Restless Nomad:

Canada's Residential Schools: The Inuit and Northern Experience Commission de vérité et réconciliation du Canada, 2016-01-01 Between 1867 and 2000 the Canadian government sent over 150 000 Aboriginal children to residential schools across the country Government officials and missionaries agreed that in order to civilize and Christianize Aboriginal children it was necessary to separate them from their parents and their home communities For children life in these schools was lonely and alien Discipline was harsh and daily life was highly regimented Aboriginal languages and cultures were denigrated and suppressed Education and technical training too often gave way to the drudgery of doing the chores necessary to make the schools self sustaining Child neglect was institutionalized and the lack of supervision created situations where students were prey to sexual and physical abusers Legal action by the schools former students led to the creation of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada in 2008 The product of over six years of research the Commission s final report outlines the history and legacy of the schools and charts a pathway towards reconciliation Canada s Residential Schools The Inuit and Northern Experience demonstrates that residential schooling followed a unique trajectory in the North As late as 1950 there were only six residential schools and one hostel north of the sixtieth parallel Prior to the 1950s the federal government left northern residential schools in the hands of the missionary societies that operated largely in the Mackenzie Valley and the Yukon It was only in the 1950s that Inuit children began attending residential schools in large numbers The tremendous distances that Inuit children had to travel to school meant that in some cases they were separated from their parents for years The establishment of day schools and what were termed small hostels in over a dozen communities in the eastern Arctic led many Inuit parents to settle in those communities on a year round basis so as not to be separated from their children contributing to a dramatic transformation of the Inuit economy and way of life Not all the northern institutions are remembered similarly The staff at Grandin College in Fort Smith and the Churchill Vocational Centre in northern Manitoba were often cited for the positive roles that they played in developing and encouraging a new generation of Aboriginal leadership The legacy of other schools particularly Grollier Hall in Inuvik and Turquetil Hall in Igloodigaarjuk Chesterfield Inlet is far darker These schools were marked by prolonged regimes of sexual abuse and harsh discipline that scarred more than one generation of children for life Since Aboriginal people make up a large proportion of the population in Canada s northern territories the impact of the schools has been felt intensely through the region And because the history of these schools is so recent the intergenerational impacts and the legacy of the schools are strongly felt in the North

Magic Weapons Sam McKegney,2007-11-30 The legacy of the residential school system ripples throughout Native Canada its fingerprints on the domestic violence poverty alcoholism drug abuse and suicide rates that continue to cripple many Native communities Magic Weapons is the first major survey of Indigenous writings on the residential school system and provides groundbreaking readings of life writings by Rita Joe Mi kmaq and Anthony Apakark Thrasher Inuit as well as in depth critical studies of better known life writings by Basil Johnston Ojibway and Tomson Highway Cree Magic Weapons examines the ways in which Indigenous survivors of residential school mobilize narrative in their struggles for personal and communal empowerment in the shadow of attempted cultural genocide By treating Indigenous life writings as carefully crafted aesthetic creations and interrogating their relationship to more overtly politicized historical discourses Sam McKegney argues that Indigenous life writings are culturally generative in ways that go beyond disclosure and recompense re envisioning what it means to live and write as Indigenous individuals in post residential school Canada
