Resources in Education ,1999-04 Bad Mouthing Jenny Corbett,2013-11-05 The power of language is overwhelming and this is shown in the way in which words are used to define portray and explain people and situations With this in mind then it is interesting to note how the language of special needs has always been composed of words and images which foster fear mistrust loathing and hostility idiot imbecile and moron are frequently used as terms of abuse Whilst there has been considerable theorizing on the psychological and sociological aspects of special education as well as a recognition of the influence of policies and politics there has not yet been a concerted attempt to analyze the way in which language is used to create codes and images This general lack of interest may be because semantics seem peripheral to special education the focus has rather been on individual case studies teaching programmes legislation and practice Jenny Corbett however has a particular interest in the language of special needs Over the past few years she has explored the ways in which new discourses have emerged to challenge those of enlightened modernity the political correctness of special needs language in the mid 1990s and the ways in which imagery is changing as proud labels displace the legacy of negativity In this book the author brings together the findings of these explorations as she looks at where the language of special needs has emerged from where it seems to be going at present and what is likely to become of it in the near future In order to more fully understand why some learners are marginalised and given an inferior status says Jenny Corbett it is important to explore the way in which language has been used Analysing Discourses in Teacher Observation Feedback Conferences Fiona Copland,Helen Donaghue,2021-06-07 This volume focuses on the post observation feedback conference a common feature of teacher education programs and highlights the importance of such talk in the development and evaluation of teachers and other professionals The book adopts a linguistic ethnographic approach which provides a framework for examining the contextual nature of the talk and how it is embedded within wider social contexts and structures such as evaluation regimes Drawing on data from a range of settings including pre service teacher education medical education and teacher appraisal programs Copland and Donaghue examine the feedback conference from a range of perspectives including face identity and genre and show how a nuanced understanding of discussions can support teacher trainers supervisors and observers to provide appropriate and useful feedback A concluding chapter brings together brief vignettes from researchers active in the field to point to future directions for further study This book will be of particular interest to students and researchers in discourse analysis language education linguistic anthropology and professional communication as well as pre and in service teachers Redefining Instructional Leadership John R. Jones,Misty Henry,2022-10-01 Redefining Instructional Leadership The Skills and Energy Required of an Instructional Leader focuses on how principals must be instructional leaders by first making building relationships a priority Then with those relationships that are built the leader will earn trust from their teachers which will give them the influence they need to lead them to better levels of performance and better performance leads to greater depths of student achievement Redefining Instructional Leadership goes beyond simply stating theory and summarizing research about what schools need from instructional leaders by emphasizing what instructional leaders should do and how to do it This book explains the steps instructional leaders must learn and put into practice if their desire is to become a truly dynamic leader that will have a positive impact on teaching and learning Individualism And Community Michael Peters,James Marshall,2002-11 Examining in the widest sense the changes in political philosophy that have occurred in Western capitalist states since the early 1980s this book focuses on the introduction of neo liberal principles in the combined area of social and education policy New Zealand presents a paradigm example of the neo liberal shift in political philosophy From constituting the social laboratory of the Western world in the 1930s in terms of social welfare provision New Zealand has become the neo liberal experiment of the fully marketised society in the 1990s Against the theoretical background of educational theory and practice this book examines neo liberalism and its critiques as responses to the so called crisis of the welfare state and argues for a reformulated critical social policy in the postmodern condition The conclusions about social policy drawn by the authors can be generalized to similar situations in other Western capitalist countries Linguistic Ethnography Fiona Copland, Angela Creese, 2015-01-22 This is an engaging interdisciplinary guide to the unique role of language within ethnography The book provides a philosophical overview of the field alongside practical support for designing and developing your own ethnographic research It demonstrates how to build and develop arguments and engages with practical issues such as ethics transcription and impact There are chapter long case studies based on real research that will explain key themes and help you create and analyse your own linguistic data Drawing on the authors experience they outline the practical epistemological and theoretical decisions that researchers must take when planning and carrying out their studies Other key features include A clear introduction to discourse analytic traditions Tips on how to produce effective field notes Guidance on how to manage interview and conversational data Advice on writing linguistic ethnographies for different audiences Annotated suggestions for further reading Full glossary This book is a master class in understanding linguistic ethnography it will of interest to anyone conducting field research across the social sciences
