Feldt, 1984 This insightful book focuses on state of the art retirement communities in the United States today Experts from the fields of urban planning architecture and aging present in depth profiles of a variety of retirement communities The changing function and character of retirement communities resulting from changes in supply and demand alternate lifestyles and other environmental needs of an ever increasing aging population are explored The timely discussions in this useful resource offer insights into the relative strengths and weaknesses of various types of retirement communities with respect to the varying needs abilities and desires of older people

An All-Consuming Century Gary Cross, 2000-09-14 The unqualified victory of consumerism in America was not a foregone conclusion The United States has traditionally been the home of the most aggressive and often thoughtful criticism of consumption including Puritanism Prohibition the simplicity movement the 60s hippies and the consumer rights movement But at the dawn of the twenty first century not only has American consumerism triumphed there isn't even an ism left to challenge it An All Consuming Century is a rich history of how market goods came to dominate American life over that remarkable hundred years between 1900 and 2000 and why for the first time in history there are no practical limits to consumerism By 1930 a distinct consumer society had emerged in the United States in which the taste speed control and comfort of goods offered new meanings of freedom thus laying the groundwork for a full scale ideology of consumer's democracy after World War II From the introduction of Henry Ford's Model T so low in price that no man making a good salary will be unable to own one and the innovations in selling that arrived with the department store window displays self service the installment plan to the development of new arenas for spending amusement parks penny arcades baseball parks and dance halls Americans embraced the new culture of commercialism with reservations However Gary Cross shows that even the Depression the counterculture of the 1960s and the inflation of the 1970s made Americans more materialistic opening new channels of desire and offering opportunities for more innovative and aggressive marketing The conservative upsurge of the 1980s and 90s indulged in its own brand of self aggrandizement by promoting unrestricted markets The consumerism of today thriving and largely unchecked no longer brings families and communities together instead it increasingly divides and isolates Americans Consumer culture has provided affluent societies with peaceful alternatives to tribalism and class war Cross writes and it has fueled extraordinary economic growth The challenge for the future is to find ways to revive the still valid portion of the culture of constraint and control the overpowering success of the all consuming twentieth century      Magic Lands John M. Findlay,1993-09-22 The American West conjures up images of pastoral tranquility and wide open spaces but by 1970 the Far West was the most urbanized section of the country Exploring four intriguing cityscapes Disneyland Stanford Industrial Park Sun City and the 1962 Seattle World s Fair John Findlay shows how each created a sense of cohesion and sustained people s belief in their superior urban environment This first book length study of the urban West after 1940 argues that Westerners deliberately tried to build cities that differed radically from their eastern counterparts In 1954 Walt Disney began building the world s first theme park using Hollywood s movie making techniques The creators of Stanford Industrial Park were more hesitant in their approach to a conceptually organized environment but by the mid 1960s the Park was the nation s prototypical research park and the intellectual downtown for the high technology region that became Silicon Valley In 1960 on the outskirts of Phoenix Del E Webb built Sun City the largest most influential retirement community in the United States Another innovative cityscape arose from the 1962 Seattle World s Fair and provided a futuristic somewhat fanciful vision of modern life These four became magic lands that provided an antidote to the apparent chaos of their respective urban milieus Exemplars of a new lifestyle they are landmarks on the changing cultural landscape of postwar America      The Retirement Community Movement Leon A. Pastalan,1989 This new book identifies key elements in the success or failure of a retirement community The practical implications of the research findings provided in this important volume will help you to identify and satisfy the needs of retirement community residents Discover the level of interest middle income elderly people have in moving into a retirement community and the critical role this group plays in the future of retirement communities Gain valuable insights into the effect that the type of sponsorship has on the elderly s attitudes toward retirement communities and attitudes older persons have toward living arrangements in general Learn how some CEOs of continuing care retirement communities are responding to the dilemma of providing for aging in place while providing for the rejuvenation of the community to insure continued viability and discover what may well be the single most crucial factor in the satisfaction level of residents in retirement settings The Retirement Community Movement is fascinating reading for those who simply want to learn more about retirement communities and essential reading for those who conduct market feasibility studies or administer retirement communities      Journal of Human Services Abstracts ,1984      The Encyclopedia of Aging George L. Maddox,2013-12-11 Comprehensive multidisciplinary encyclopedia dealing with aging processes and older adults Intended for the educated inquirer who needs a brief authoritative introduction to key topics and issues in aging Signed entries contain cross references Contains lengthy bibliography General index      Optimizing Housing for the Elderly Leon A Pastalan,2014-03-18 Discover the diverse range of housing options available to the elderly population with this excellent new book This timely volume addresses the public policy and design and development issues that must necessarily face those concerned with housing our steadily growing elderly population The chapters cover a broad spectrum of populations including elderly people in aging ghettos in suburbia continuing care retirement community residents full time recreational vehicle travelers and the homeless elderly The authoritative contributors go beyond descriptions of wide ranging elderly housing options and delve into the central themes that influence them all Optimizing Housing for the Elderly explores some common considerations such as personal security food and medical services independence and social interaction that are important determining factors when selecting a style of housing and addresses economic questions including advice on reducing costs in popular continuing care retirement communities currently inaccessible to lower income elderly people Professionals involved in any aspect of housing for the elderly will benefit from the information in this insightful book      Services to the Aging and Aged Paul K. Kim, 2021-03-04 This series attempts to address the topic of aging from a wide variety of perspectives and to make available some of the best gerontological thought and writings to researchers professional practitioners and students in the field of aging as well as in other related areas This volume is an invaluable resource for those persons seeking a broad comprehensive coverage of current public policies and service programs for the elderly Besides dealing with present gerontological services it also explores the emerging challenges that these services must face in the future One of the outstanding features of the book is that its contributors include some of the most prominent authorities in the field of gerontology This is an exceptionally important and timely volume and is a much needed addition to the literature on aging      Becoming an Environmental Psychologist Lindsay J. McCunn, 2025-04-08 This book explores the interdisciplinary pathways that leading environmental psychologists have taken to become educators researchers consultants and professionals in this highly applied and growing field Environmental psychology examines the transactions between people and the built and natural settings in which they inhabit Despite this broad scope few direct avenues to careers in environmental psychology exist and students must forge varied and individualized routes to becoming scholars and practitioners in this important area of study The aim of the book is to serve as an inspiring supplemental resource for students who wish to know more about how leading thinkers established themselves as environmental psychologists In each chapter the author describes their inspirations decisions about undergraduate and graduate courses particular schools and professional connections that have made a difference to their careers in environmental psychology Many undergraduate students are disappointed with the lack of a clear path to becoming an environmental psychologist A strong need exists for a resource like this book for students and for others who may be looking to add to their careers to understand how to gain experience and credentials in the field in different ways Readers may also be bolstered in their attitude about choosing a niche field like environmental psychology and decide to stick with it if they read the success stories published in this book by leading thinkers who have taken varied and atypical approaches to becoming a professional environmental psychologist The book's chapters are organized in a manner that shows readers how one may come from many different backgrounds and integrate environmental psychology into their education or professional realm Part I contains chapters in which authors write about how they approached environmental psychology from architecture urban planning and geography while Part II includes chapters from authors who found environmental psychology via cognitive psychology clinical practice and neuroscience Part III has chapters from authors writing from the health sciences and social ecology while Part IV contains chapters by authors inspired to become environmental psychologists through a general appreciation of nature and eco conscious living in a variety of settings Those who find a way to make environmental psychology part of their career are often very passionate individuals who are keen to describe their pathway to doing what they love with the hope that others will follow This book is likely to advance that outcome

Cityscape , 2004

Organizing Age Stephen Fineman, 2011-05-05 Age is the silent shaper of work organizations and their human resource practices It has become a potent feature of how society is structured and how it views itself Age assumptions mould the behaviours of young and old alike and are used as political tools by policy makers and managers Organizing Age asks the perennial question can age ever not matter Drawing on range of social scientific and popular writings this book casts a critical eye over the social construction and politicization of age in and beyond organizations Amongst other topics it discusses the historical roots of age in society how we perform our age in different settings the social impact of defining age groups as generations ageism the effect of an age cluster on an organization s processes and members experience the rituals of retirement and the birth of the retirement industry the impact of economic recession in challenging some of our assumptions about age and the increasing politicization of the growing grey population Organizing Age provides an accessible introduction to the current and emerging themes around this topic which will be an invaluable resource for students academics and policy makers

Shelter and Service Issues for Aging Populations Leon A Pastalan, 2014-01-09 Shelter and Service Issues for Aging Populations takes you for an inside look at what policies in Western Europe Canada and the United States have done to meet the housing and service needs of the elderly and the disabled and what policies have yet to accomplish As you learn about a wide range of cost effective and successful housing options such as congregate housing home equity conversions and homesharing you will learn about the challenges of providing responsive high quality housing and living arrangements to meet the needs of different populations As this insightful book reveals the psychosocial needs of elderly and disabled persons have often been neglected in efforts to provide appropriate physical accommodation and services and shelter are seldom coordinated to respond to the changes individuals experience Shelter and Service Issues for Aging Populations shows you how federal and state provincial governments nonprofit organizations and private groups have all implemented policies to create barrier free housing Yet at the same time most Western countries have not developed comprehensive grant and loan programs to allow the elderly and disabled to modify their homes As this book walks you through the problems that exist it shows you how policymakers architects social work practitioners and academics housing developers and community leaders can work together to improve housing conditions and services Along the way you will learn about the failure of health care systems to cover home modifications the Fair Housing Act Amendment stigmatizing effects of the elderly label in obtaining community accommodation differences between environmental needs of rural and urban seniors current patterns of housing and living arrangements of older Canadians the effects of demographic aging on the urban ecology the Abbeyfield model of congregate housing continuing care retirement communities aging in place Shelter and Service Issues for Aging Populations looks at the strengths and weaknesses of different approaches to housing and service provision to help housing policy specialists gerontologists social workers community leaders architects and housing developers find stronger more effective solutions for giving people the home environments they need Don't continue to supply inadequate housing to people with special needs Let this book inform you guide you and contribute to the shaping of important new housing and service policies

Desert Visions and the Making of Phoenix, 1860-2009 Philip VanderMeer, 2010-12-16 Whether touted for its burgeoning economy affordable housing and pleasant living style or criticized for being less like a city than a sprawling suburb Phoenix by all environmental logic should not exist Yet despite its extremely hot and dry climate and its remoteness Phoenix has grown into a massive metropolitan area This exhaustive study examines the history of how Phoenix came into being and how it has sustained itself from its origins in the 1860s to its present status as the nation's fifth largest city From the beginning Phoenix sought to grow and although growth has remained central to the city's history its importance meaning and value have changed substantially over the years The initial vision of Phoenix as an American Eden gave way to the Cold War Era vision of a High Tech Suburbia which in turn gave way to rising concerns in the late twentieth century about the environmental social and political costs of growth To understand how such unusual growth occurred in such an improbable location Philip VanderMeer explores five major themes the natural environment urban infrastructure economic development social and cultural values and public leadership Through investigating Phoenix's struggle to become a major American metropolis his study also offers a unique view of what it means to be a desert city

The Graying of the World Laura Katz Olson, 1994 This unique book studies America's frail older population relative to the elderly in ten other nations It contains a cross national assessment of approaches to long term care for the elderly and explains the nature and extent of current and future problems related to caring for the functionally impaired elderly By studying and analyzing the ongoing struggles of other nations in their attempts to cope with growing populations of frail elderly readers in the U S can expand the parameters of their own national debate on the subject The Graying of the World shows the political economic and social context in which decisions on elder care are based and evaluates how successful various countries programs have been Chapters outline alternative approaches taken by disparate types of national systems highlighting unique and creative solutions to provide useful information on new and alternative ways to respond to personal and public issues related to elder care The elderly and their care in Finland France Germany Great Britain Israel Japan People s Republic of China Sweden and Yugoslavia are discussed as are the elderly in Canada and the United States Chapters cover the following topics for each country the increasing number of frail elderly and their costly health needs the current and future role of the state in elder care the current and future role of the family in elder care types of support services offered for the elderly including in home care community based care and institutional care the relationship of a nation s political economy to its attitude and policy on long term care innovative approaches to elder care Practitioners decision makers and the concerned general public will all find The Graying of the World an interesting and informative book that expands the discussion of health care options available for the elderly As such the book is also a helpful text for undergraduate and beginning graduate students of gerontology public policy and comparative politics as well as for social service practitioners It provokes much needed conversation on developing a healthcare plan for the future that meets the needs of a large elderly population      Encyclopedia of Social Networks George A. Barnett, 2011-09-07 This handbook systematically introduces readers to the key concepts substantive topics central methods and prime debates      Aging Independently Klaus Warner Schaie, 2003 This volume is based on the conference Aging in the Community Living Arrangements and Mobility organised by the German Centre for Research on Aging at the University of Heidelberg in cooperation with Pennsylvania State University It explores the similarities and differences of living arrangements and outdoor mobility in both cultures and the impact on older persons roles in community life and sustainable community development Considers the future of aging theoretically from an environmental gerontology perspective and practically in terms of available technology the central tenet of this volume is that future indoor and outdoor environments will become much more intertwined than is the case today Merging the concerns of living arrangements and mobility this volume leads us to a new understanding of distance and nearness even in the presence for example of severe chronic illness      The President's Report to the Board of Regents for the Academic Year ...
