Patrick O'Brian The Making Of The Novelist:

Rollyson, 2005-10-21 Is there a right way to write a literary life In this collection of columns from the New York Sun Carl Rollyson explores the relationship between narrative and literary analysis Should biographies be written in the style and form of novels How to balance the life and the work How much literary criticism can a biography absorb into its narrative Rollyson proposes a number of apologies for biography including the thought that in the right hands the literary biography is a continuation of the writer's work and life In such instances there seems to be a symbiosis between biographer and subject In other cases biographies spearhead the rediscovery of important writers He rejects the idea that literary figures are not good subjects for biography because they are not men and women of action That literary biography is a kind of strip mining a pathography laying bare the subject's life to no good purpose is another canard this book demolishes The pieces here also expose the genre's weak points a proclivity for overstatement and excessive length the failure of biographers to build upon their predecessors work Rollyson invents a term biographology in order to discuss the biographical tradition The World

Entranced by Story Hugh Crago, 2014-04-24 We live in a world of stories yet few of us pause to ask what stories actually are why we consume them so avidly and what they do for story makers and their audiences This book focuses on the experiences that good stories generate feelings of purposeful involvement elevation temporary loss of self vicarious emotion and relief of tension The author examines what drives writers to create stories and why readers fall under their spell why some children grow up to be writers and how the capacity for creating and comprehending stories develops from infancy right through into old age Entranced by Story applies recent research on brain function to literary examples ranging from the Iliad and Wuthering Heights to Harold and the Purple Crayon providing a groundbreaking exploration of the biological and neurological basis of the literary experience Blending research theory and biographical anecdote the author shows how it is the unique structure of the human brain with its layering of sophisticated cognitive capacities upon archaic emotion driven functions which best explains the mystery of story

Patrick O'Brien: a Very Private Life Nikolai Tolstoy, 2019-10-21 An intimate portrait of the reclusive and brilliant author written by his step son Nikolai Tolstoy The English novelist Patrick O'Brien is much admired for his best selling Aubrey Maturin series of sea novels the unexpected success of the series secured his place in literary history Far less is known about O'Brien's personal life largely because he preferred to keep it that way In A Very Private Life O'Brien's step son Nikolai Tolstoy draws upon his step father's archives and papers to faithfully capture a life dedicated to the written word This biography covers the latter part of O'Brien's life from the moment of his arrival at Collioure in the south of France in 1949 where he wrote all his major works to his death in 2000 Throughout his career O'Brien's writing was supplemented by his translation work which saw him translate the likes of Simone de Beauvoir and Henri Charrière Tolstoy also captures O'Brien as he conducted research for the biography of his close friend and neighbour Pablo Picasso Tolstoy maps his step father's literary career from its poverty stricken beginnings to the remarkable success O Brian enjoyed later in life He notes how through a cruel irony of fate just as his step father's literary career attained greater acclaim O Brian's pleasure in his achievement began to diminish This truthful warm and insightful biography is a testimony to Tolstoy's respect and admiration for his step father one of Britain's most loved literary figures Making the Team Timothy Morris,1997 He concludes with a chapter that asks What does it mean to be literary What distinguishes high art from a baseball novel or a mystery or a romance novel or pornography Making the Team suggests that drawing the line may be a more vital concern not just for scholars but for Americans at large than anything critics have argued about for a very long time

Patrick O'Brian's Bodies at Sea Michael Leigh Sinowitz,2014-08-05 An exploration of the complex roles that bodies both literally and figuratively play in the 21 volume Aubrey Maturin series reveals much about the novels many meditations on mind and body Beginning with a consideration of genre norms and the bodies of the novels main characters the book's focus shifts to the ways the series offers interconnections between the human body and history More literal considerations of the body examine O Brian's depictions of drug use particularly the opium addiction that afflicts Stephen Maturin and human sexuality in its many guises The work then focuses on Desolation Island the fifth novel in the series in light of the discussions above but also in terms of political and psychological tropes that draw upon the relationship of mind and body Questions are examined about the relationship of reader to author and what sustains such a long narrative and what continues to bring a reader back again and again
