twenty five centuries who have contributed to the development of realism across the ages In their essays the authors consider two key questions What makes these thinkers realists And how is their work relevant to the modern post Cold War world These essays take a fresh look at such canonical thinkers as Thucydides Augustine Machiavelli Hobbes Hume Burke Carr Niebuhr and Morgenthau Countering the widespread belief that realism has nothing left to offer this collection demonstrates that continuities remain in the political world and that the ideas rooted in realism are too important and too useful to ignore While there are obvious differences among the political philosophers whose works are considered here they share a common concern about human limitations and the possible dangerous consequences of ignoring those limitations Each in his own way these classic thinkers discuss the need for prudence to counter the ever present threat of tragedy resulting from our innocent hopeful or self righteous efforts for perfection These provocative essays demonstrate that though a realist understanding of the nature of international relations is at least as old as Thucydides it is also as contemporaneous as the most recent headline

How perfectible is human nature as understood in Eastern and Western philosophy psychology and religion Harold Coward examines some of the very different answers to this question He poses that in Western thought including philosophy psychology Judaism Christianity and Islam human nature is often understood as finite flawed and not perfectible in religion requiring God's grace and the afterlife to reach the goal By contrast Eastern thought arising in India frequently sees human nature to be perfectible and presumes that we will be reborn until we realize the goal the various yoga psychologies philosophies and religions of Hinduism and Buddhism being the paths by which one may perfect oneself and realize release from rebirth Coward uses the striking differences in the assessment of how perfectible human nature is as the comparative focus for this book The Voice of Truth M.K. The Theological Vision of Reinhold Niebuhr's "The Irony of American History" Scott R. Erwin, 2013-06-13 Reinhold Niebuhr remains at the center of a national conversation about America s role in the world and commentators with divergent political and religious positions draw upon his 1951 work The Irony of American History in support of their views In this study Scott R Erwin argues that an appreciation of Niebuhr s theological vision is necessary for understanding the full measure of Irony An appreciation of Niebuhr s theology is important because the majority of individuals reading Irony today fail to acknowledge the central role that his Christian beliefs played in its formulation Niebuhr described his theological vision as being in the battle and above it and in more extensive terms explained it to be a combination of moral resoluteness about the immediate issues with a religious awareness of another dimension of meaning and judgment It was this perspective that led Niebuhr in Irony to assert that America must both take morally hazardous action in combating the aggression of the Soviet Union and engage in critical self evaluation to prevent the country from assuming the most odious traits of its Cold War foe Niebuhr developed this theological vision over the course of the 1930s and 1940s through engagement with Christian doctrine as most readily seen in his academic works such as The Nature and Destiny of Man and engagement with current history as seen in his many journalistic writings during this period By focusing primarily on Niebuhr s writings between 1931 and 1951 Erwin traces the development of his Christian interpretation of human nature and history establishes how it informed his theological vision and reveals how that theological vision underlay his writings on current affairs Such excavation is necessary given the fact that Niebuhr became less explicit about the theological nature of his later writings Indeed rather than clearly advance his theological vision in Irony Niebuhr chose to communicate it implicitly through the historical figure of Abraham Lincoln In multiple writings over the course of his career Niebuhr referred to the sixteenth president as both America s greatest statesman and theologian and ultimately portrayed him as the personification of his own religious beliefs Erwin demonstrates that the study of both Niebuhr s theological vision and his application of this vision throughout his life is instructive as the contemporary generation engages with global problems

Kalleberg, 1983 Mulford Sibley for many years a professor of political science at the University of Minnesota used to frequently quote Plato's complaint in the Laws that man never legislates but accidents of all sorts legislate for us in all sorts of ways The violence of war and the hard necessity of poverty are constantly overturning governments and changing laws But even if most legislation is a result of accident Mulford Sibley holds out to us the idea that politics is a sphere of human freedom in which men and women can collectively determine the conditions of their common life
