ABSTRACT

As part of its school restructuring work with states, the National Governors' Association commissioned the Center for Policy Research in Education to conduct case studies of several local school districts experimenting with new structural arrangements. This case study is based on visits to four such districts: Jefferson County Schools (Louisville, Kentucky); Dade County Public Schools (Miami, Florida); Poway Unified School District (Poway, California); and New Orleans Public Schools (Louisiana). The first chapter describes how each district is restructuring its system. The Jefferson system exemplifies a change approach in an urban setting centered about professional development and increased resources for school staff. Poway exemplifies a suburban system that has empowered teachers by decentralizing most district functions to its schools. Dade County represents a district shifting to school-based management and shared decision-making in the nation's fourth largest school system. The New Orleans system demonstrates how a creative partnership with an advocacy group can facilitate new roles and models for structural change. The chapter closes by summarizing pioneering efforts of five other districts in California, Ohio, Indiana, New York State and New York City. The second chapter analyzes some common problems in approaching structural change and explains how some districts have overcome barriers. The final chapter summarizes district initiatives and discusses implications for state actions. It states that if states do not act to support and reinforce district goals and actions, schools will be trapped by conflicting expectations and be unable to change. Included are 12 references. ## Restructuring In Progress Lessons From Pioneering Districts Result In Education Series:

Restructuring Schools W. Lowe Boyd, 2005-08-17 Education reform has become part of a political imperative in a number of developed countries around the world The simultaneous movement to reform schooling and the administrative structures which deliver educational services therefore needs to be studied in order to lay bare its fundamental assumptions This movement has been labelled restructuring and reform although the words carry different meanings in different countries The authors question why this reconstruction occurred at the same time in different places What common themes are emerging in the restructuring movement And in the 1990s where will the movement lead schooling and what essential changes will it effect They explore these questions by examining developments in the USA Canada the UK Australia New Zealand and Japan

Pluralistic Society Colleen A. Capper, 1993-07-01 In this bold provocative supplemental text for the field of educational administration Colleen Capper and contributors challenge administrators policymakers practitioners and communities to confront the realities of schools and students in a pluralistic society The book examines recent educational initiatives aimed at addressing the needs of students and staff from traditionally underrepresented groups marginalized on the basis of race language gender sexual orientation social class or disability Each chapter critically reviews the literature and research to probe the current characteristics of a nondominant group including such information as its demographic characteristics its role in school reform its representation in organizational theory and behavior its presence within curriculum and instruction and its relationship with the school as community Capper argues for the adoption of a multiparadigmatic framework from which to approach educational leadership for today's schools Jsl Vol 16-N3 JOURNAL OF SCHOOL LEADERSHIP,2006-08-22 The Journal of School Leadership is broadening the conversation about schools and leadership and is currently accepting manuscripts We welcome manuscripts based on cutting edge research from a wide variety of theoretical perspectives and methodological orientations The editorial team is particularly interested in working with international authors authors from traditionally marginalized populations and in work that is relevant to practitioners around the world Growing numbers of educators and professors look to the six bimonthly issues to deal with problems directly related to contemporary school leadership practice teach courses on school leadership and policy use as a quality reference in writing articles about school leadership and improvement Resources in Education ,1999-04 Using Technology to Support Education Reform Barbara Means,1993 Many critics of American education see technology as an important tool in bringing about the kind of revolutionary changes called for in new reform efforts Consequently support for the use of technology to promote fundamental reform appears to be reaching a new high Following an introduction describing elements of school reform Chapter 2 describes how technology can support the kinds of student learning described in a model of reform presented in Chapter 1 Chapter 3 describes the ways that technology can support student learning as defined by education reformers and Chapter 4 describes ways in which technology can support teacher efforts to promote student learning Chapter 5 reviews the literature on the effects of technology on student learning outcomes The final chapter deals with issues of implementation for projects attempting education reform supported by technology Three tables and two figures summarize information about technology and reform Contains 192 references SLD Reforming Schools Kimberly Kinsler,Mae Gamble,2004-12-30 Reforming Schools will transform the study of school reform development and improvement It not only provides an overview of research findings professional and political issues and policy developments and their history it also relates such thinking to practice through a rich and multi faceted case study of school reform Particular emphasis is given to urban schooling with a candid look at what can be learnt not only from successful school reforms but also from failure The authors provide questions and exercises throughout to help readers interact with case study material Reforming Schools enables the readers to experience what it is like to work in the field in a way that no other book on school reform does Learning from the Past Diane Ravitch,Maris A. Vinovskis,1995-02 Many Americans view today's problems in education as an unprecedented crisis brought on by contemporary social ills In Learning from the Past a group of distinguished educational historians and scholars of public policy reminds us that many of our current difficulties as well as recent reform efforts have important historical antecedents What can we learn they ask from nineteenth century efforts to promote early childhood education or debates in the 1920s about universal secondary education or the curriculum reforms of the 1950s Reflecting a variety of intellectual and disciplinary orientations the contributors to this volume examine major changes in educational development and reform and consider how such changes have been implemented in the past They address questions of governance equity and multiculturalism curriculum standards school choice and a variety of other issues Policy makers and other school reformers they conclude would do well to investigate the past in order to appreciate the implications of the present reform initiatives Organizational Literacy for Educators Jason Earle, Sharon D.

Kruse, 1999-02-01 Teachers and administrators who understand the politics in schools can operate more successfully to facilitate change This text teaches educators to identify and influence common social patterns that affect their work in school organizations It combines literature from educational leadership and foundations of education to provide a comprehensive introduction to organizational theories related to schooling A particularly notable feature is that in addition to traditional bureaucratic and political approaches there is a substantial focus on recent critical and feminist theories Extensive use of narrative vignettes makes the theories accessible for prospective and practicing teachers Practice cases and exercises assist students in applying the theories to their own organization settings Assuming little prior knowledge of theories about school organizations this volume is intended as a text for introductory graduate courses as well as for advanced undergraduate courses and groups such as site based management teams and district professional development committees Education

Policy Implementation Allan R. Odden, 1991-09-03 This supplemental text for educational policy administration and program evaluation courses provides a framework for examining the following crucial questions To what extent have state and federal initiated policies actually been implemented during the past 25 years and To what degree does implementation lead to effectiveness At a time when critical understanding of the issues is essential for good decision making this volume provides a valuable tool for teachers students and makers of educational policy International Handbook of Teachers and

New Schools for a New Century Tewel,1995-02-28 Combining both the theory as well as the practice of the education reform process this unique breakthrough volume focuses on every aspect of the change process in high school education today Short and long term strategies for each phase of the process provoking creating managing supporting and sustaining reform are covered Based on the real life experiences of the author and others this book recognizes that most high school reform is short lived It stresses the ways to create and maintain positive change making the process a long lasting worthwhile mission for the school s leadership and ultimately the students Short useful summaries of high school reform provide true life pictures of what really happens in the midst of changing the way educational institutions operate These stories cover school based management collaborative or shared leadership school within a school groupings interdisciplinary instruction school based budgeting new models for professional development and others Through these examples readers can understand how reform strategies work and how to apply and adapt them to their own situations As an added feature this book provides the names and locations of schools attempting each reform as well as the names and addresses of school reform networks that readers can contact in their own efforts Major Research Findings, Selected Accomplishments, and Publications, 1985-1988 ,1989 Restructuring Schools David T. Conley,1991 After describing the economic social and technological forces that aggravate the discrepancy between the emerging social structure of society and the organization of schools and necessitate educational restructuring this document discusses renewal reform and restructuring as three levels of efforts toward change in schools Brief representative definitions of restructuring are offered and a continuum of support for fundamental change in education is examined with educational reformers being the most supportive and parents showing the least support Following several categorization schemes for restructuring efforts restructuring activities are grouped into three broad categories and explored as follows 1 the three Central Variables which focus directly on student learning curriculum instruction and assessment 2 the four Enabling Variables time technology learning environment and school community relations and 3 the four Supporting Variables governance working relationships personnel and teacher leadership Last descriptions are given for three possible scenarios for the future of public education continued mediocrity incremental change and improvement or restructuring Sources of further information are appended 128 references CLA School Change Models and Processes Marshall Sashkin,John Egermeier,1993 This report examines a 30 year history of educational change to identify differing perspectives strategies and useful principles The three most influential perspectives in educational change are the rational scientific perspective which proposes that change is created through the dissemination of innovative techniques the political perspective which generates change through legislation and other directives outside the school district and the cultural perspective which seeks improvement through value changes in organizations There are four strategies for implementing change fix the parts fix the people fix the schools and fix the system Systemic education reform offers new hope because it brings together the technical knowledge needed for improvement with a locally sensitive education strategy Through the Goals 2000 Initiative the U S Department of Education supports reform efforts within the framework of the six National Education Goals The Department and the Office of Educational Research and Improvement support standards based assessment techniques They also assist states in developing curriculum frameworks and help disseminate sound research and practice based knowledge A reference bibliography illustrative programs and additional sources are included JPT

Understanding Communities of School Leadership Joseph F. Murphy, 2023-02-16 This book examines the evolution of schooling from bureaucracy and hierarchy to post industrial schools and places teachers leadership on center stage at the same time That is it asks teachers to deepen leadership in their classrooms and with other teachers The book carries education and schooling from formal control to a social influence process and addresses the deeply rooted difficulty of focusing too much energy on content It reveals the strong power of internal and external context and helps educators implant the idea of the school not as a fixed immutable home but as a relatively deep social process It shows how co leadership comes alive in schools Communities of schooling is one of the three most critical developments in education in the last 140 years When it is linked with the two other fundamental reorientations in schooling dispersed ownership and constructivist work it becomes the most powerful force in education since the 1700s This book shows how communities of schooling replace the earlier pillars of learning as telling hierarchy of control and non democratic influence The work also explains the meaning and understanding of school work as a social influence process where all school based educators exert power but at different levels The idea of enhancing individual and collective capacity through interdependency shared work and collective responsibility is unpacked

Schools for a New Century Dwight W. Allen, 1992-01-22 This book presents optimistic alternatives to the current educational reform movement which has not produced substantial improvement Dwight W Allen advocates structural reform of education in virtually every aspect organization staff curriculum and political accountability His central proposal is for the establishment of a national system of experimental schools well funded for research experimentation evaluation and demonstration but with realistic operating expenses The biggest obstacle to reform is the lack of confidence in those who might establish coordinate and implement it The establishment of an extensive coordinated national experimental school system with voluntary participation by all those involved would provide a relatively nonthreatening environment in which to try new alternatives in all aspects of public education The first requirement is a new vision of education one that has the capacity for quick implementation of new curricular and instructional programs Allen advocates the creation of a well designed national curriculum which would enhance local control of schools With a portion of the curriculum standardized local school districts and teachers would have the time and resources to develop local curriculum options
