Patient Outcomes Research Teams Ports Managing Conflict Of Interest:

Patient Outcomes Research Teams (PORTS) Institute of Medicine, Committee on Potential Conflicts of Interest in Patient Outcomes Research Teams, 1991-02-01 The new Agency for Health Care Policy and Research in the U S Public Health Service is funding a set of multidisciplinary groups called Patient Outcomes Research Teams PORTs Their purpose is to assess alternative treatments for medical conditions using a variety of outcome measures In guiding insurance coverage these PORTs are expected to wield considerable influence on medical practice and health policy This book addresses possible threats to their credibility that might be based on real or apparent conflicts of interest including both financial and other conflicts It raises points to consider for the new agency for PORTs and their institutions for industry for the health services research community and for the U S Congress in avoiding and managing conflicts of interest New and Forthcoming Books National Academy Press (U.S.), 1992

Translational Informatics Philip R.O. Payne, Peter J. Embi, 2014-08-23 Integrative and translational methodologies and frameworks have transformed modern biomedical research and the delivery of clinical care This shift has been manifested in a number of ways including the rapid growth and increasing availability of high throughput bio molecular instrumentation and analysis platforms innovative clinical research programs intended to accelerate knowledge translation and initial efforts to deliver personalized healthcare informed by the genomic profiles of patients A common theme of reports and publications concerned with such transformative changes in the biomedical and healthcare domains is concerned with the challenges and opportunities related to the collection management integration analysis and dissemination of large scale heterogeneous biomedical data sets In particular the absence of well established and adopted theoretical and practical frameworks intended to address such needs is a major impediment to the realization of translational and knowledge driven healthcare in which the best possible scientific evidence is used to inform the care of every patient In this vacuum the development of integrative clinical or translational research paradigms is significantly limited by the propagation of both data and expertise silos This book details for the first time the current state of this extremely potent area of healthcare innovation and policy and defines the interaction between clinical translational science and biomedical informatics

Spece,David S. Shimm,Allen E. Buchanan,1996 Our society has long sanctioned at least tacitly a conflict of interest in medical practice and research as an unavoidable consequence of the different interests of the participants in health care the physician or clinical researcher the patient or research subject insurance companies or research sponsors the government and society as a whole. This multidisciplinary effort draws from philosophy medicine law economics and public policy to identify and categorize conflicts of interest in medical practice and clinical research and where possible to offer a mechanism for resolving them. Part I reviews the theoretical background including basic concepts and analytical frameworks. The second part discusses two topics prominent in current health care policy debates self referral and financial incentives to limit care. Part III examines conflicts of interest generated by pharmaceutical industry involvement in clinical practice and research. The final section deals with clinical research in several contexts including institutional review boards clinical trials research agreements between the government and private researchers brokerage of research subjects by contract research organizations and cost effectiveness studies.
