Community College Missions in the 21st Century Barbara K. Townsend, Kevin James Dougherty, 2006 This volume reexamines the community college s functional missions in the context of both long established and emerging societal missions Written for college leaders scholars and policymakers Community College Missions in the 21st Century addresses the most pressing questions concerning community colleges including Is the societal mission of a community college to provide postsecondary education to students who might not otherwise obtain it or to be responsive to the needs of local communities including business and industry Should its dominant functional mission be to provide transfer education so that students can eventually attain a baccalaureate or should the institution concentrate on workforce training and continuing education Given demographic shifts and pressures to be accountable and demonstrate student learning are the traditional community college missions still relevant What makes discussions of community college missions so intriguing is that the answer to each of these questions is potentially yes depending on one's perspective on the role of community colleges in America's education system This volume examines these questions and others through various perspectives using specific case studies and examining broader more national perspectives This is the 136th volume of New Directions for Community Colleges a quarterly journal published by Jossey Bass Click here to view the entire list of titles from New Directions for Community Colleges
