Seeing Gardens:

Seeing Gardens Sam Abell, 2008-10 For 30 years Sam Abell has traveled the world paying attention to the beauty of gardens In words and photographs this book chronicles his travels and the discoveries he makes seeing gardens in all settings expected and unexpected it all adds up to an original view of life published here for the first time where all the earth is seen as a garden As befits a book that melds two visual arts Seeing Gardens lets its 150 pictures speak for themselves with a spare text that offers context rather than commentary The book is at once thoughtful and elegant and the anecdotes recollections and aesthetic philosophy amount to a brief but telling memoir of Abell s three decades of interpreting gardens

Harrison, 2008-11-15 Humans have long turned to gardens both real and imaginary for sanctuary from the frenzy and tumult that surrounds them Those gardens may be as far away from everyday reality as Gilgamesh s garden of the gods or as near as our own backyard but in their very conception and the marks they bear of human care and cultivation gardens stand as restorative nourishing necessary havens With Gardens Robert Pogue Harrison graces readers with a thoughtful wide ranging examination of the many ways gardens evoke the human condition Moving from from the gardens of ancient philosophers to the gardens of homeless people in contemporary New York he shows how again and again the garden has served as a check against the destruction and losses of history The ancients explains Harrison viewed gardens as both a model and a location for the laborious self cultivation and self improvement that are essential to serenity and enlightenment an association that has continued throughout the ages The Bible and Qur an Plato s Academy and Epicurus s Garden School Zen rock and Islamic carpet gardens Boccaccio Rihaku Capek Cao Xueqin Italo Calvino Ariosto Michel Tournier and Hannah Arendt all come into play as this work explores the ways in which the concept and reality of the garden has informed human thinking about mortality order and power Alive with the echoes and arguments of Western thought Gardens is a fitting continuation of the intellectual journeys of Harrison s earlier classics Forests and The Dominion of the Dead Voltaire famously urged us to cultivate our gardens with this compelling volume Robert Pogue Harrison reminds us of the nature of that responsibility and its enduring importance to humanity I find myself completely besotted by a new book titled Gardens An Essay on the Human Condition by Robert Pogue Harrison The author is one of the very best cultural critics at work today He is a man of deep learning immense generosity of spirit passionate curiosity and manifold rhetorical gifts Julia Keller Chicago Tribune This book is about gardens as a metaphor for the human condition Harrison draws freely and with brilliance from 5 000 years of Western literature and criticism including works on philosophy and garden history He is a careful as well as an inspiring scholar Tom Turner Times Higher Education When I was a student my Cambridge supervisor said in the Olympian tone characteristic of his kind that the only living literary critics for whom he would sell his shirt were William Empson and G Wilson Knight Having spent the subsequent 30 years in the febrile world of academic Lit Crit I m not sure that I d sell my shirt for any living critic But if there had to be one it would unquestionably be Robert Pogue Harrison whose study Forests The Shadow of Civilization published in 1992 has the true quality of literature not of criticism it stays with you like an amiable ghost long after you read it Though more modest in scope this new book is similarly destined to become a classic It has two principal heroes the ancient philosopher Epicurus and the wonderfully witty Czech writer Karel Capek apropos of whom it is remarked that whereas most people believe gardening to be a subset of life gardeners including Capek understand that life is a subset of gardening Jonathan Bate The Spectator

The Garden, 1896 Autobiography of a Garden Patterson Webster, 2022-07-04 Autobiography of a Garden follows Patterson Webster's twenty-five year journey as she transforms a beautiful but conventional country property into a 750-acre landscape that challenges what a garden is or can be. A unique personal memoir, this book details how a neophyte gardener moved from copying the ideas of other people to learning from them and finally to striking out on her own. Combining traditions from French and English eighteenth-century gardens with contemporary perspectives, Webster communicates concepts and ideas that underpin the garden's design, sharing a process that evolved over seasons and years. She explores the meaning of creating a garden and the meaning that a garden can create, linking ideas about aging and the passage of time to the reality of growth and death in the landscape and thinking through how art in a garden can reframe questions of memory and our relationship to nature. Using the history of the property as a framework Webster considers the impact made by those who lived on the land before her the Abenaki the early settlers the cottagers the farmers the US southerners who came to Quebec to avoid the summer heat and the northerners who defeated them in the Civil War With engaging personal anecdotes she describes the thinking behind each part of the garden and the examples that guided her the mishaps and successes she encountered and her plans for the future Beautifully photographed and full of inspirational ways of thinking about gardens and gardening Autobiography of a Garden blends history horticulture and art encouraging readers to make their own surroundings more beautiful and more meaningful
