Reshaping the Media Everette E. Communications Fereydoun Hoveyda,2000-07-30 In 1917 the French poet Guillaume Apollinaire predicted the death of books in one or two centuries and their replacement by film and sound In the early sixties Marshall McLuhan proclaimed the end of the Gutenberg Galaxy Neither of these predictions has yet happened Nonetheless the development of computer science and the spread of the Internet have already changed the landscape of the media and affected the fields of book publishing journalism cinema and television In his new book Hoveyda who was involved with cinema and literature for many years scrutinizes the relationship between the different forms of media and art Drawing on his varied experience as well as on his knowledge of the arts and media he explains how cinema literally existed before literature or articulate language and that all other forms of communication stem from this innate capability to think cinematically Looking at the extraordinary technological developments in the fields of cinema television and communications Hoveyda finds a hidden purpose behind them a kind of common thread that illustrates and explains the quest of humans for communication As far back as one can go Hoveyda finds that humans were always preoccupied with the question of how to communicate what was going on in their minds They tried and found ways of transmitting to one another the impressions and ideas churning in their heads Prehistoric cave drawings hieroglyphs literature and canvas paintings were and are part of such attempts This progression of inventions seems to pursue a linear path toward externalization of their people's thoughts and dreams The pinnacle of this externalization will be reached when it becomes automatic and foregoes the use of heavy equipment Bunuel once told the author and his friends that he dreamt of the day when he would sit in a darkened room and project on a wall the film he was concocting in his head This is exactly the goal of the technological progress we witness Hoveyda's survey also includes a description of the evolution of modern cinema as he witnessed it some new and revolutionary remarks about film appreciation and filmmaking discussion of television and how it differs from cinema and observations on the impact of media on one another as well as the influence of the more recent technologies on narration styles A provocative account that will be of interest to scholars researchers students and anyone involved with the development of communications

Social Media and Strategic Communications Hana S. Noor Al-Deen, J. Hendricks, 2013-05-20 Social Media and Strategic Communications provides truly comprehensive and original scholarly research that exhibits the strategic implementation of social media in both advertising and public relations

Telecommunications Update, 1990

Making Journalists Hugo de Burgh, 2006-03-13 At a time when the media's relation to power is at the forefront of political discussion this book considers how journalists can affect public discourse on politics economy and society at large From well known and respected authors providing all new material Making Journalists considers journalism education training practice and professionalism across a wide range of countries including Saudi Arabia Africa India USA and the UK The book offers insights into what journalism is how education makes the journalist and therefore the news models of journalism taught and practised across the globe the ethical implications of the process When news reporting can lead to decisions on whether or not to go to war everything can be affected by journalists and their mediation of the world This text brings these present issues together in one invaluable resource for all students of journalism politics and media studies

Reviving the Fourth Estate Julianne

Schultz,1998-11-16 The news media is traditionally the watchdog of democracy Today it is also one of the most pervasive global industries In this lively and accessible book Schultz systematically analyses the role of journalism in Australia and the scope of its democratic purpose She examines key news stories and looks at the attitudes of Australian journalists themselves The fourth estate remains the ideal of most journalists but the reality has been impaired by the increasing concentration of media ownership and by political ethical and occupational interests While Australian journalism has become bolder and more investigative increasing commercialism and decreasing ethical standards have left the public sceptical Schultz argues for a revival of the fourth estate based on journalistic independence and political autonomy together with increased accountability and responsiveness

Common Knowledge W. Russell Neuman, Marion R. Just, Ann N. Crigler, 2018-12-14 Photo opportunities ten second sound bites talking heads and celebrity anchors so the world is explained daily to millions of Americans The result according to the experts is an ignorant public helpless targets of a one way flow of carefully filtered and orchestrated communication Common Knowledge shatters this pervasive myth Reporting on a ground breaking study the authors reveal that our shared knowledge and evolving political beliefs are determined largely by how we actively reinterpret the images fragments and signals we find in the mass media For their study the authors analyzed coverage of 150 television and newspaper stories on five prominent issues drugs AIDS South African apartheid the Strategic Defense Initiative and the stock market crash of October 1987 They tested audience responses of more than 1 600 people and conducted in depth interviews with a select sample What emerges is a surprisingly complex picture of people actively and critically interpreting the news making sense of even the most abstract issues in terms of their own lives and finding political meaning in a sophisticated interplay of message medium and firsthand experience At every turn Common Knowledge refutes conventional wisdom It shows that television is far more effective at raising the saliency of issues and promoting learning than is generally assumed it also undermines the assumed causal connection between newspaper reading and higher levels of political knowledge Finally this book gives a deeply responsible and thoroughly fascinating account of how the news is conveyed to us and how we in turn convey it to others making meaning of at once so much and so little For anyone who makes the news or tries to make anything of it Common Knowledge promises uncommon wisdom

Online Journalism Jim Hall, 2001-02-20 Online journalism is revolutionising the way news is reported and read The rise of the internet has forever changed the way audiences interact with the news stories are posted the moment they break and readers routinely expect to be able to access both the news sources and local perspectives Online news and the pattern of media ownership raise a number of urgent questions about accuracy press autonomy freedom of speech and economic exclusion Jim Hall provides a comprehensive guide to the emerging field of cyberjournalism and examines the issues it raises Looking at how interactive texts are both written and read the book surveys the new technologies and conventions that online journalism has ushered in The author uses case studies such as Monicagate and the war in Kosovo to illustrate both the opportunities and the limitations of cyberjournalism It is designed as a text to introduce how cyberjournalism works and how it can be used in innovative ways

Shrum, 2003-10-03 The Psychology of Entertainment Media provides a cutting edge look at how entertainment media affects its viewers both in intended and unintended ways and the psychological processes that underlie these effects The collection represents an international multidisciplinary investigation of an age old process persuasion in a relatively new guise which includes product placements brand films television programs and sponsorships The collection covers three broad areas the potential effects of embedding promotions within entertainment media content the persuasive power of the entertainment media content itself and individual differences in the interplay between media usage and media effects Contributions focus on a variety of topics including product placement subliminal perception narrative impact cultivation effects on consumers and individual differences in media use Virtually all the chapters speak to the issue of how entertainment media are processed with the conclusion that media consumers do tend to process entertainment and promotional information differently Providing a broad perspective on how entertainment media may have an effect that goes largely unnoticed or unattended by consumers this volume makes a substantial contribution toward creating a more knowledgeable field as well as a more knowledgeable consumer With its origins in the 21st Annual Advertising and Consumer Psychology Conference the volume represents scholarship from prominent and emerging scholars in psychology marketing and communications It is appropriate for advanced students and scholars in marketing advertising psychology and mass communication for research focused practitioners working in marketing advertising and public policy and for individuals interested in entertainment studies consumer behavior attitudes persuasion media studies and consumer psychology

Aiyeku,2002-05-30 Consider Africa not with pre established mindsets unexamined assumptions and bland generalizations but for what Africa actually is a setting in which marketers can gather new ideas and test old ones and perhaps emerge with a more varied certain sense of what the marketing enterprise itself is all about Nwankwo Aiyeku and their contributing authors all specialists with a remarkably wide range of experience and viewpoints uncover the unexpected factors that they are certain will determine the success of selling just about any product or service to established or developing African nations Original eclectic and agenda setting their book provides a startling insight into the dynamics of marketing in this fascinating region of the world as it continues to initiate the new macroeconomic and political reforms that are transforming the African continent into an important player on the international business scene Nwankwo and Aiyeku see their book as a welcome attempt to identify and explore the institutional processes in which not only the study but also the practice of marketing is embedded They work with three main themes the processual issues including theory development and the reconceptualization of conventional paradigms the nature of the interrelationships that shape the dynamics of marketing overall and the context specific dimensions of marketing generally its marketing operations As the volume editors state By and large African nations present new contexts and new strategic challenges As they become focused certain general approaches as to how various characteristics influence marketing behaviors have to be established This book through addressing these contextual issues provides a better focus for creating a relevant set of marketing activities in African situations
