Narratives in Early Childhood Education Susanne Garvis, Niklas Pramling, 2017-05-08 Over the past few decades a growing body of literature has developed which examines children s perspectives of their own lives viewing them as social actors and experts in their understanding of the world Focusing specifically on narratives this unique and timely book provides an analysis of these new directions in contemporary research approaches to explore the lived experiences of children and teachers in early childhood education in addition to presenting original research on children s narratives The book brings together a variety of well regarded international researchers in the field to highlight the importance of narrative in young children's development from local and global perspectives. While narrative is clearly understood within different countries, this is one of the first texts to build an international understanding acknowledging the importance of culture and context. It presents up-to-date research on the latest research methods and analysis techniques using a variety of different approaches in order to critically reflect on the future for narrative research and its insights into early childhood education. Narratives in Early Childhood Education will be of interest to postgraduate students, academics and researchers in early childhood education as well as early childhood professionals, government policy makers and early childhood organisations and associations.

Developing Reading and Writing in Second-language Learners Diane August, Timothy Shanahan, 2008. A Co-Publication of Lawrence Erlbaum Associates Inc and The International Reading Association. This book is a shorter version of the full volume Developing Literacy in Second Language Learners reporting the findings of the National Literacy Panel on Language Minority Children and Youth. The Panel, a distinguished group of expert researchers in reading, language, bilingualism, research methods and education, was appointed to identify, assess and synthesize research on the literacy education of language minority children and youth. In this book, chapters adapted from the original report concisely summarize what is known from empirical research about the development of literacy in language minority children and youth, including development, environment, instruction and assessment.

Cantonese as a Second Language John C. Wakefield, 2019-04-09. Cantonese is a language from southern China that is spoken by roughly 70 million people worldwide. It is the language of Hong Kong cinema and has traditionally been the most prominent language spoken in Chinatowns around the world. People choose to learn Cantonese for a variety of social and economic reasons because it is a heritage language that one's relatives speak because it is the language of one's partner and monolingual in laws because it is necessary for living and working in Hong Kong, Macau, Guangzhou or other Cantonese speaking communities because it is the bridge to fully appreciating and understanding Cantonese culture or simply because it is an irresistible challenge. Whatever the motivation, more and more people are choosing to learn Cantonese as an additional language. This book discusses many issues related to both acquiring and teaching Cantonese. If you are a learner of Cantonese, this long overdue volume is essential to understanding both the grammatical and the social issues involved with learning this notoriously difficult language. If you are a teacher, this book will be invaluable to gaining insight into your students' motivations and needs. And finally, if you are an applied linguist, the unique aspects related to the acquisition of Cantonese offer a fascinating contribution to the literature.

Chinese Language Narration Allyssa McCabe, Chien-ju Chang, 2013-11-15 Chinese Language Narration Culture cognition and emotion is a collection of papers presenting original research on narration in Mandarin especially as it contrasts to what is known regarding narration in English One chapter addresses dinner table conversation between Chinese immigrant parents and children in the United States compared to non immigrant peers Other chapters consider evaluation patterns in Mandarin versus English referencing strategies coherence patterns socioeconomic differences among Taiwanese Mandarin speaking children and differences in narration due to Specific Language Impairment and schizophrenia Several chapters address developmental concerns Distinctive aspects of narration in Mandarin are linked to larger issues of autobiographical memory Mandarin is spoken by far more people than any other language yet narration in this language has received notably less attention than narration in Western languages This collective effort is a critical addition to our understanding of cross cultural similarities and differences in how people make sense of experiences through narrative

The Bilingual Mind Aneta Pavlenko, 2014-02-06 If languages influence the way we think do bilinguals think differently in their respective languages And if languages do not affect thought why do bilinguals often perceive such influence For many years these questions remained unanswered because the research on language and thought had focused solely on the monolingual mind Bilinguals were either excluded from this research as unusual or messy subjects or treated as representative speakers of their first languages Only recently did bi and multilinguals become research participants in their own right Pavlenko considers the socio political circumstances that led to the monolingual status quo and shows how the invisibility of bilingual participants compromised the validity and reliability of findings in the study of language and cognition She then shifts attention to the bilingual turn in the field and examines its contributions to the understanding of the human mind
