A Diné History of Navajoland

Klara Kelley, Harris Francis, 2019-10-22 For the first time a sweeping history of the Diné that is foregrounded in oral tradition Authors Klara Kelley and Harris Francis share Diné history from pre-Columbian time to the present using ethnographic interviews in which Navajo people reveal their oral histories on key events such as Athabaskan migrations trading and trails Diné clans the Long Walk of 1864 and the struggle to keep their culture alive under colonizers who brought the railroad coal mining trading posts and finally climate change The early chapters based on ceremonial origin stories tell about Diné forebears Next come the histories of Diné clans from late pre-Columbian to early post-Columbian times and the coming together of the Diné as a sovereign people Later chapters are based on histories of families individuals and communities and tell how the Diné have struggled to keep their bond with the land under settler encroachment relocation loss of land based self-sufficiency through the trading post system energy resource extraction and climate change Archaeological and documentary information supplements the oral histories providing a comprehensive investigation of Navajo history and offering new insights into their twentieth-century relationships with Hispanic and Anglo settlers For Diné readers the book offers empowering histories and stories of Diné cultural sovereignty In short the authors say it may help you to know how you came to be where and who you are

Both Sides of the Bullpen Robert S. McPherson, 2017-10-19 Between 1880 and 1940 Navajo and Ute families and westward-trending Anglos met in the bullpens of southwestern trading posts to barter for material goods As the products of the livestock economy of Navajo culture were exchanged for the merchandise of an industrialized nation a wealth of cultural knowledge also changed hands In Both Sides of the Bullpen Robert S. McPherson reveals the ways that Navajo tradition fundamentally reshaped and defined trading practices in the Four Corners area of southeastern Utah and southwestern Colorado Drawing on oral histories of Native peoples and traders collected over thirty years of research McPherson explores these interactions from both perspectives as wool blankets and silver crossed the counter in exchange for flour coffee and hardware To succeed traders had to meet the needs and expectations of their customers often interpreted through Navajo cultural standards From the organization of the post building to gift giving health care and burial services and a credit system tailored to the Navajo calendar every feature of the trading post served trader and customer alike Over time these posts evolved from ad hoc business ventures or profitable cooperative stores into institutions with a clearly defined set of expectations that followed Navajo traditional practices Traders spent their days evaluating craft work learning the financial circumstances of each Native family following economic trends in the wool and livestock industry back east and avoiding conflict In detail and depth the many voices woven throughout Both Sides of the Bullpen restore an underappreciated era to the history of the American Southwest They show us that for American Indians and white traders alike in the Four Corners region during the late 1800s and early 1900s barter was as much a cultural expression as it was an economic necessity

My Life with Things Elizabeth Chin,2016-05-19 Unconventional and provocative My Life with Things is Elizabeth Chin s meditation on her relationship with consumer goods and a critical statement on the politics and method of anthropology Chin centers the book on diary entries that focus on everyday items kitchen cabinet knobs shoes a piano and uses them to intimately examine the ways consumption resonates with personal and social meaning from writing love haikus about her favorite nail polish and discussing the racial implications of her tooth cap to revealing how she used shopping to cope with a miscarriage and contemplating how her young daughter came to think that she needed Lunesta Throughout Chin keeps Karl Marx and his family s relationship to their possessions in mind drawing parallels between Marx s napkins the production of late nineteenth century table linens and Chin s own vintage linen collection Unflinchingly and refreshingly honest Chin unlocks the complexities of her attachments to reliance on and complicated relationships with her things In so doing she prompts readers to reconsider their own consumption as well as their assumptions about the possibilities for creative scholarship
