

The Emergence of Resource-Based Learning

RBL demands that students actively engage with multiple learning resources with well-articulated educational purpose (Lavery in Armatas et al, 2003). This type of learning environment does not exclude group interactions in the classroom and/or mediated through some computer-based communication environment.

Digital age has influenced in adapting resources and has changed nature of a resource.

Resource Based Learning:

Resource-Based Learning for Higher and Continuing Education John Clarke, 2020-05-09 Originally published in 1982 Resource Based Learning for Higher and Continuing Education was written with the needs in mind of educationists who are responsible for the support of resource based learning in higher and continuing education The rationale for this mode of learning is explored and the implications for an institution seeking to provide teaching and learning resources which may well be used by an individual student To place the reviews of the techniques that follow into a working context a brief case history of the Dundee College of Education Learning Resources Project a major implementation of resource based learning in higher education is presented The accent throughout the book is on the practical aspects of resource provision Special attention is given to the problems inherent in the initial preparation by teaching staff of such items as manuscripts for printed works and shooting scripts for visual materials Economic methods of production and reliable and effective means of presentation for audio visual materials are also considered both for use within institutions as well as by home based students

Shinew,Scott Walter,2003 This book is an excellent resource for any librarian or educator concerned with the information literacy skills of pre service teachers The contributors describe excellent examples of programs from around the world where teaching faculty and librarians are collaborating to give pre service teachers the strategies and knowledge they need to incorporate information literacy into their own teaching A useful annotated bibliography culls the research of librarianships and education for the most significant writings on this issue pre publication reviews Educational Innovation in Economics and Business V L. Borghans,2000 The Information and Communication Technology revolution results in profound changes to the heart of business and economics Changes in the workplace new communication technology new organizational structures and new production technologies force business educators to renew their focus on the curricula of business schools There is no doubt these changes influence business education and instructional technology But change will go far beyond the mere introduction of technology in the classroom Alliances between the corporate world and business education are no longer fictitious but are necessary to establish stronger bonds between educational systems and the workplace The fifth volume in the series Educational Innovation in Economics and Business contains a unique selection of articles addressing various issues on how business education should adapt to changing needs of the corporate world It is meant for educators in corporate training centers and for teachers in further and higher education Collection Management for School Libraries Joy McGregor,Ken Dillon,James Henri,2003 Co published with Charles Sturt University Centre for Information Studies Educational Innovation in Economics and Business V Lex Borghans,Wim H. Gijselaers,Richard G. Milter,John E. Stinson,2005-12-17 The workplace is changing drastically these days As a consequence of the Information and Communication Technology ICT revolution new economic activities emerge the production process changes people use different communication tools and organizational structures are adjusted All these changes relate to the heart of business and economics and there is no doubt that they will also influence education in these areas Of course ICT provides new technologies to facilitate learning but a changing workplace also requires a renewed focus within the curriculum of economics and business education If ICT is leading to profound change in the workplace is innovation then only a matter of introducing more technology in education

Unfortunately this is not necessarily true The translation of changes in the workplace into an improved curriculum requires serious analysis of the essence of the changes at the work place and the way technology may enable student learning For example relevant knowledge is changing faster and faster Does this mean that we have to adopt the curriculum faster and faster Perhaps not as students will have a labor market career of 30 or 40 years Focusing on today s knowledge even if it is very up to date loses more and more value if the life cycle of knowledge becomes shorter Increased speed of change also implies a decrease in the value of knowing all these things The Research Student's Guide to Success Pat
