The SAGE Encyclopedia of Higher Education Miriam E. David, Marilyn J. Amey, 2020-05-21 Higher Education is in a state of ferment. People are seriously discussing whether the medieval ideal of the university as being excellent in all areas makes sense today given the number of universities that we have in the world. Student fees are changing the orientation of students to the system. The high rate of non repayment of fees in the UK is provoking difficult questions about whether the current system of funding makes sense. There are disputes about the ratio of research to teaching and further discussions about the international delivery of courses

Providing More Students a Pathway to Success by Strengthening Career and Technical Education United States. Congress. House. Committee on Education and the Workforce. Subcommittee on Early Childhood, Elementary, and Secondary Education, 2017

Innovative Apprenticeships Felix Rauner, 2010 The transition from school to vocational education is of different quality and performance in the diverse national VET systems and heavily determined by the different structures of governance in the national education and VET systems. In September 2009 the International Network on Innovative Apprenticeship INAP hosted its third international conference in Turin bringing together leading researchers in the area of international TVET research. This book summarises all topics discussed within the frame of the Turin conference and overviews current research and analysis in the following fields: Managing successful transitions from school to work; Building vocational identity; Competence evaluation and development in VET; Levels of governance and the role of stakeholders in apprenticeships

The RoutledgeFalmer Reader in Education Policy and Politics Bob Lingard, Jenny Ozga, 2007-01-24 This Reader brings together selected papers from leading scholars to address the most significant recent development in educational policy and politics: the impact of globalisation. The papers discuss, document and analyse evidence of globalisation's effects on the new direction of education policies and practices and in the production of globalised agendas for the redesign of state provision and the governance of education. The Reader is organised in two parts. The first part provides a selection of articles that interrogate globalisation and its effects from a variety of analytical perspectives and explore what kind of politics are possible in the framing context of globalisation. The second part documents and discusses different types of engagement with politics and policy in a variety of settings and sectors including numerous European and Pacific Rim policy contexts This important collection underlines the need to approach globalisation education policy and politics from numerous perspectives and offers analytical empirical and theoretical resources for the reframing of contemporary education politics Students of educational policy and politics will find this Reader an invaluable resource for understanding theorising and researching in these academic fields

Strategic Human Capital Development in Asia Richard R. Smith, 2022-06-23 Asia continues to ascend as an economic powerhouse and a strategic priority for business leaders around the world yet there is often limited understanding of the human capital systems that fuel the economic engines of the region This book brings together the perspectives from economics sociology and management to highlight the business implications of human capital development in Asia This book provides new insights on human capital systems in Asia by considering the country context through a Human Capital Ecosystem framework Applying this framework constituent outline and comparable points across each of the countries in Asia Smith translates national policies into insights on the drivers challenges and opportunities in individual countries Each chapter also draws out clear business and HR implications based on the above framework and analysis While Asia continues to be a critical priority for businesses there is limited understanding on how to manage and navigate the human capital systems in each of the region s diverse countries This book will serve as a helpful reference for managers or supplemental study guide for graduate students working to understand how to execute business strategy in major economies of Asia Improving School-to-Work Transitions David Neumark,2007-01-09 As anxieties about America s economic competitiveness mounted in the 1980s so too did concerns that the nation s schools were not adequately preparing young people for the modern workplace Spurred by widespread joblessness and job instability among young adults the federal government launched ambitious educational reforms in the 1990s to promote career development activities for students In recent years however the federal government has shifted its focus to test based reforms like No Child Left Behind that emphasize purely academic subjects At this critical juncture in education reform Improving School To Work Transitions edited by David Neumark weighs the successes and failures of the 90s era school to work initiatives and assesses how high schools colleges and government can help youths make a smoother transition into stable well paying employment Drawing on evidence from national longitudinal studies surveys interviews and case studies the contributors to Improving School To Work Transitions offer thought provoking perspectives on a variety of aspects of the school to work problem Deborah Reed Christopher Jepsen and Laura Hill emphasize the importance of focusing school to work programs on the diverse needs of different demographic groups particularly immigrants who represent a growing proportion of the youth population David Neumark and Donna Rothstein investigate the impact of school to work programs on the forgotten half students at the greatest risk of not attending college Using data from the 1997 National Longitudinal Study of Youth they find that participation by these students in programs like job shadowing mentoring and summer internships raise employment and college attendance rates among men and earnings among women In a study of nine high schools with National Academy Foundation career academies Terry Orr and her fellow researchers find that career academy participants are more engaged in school and are more likely to attend a four year college than their peers Nan Maxwell studies the skills demanded in entry level jobs and finds that many supposedly low skilled jobs actually demand extensive skills in reading writing and math as well as the new basic skills of communication and problem solving Maxwell recommends that school districts collaborate with researchers to identify which skills are most in demand in their local labor markets At a time when test based educational reforms are making career development programs increasingly vulnerable it is worth examining the possibilities and challenges of integrating career related learning into the school environment Written for educators policymakers researchers and anyone concerned about how schools are shaping the economic opportunities of young people Improving School To Work Transitions provides an authoritative guide to a crucial issue in education reform Senate Reports Nos. 374-407 United States 58th Congress,1999 Growing Fairly Stephen Goldsmith,Kate Markin Coleman,2022-02-22 Tested practical ideas to meet current and future skilling needs of both workers and employers The labor market in the United States faces seemingly contradictory challenges Many employers have trouble finding qualified applicants for current and future jobs while millions of Americans are out of work or are underemployed their paths to living wage jobs blocked by systemic barriers or lack of adequate skills Growing Fairly offers workforce development reforms that meet the needs of both workers and employers Based on the experiences of hundreds of leaders and workers the authors set out ten principles for designing a more effective and equitable system that helps workers obtain the skills necessary for economic mobility The principles outlined in the book argue for a more comprehensive view of the skilling needs of current and prospective workers They spell out the attributes of effective programs and make the case for skill based hiring widely distributed performance data and collaboration The book emphasizes the importance of local action to overcome the structural barriers that challenge even the most determined would be learners Growing Fairly shows cross sector leaders how to work across organizational boundaries to change the trajectory of individuals struggling to make a living wage This is not a book of untested theories Instead it is written by practitioners for practitioners Much of it is told through the voices of those who run programs and people who have taken advantage of them While the issues the book addresses are profound its take on the subject is optimistic Between them the authors have spent decades searching out and supporting effective practices Even more critically they have learned how to knit competing agencies and organizations into cohesive systems with coordinated missions Their practical ideas will benefit a wide range of readers from practitioners in the field to students and scholars of the American labor system
