Chekhov and Russian Religious Culture Julie W. De Sherbinin, 1997 Chekhov and Russian Religious Culture is an innovative study of the Virgin Mary and the saintly harlots Mary of Egypt and Mary Magdalene as a cultural paradigm encoded in Chekhov's prose De Sherbinin establishes the authority of the Marian paradigm in nineteenth century Russian culture with a comprehensive overview of salient religious and literary texts then offers critical readings of more than fifteen Chekhov stories including key works such as Peasants Peasant Women and My Life De Sherbinin argues that Chekhov inverts and displaces the Christian meanings of Marian texts in order to reveal a vast array of problematized relationships to the canonized figures This illuminating semiotic reading of Chekhov explores questions of female identity as it probes the mindset of Russian Orthodox popular culture

In the Soviet House of Culture Bruce Grant, 2020-10-06 At the outset of the twentieth century the Nivkhi of Sakhalin Island were a small population of fishermen under Russian dominion and an Asian cultural sway The turbulence of the decades that followed would transform them dramatically While Russian missionaries hounded them for their pagan ways Lenin praised them while Stalin routed them in purges Khrushchev gave them respite and while Brezhnev organized complex resettlement campaigns Gorbachev pronounced that they were free to resume a traditional life But what is tradition after seven decades of building a Soviet world Based on years of research in the former Soviet Union Bruce Grant's book draws upon Nivkhi interviews newly opened archives and rarely translated Soviet ethnographic texts to examine the effects of this remarkable state venture in the construction of identity With a keen sensitivity Grant explores the often paradoxical participation by Nivkhi in these shifting waves of Sovietization and poses questions about how cultural identity is constituted and reconstituted restructured and dismantled Part chronicle of modernization part saga of memory and forgetting In the Soviet House of Culture is an interpretive ethnography of one people's attempts to recapture the past as they look toward the future This is a book that will appeal to anthropologists and historians alike as well as to anyone who is interested in the people and politics of the former Soviet Union regions such as a warming climate and the loss of biodiversity. It furthers our understanding of the Arctic experience by analyzing how people not only survive but thrive in the planet's harshest climate through their innovation, ingenuity, and agency to tackle rapidly changing environments and evolving political, social, economic, and cultural conditions. The book is structured into three distinct parts that cover key topics in recent and future research with Indigenous Peoples in the Arctic. The first part examines the diversity of Indigenous peoples and their cultural expressions in the different Arctic states. It also focuses on the well-being of Indigenous peoples in the Arctic regions. The second part relates to the identities and livelihoods that Indigenous peoples in Arctic regions derive from the resources in their environments. This interconnection between resources and people's identities underscores their entitlements to use their lands and resources. The third and final part provides insights into the political involvement of Indigenous peoples from local all the way to the international level and their right to self-determination and some of the recent related topics in this field. This book offers a novel contribution to Arctic studies, empowering Indigenous research for the future and rebuilding the image of Indigenous peoples as proactive participants signaling their pivotal role in the co-production of knowledge. It will appeal to scholars and students of law, political sciences, geography, anthropology, Arctic studies, and environmental studies, as well as policy makers and professionals.

Social Complexity in Prehistoric Eurasia Bryan K. Hanks, Kathryn M. Linduff, 2009-08-31. Social Complexity in Prehistoric Eurasia challenges current interpretations of the emergence, development, and decline of social complexity in the steppe region of China and the former Soviet Union. Through a thematic investigation of archaeological patterns ranging from monument construction and use and production and consumption of metals to the nature of mobility among societies, the essays in this volume provide the most up-to-date thinking on social and cultural change in prehistoric Eurasia. Collectively, they challenge broader theoretical trends in Anglo-American archaeology which have traditionally favored comparative studies of sedentary agricultural societies over mobile pastoralist or agro-pastoralist communities. By highlighting the potential and limitations of comparative studies of social complexity, this volume sets the agenda for future studies of this region of the world. It emphasizes how the unique nature of early steppe societies can contribute to more comprehensive interpretations of social trajectories in world prehistory.

The Politics of Muslim Cultural Reform Adeeb Khalid, 1999-01-01. Adeeb Khalid offers the first extended examination of cultural debates in Central Asia during Russian rule. With the Russian conquest in the 1860s and 1870s, the region came into contact with modernity. The Jadids, influential Muslim intellectuals, sought to safeguard the indigenous Islamic culture by adapting it to the modern state. Through education, literacy, use of the press, and by maintaining close ties with Islamic intellectuals from the Ottoman empire to India, the Jadids established a place for their traditions not only within the changing culture of their own land but also within the larger modern Islamic world. Khalid uses previously untapped literary sources from Uzbek and Tajik, as well as archival materials from Uzbekistan, Russia, Britain, and France, to explore Russia's role as a colonial power and the politics of Islamic reform movements He shows how Jadid efforts paralleled developments elsewhere in the world and at the same time provides a social history of the Jadid movement By including a comparative study of Muslim societies examining indigenous intellectual life under colonialism and investigating how knowledge was disseminated in the early modern period The Politics of Muslim Cultural Reform does much to remedy the dearth of scholarship on this important period Interest in Central Asia is growing as a result of the breakup of the former Soviet Union and Khalid s book will make an important contribution to current debates over political and cultural autonomy in the region Yeniseian Peoples and Languages Edward J.

Vajda,2013-07-04 The Kets of Central Siberia are perhaps the most enigmatic of Siberia s aboriginal tribes Today numbering barely 1 100 souls living in several small villages on the middle reaches of the Yenisei the Kets have retained much of their ancient culture as well as their unique language Genetic studies of the Ket hint at an ancient affinity with Tibetans Burmese and other peoples of South East Asia not shared by any other Siberian people The Ket language which is unrelated to any other living Siberian tongue also appears to be a relic of a bygone linguistic landscape of Inner Asia Because language isolates such as Ket are of special value to scholars of the original peopling of the continents linguists have recently attempted to link Ket with North Caucasian Sino Tibetan Burushaski Basque and Na Dene None of these links have been proved to the satisfaction of all linguists and the research continues both in Russia and abroad
