

An open vintage leather medical kit, likely from the early 20th century, is shown. The kit is made of dark brown leather with brass-colored hardware, including a handle and latches. It is open, revealing a collection of various medical supplies. Inside the kit, there are several glass jars of different sizes, some with red or white lids, and a few small bottles. A small, rectangular, light-colored box is also visible. The kit is placed on a dark, reflective surface, and the background is dark, creating a dramatic, low-key lighting effect. The overall tone is historical and professional.
