Imaginings in Thailand James Taylor, 2016-12-05 This book presents a rethink on the significance of Thai Buddhism in an increasingly complex and changing post modern urban context especially following the financial crisis of 1997 Defining the cultural nature of Thai urbanity the implications for local global flows interactions and emergent social formations James Taylor opens up new possibilities in understanding the specificities of everyday urban life as this relates to perceptions conceptions and lived experiences of religiosity Changes in the centre are also reverberating in the remaining forests and the monastic tradition of forest dwelling which has sourced most of the nation's modern saints The text is based on ethnography taking into account the rich variety of everyday practices in a m lrange of the religious In Thailand Buddhism is so intimately interconnected with national identity and social economic and ethno political concerns as to be inseparable Taylor argues here that in recent years there has been a marked reformulation of important conventional cosmologies through new and challenging Buddhist ideas and practices These influences and changes are as much located outside as inside the Buddhist temples monasteries Shifting Cultivation Policies Malcolm Cairns, 2017-11-13 Shifting cultivation supports around 200 million people in the Asia Pacific region alone It is often regarded as a primitive and inefficient form of agriculture that destroys forests causes soil erosion and robs lowland areas of water These misconceptions and their policy implications need to be challenged Swidden farming could support carbon sequestration and conservation of land biodiversity and cultural heritage This comprehensive analysis of past and present policy highlights successes and failures and emphasizes the importance of getting it right for the future This book is enhanced with supplementary resources The addendum chapters can be found at www.cabi.org/openresources 91797 Approaching Natural Resources for Sustainable Development in

Finding Their Voice Charles Keyes, 2014-01-05 The rural Lao speaking people of northeastern Thailand constitute over a third of the entire population of Thailand Over the last century this ethnically separate community has evolved from a traditional peasantry into cosmopolitan villagers who are actively shaping Thai politics Eminent anthropologist Charles Keyes traces this evolution in detail beginning with the failure of a Buddhist millenarian uprising in 1901 2 and concluding with the successful election of the Thai Rak Thai Pheu Thai Party in the 2000s In the intervening century rural northeasterners have become more educated and prosperous and they have gained a sophisticated understanding of the world and of their position in it as Thai citizens Although northeasterners have often been thwarted in their efforts to press government agencies to redress their grievances they have rejected radical revolutionary efforts to transform the Thai political system Instead they have looked to parliamentary democracy as the system in which they can make their voices heard As the country engages with the processes of democracy the Pheu Thai Party and the Red Shirt movement appear to have established the people of northeastern Thailand as an authentic voice in the nation s political landscape Highlights Traces the evolution of a marginalized peasantry into a significant political force in Thai society Examines the disjunction between the urban middle class negative perspectives on the northeastern Thai rural population and real characteristics of that population Highlights the different views of political authority and legitimacy in Thailand that have contributed to the twenty first century crisis in the Thai political order What Others Are Saying Finding Their Voice by anthropologist Charles Keyes is a culmination of decades of careful ethnography consistently combined with an astute political analysis and sense of history Reminiscent of Eugen Weber s classic Peasants into Frenchmen Keyes s book shows that the people of Isan have become the makers and undoers of governments and are more firmly wedded to the modern notion of parliamentary democracy than are the refined urban elites This book has as much to say about the polarized politics of Thailand as it does about the rich culture and history of Isan Philip Hirsch University of Sydney

Cross-sectoral Policy Developments in Forestry Yves C. Dubé, Franz Schmithüsen, 2014-05-14 Forestry practices are closely linked to decisions that address measures on climate change biodiversity and the institutional framework for sustainable development This book documents the progress made in creating the political economic and social conditions that are necessary for a sustainable and multifunctional use of forest resources

Environmental Governance in a Populist/Authoritarian Era James McCarthy, 2020-05-21 This volume explores the many and deep connections between the widespread rise of authoritarian leaders and populist politics in recent years and the domain of environmental politics and governance how environments are known valued and managed for whose benefit and with what outcomes The volume is explicitly international in scope and comparative in design emphasizing both the differences and commonalities to be seen among contemporary authoritarian and populist political formations and their relations to environmental governance

Prominent themes include the historical roots of and precedents for environmental governance in authoritarian and populist contexts the relationships between populism and authoritarianism and extractivism and resource nationalism environmental politics as an arena for questions of security and citizenship racialization and environmental politics the politics of environmental science and knowledge and progressive political alternatives In each domain using rich case studies contributors analyse what differences it makes when environmental governance takes place in authoritarian and populist political contexts This book was originally published as a special issue of Annals of the American Association of Geographers

Energy, Governance and Security in Thailand and Myanmar (Burma) Adam Simpson, 2016-04-29 Across the world states are seeking out new and secure supplies of energy but this search is manifesting itself most visibly in Asia where rapid industrialisation in states such as China and India is fomenting a frantic scramble for energy resources Due to entrenched societal inequities and widespread authoritarian governance however the pursuit of national energy security through transnational energy projects has resulted in devastating impacts on the human and environmental security of local populations These effects are particularly evident in both Thailand and Myanmar Burma which located at the crossroads of Asia are increasingly engaged in the cross border energy trade Based on extensive fieldwork and theoretical analysis this ground breaking book proposes a new critical approach to energy and environmental security and explores the important role that both local and transnational environmental movements are playing in the absence of effective and democratic governments in providing activist environmental governance for energy projects throughout the region By comparing the nature of this activism under two very different political regimes it delivers crucial theoretical insights with both academic and policy implications for the sustainable and equitable development of the South s natural resources

The Buddhist World John Powers, 2015-10-05 The Buddhist World joins a series of books on the world s great religions and cultures offering a lively and up to date survey of Buddhist studies for students and scholars alike It explores regional varieties of Buddhism and core topics including buddha nature ritual and pilgrimage In addition to historical and geo political views of Buddhism the volume features thematic chapters on philosophical concepts such as ethics as well as social constructs and categories such as community and family The book also addresses lived Buddhism in its many forms examining the ways in which modernity is reshaping traditional structures ancient doctrines and cosmological beliefs

The Age of Ecology Joachim Radkau, 2014-04-03 This book is the first major study of the history of environmentalism from its origins in romanticism and the nature cults of the late 18th century to the global environmental movements of today Radkau shows that this is not a single story of the steady ascent of environmentalism but rather a multiplicity of stories each with its own dramatic tension between single issue movements and the challenges posed by the interconnection of environmental issues between charismatic leaders and bureaucratic organizations and between grassroot movements and global players While the history can be traced back several centuries environmentalism has flourished since the environmental revolution of 1970 spurred on by the Chernobyl nuclear disaster in 1986 and the growing concern about global warming While environmentalists often opposed the scientific mainstream they were also often led by scientific knowledge Environmentalism is the true Enlightenment of our time so much so that we can call our era the age of ecology This timely and comprehensive global history of environmentalism will be essential reading for anyone concerned with the most pressing global issues of our time

Tropical Forests, International Jungle M. Smuts, 2003-05-29 Marie Claude Smuts looks at the issue of rain forest depletion and global environmental policies Beginning with how the issue entered the world stage in the 1980s despite alarms over the issue in the 1950s Tropical Forests International Jungle explores the complexities of what are tropical forests what role they play not only in environmentalism but in trade health care and almost every facet of natural and social life for those living there and beyond Although for most in the developed world tropical forests have gained a status of part of our world heritage these forests are not really part of the global commons or a global public good Developing nations maintain control over the forests within their borders and often use the forests as they see fit The international system for mediating the issue is a fractured group of non governmental organizations and transnational networks often with competing views of how to manage tropical forests Despite this seemingly grim picture Smuts is optimistic A changing world view toward forest depletion is influencing countries both North and South Although forests will be used commercially it is a dynamic process that should maintain them far into the future

Southeast Asia Peter Boomgaard, 2006-12-14 From Angkor Wat to Agent Orange Southeast Asia An Environmental History tells the story of some of the most dramatic effects humans have had on the natural and developed environment anywhere in the world and examines the ways in which environmental factors have helped shape the culture politics and societies of the region Ever since the first humanlike creatures arrived some 80 000 years ago Southeast Asia s varied and challenging environment has helped shape the course of human destiny From the importance of its spices to 17th century Europeans to the jungle canopies that sheltered Communist insurgents throughout much of the 20th century the region s environment has often proven decisive in human affairs Packed with key facts and analysis Southeast Asia provides an expert guide to the complex interplay between human societies and the environment from Burma to the Philippines and from Vietnam to Indonesia How has the environment helped shape politics trade and religion What are the likely consequences of ongoing deforestation for Southeast Asia's people and animals Part of ABC-CLIO's Nature and Human Societies series this work charts the region's environmental history from prehistory to modern times and is essential reading for students and experts alike Living at the Edge of Thai Society Claudio Delang, 2004-03 This book is the first major ethnographic and anthropological study of the Karen for over a decade and looks at such key issues as history ethnic identity religious change the impact of government intervention and gender relations

Routledge Handbook of Environment and Society in Asia Paul G. Harris, Graeme Lang, 2014-09-19 Nowhere is the connection between society and the environment more evident and potentially more harmful for the future of the world than in Asia In recent decades rapid development of Asian countries with very large populations has led to an unprecedented increase in environmental problems such as air and water pollution solid and hazardous wastes deforestation depletion of natural resources and extinction of native species This handbook provides a comprehensive survey of the cultural social and policy contexts of environmental change across East Asia The team of international experts critically examine a wide range of environmental problems related to energy climate change air land water fisheries forests and wildlife The editors conclude that with nearly half of the human population of the planet and several rapidly growing economies most notably China Asian societies will determine much of the future of human impacts on the regional and global environments As climate change related threats to society increase the book strongly argues for increased environmental consciousness and action in Asian societies This handbook is a very valuable companion for students scholars policy makers and researchers working on environmental issues in Asia

Race and Rurality in the Global Economy Michaela A. Crichtlow, Patricia Northover, Juan Giusti-Cordero, 2018-09-26 Issues of migration environment rurality and the visceral politics of place and space have occupied center stage in recent electoral political struggles in the United States and Europe suffused by an antiglobalization discourse that has come to resonate with Euro American peoples Race and Rurality in the Global Economy suggests that this present fractious global politics begs for closer attention to be paid to the deep rooted conditions and outcomes of globalization and development From multiple viewpoints the contributors to this volume propose ways of understanding the ongoing processes of globalization that configure peoples and places via a politics of rurality in a capitalist world economy and through an optics of raciality that intersects with class gender identity land and environment In tackling the dynamics of space and place their essays address matters such as the heightened risks and multiple states of insecurity in the global economy the new logics of expulsion and primitive accumulation dynamics shaping a new savage sorting patterns of resistance and transformation in the face of globalization's political and environmental changes the steady decline in the livelihoods of people of color globally and their deepened vulnerabilities and the complex reconstitution of systemic and lived racialization within these processes This book is an invitation to ask whether our dystopia in present politics can be disentangled from the deepening sense of white fragility in the context of the historical power of globalization's raced effects This book is freely available in an open access edition thanks to Knowledge Unlatched

Managing Intermediate Size Cities M. Romanos, C. Auffrey, 2013-04-17 I am both pleased and honored to introduce this book to readers and I want to take a few moments to explain why Michael Romanos and Christopher Auffrey have produced a volume which will be of immense value to several different types of people Planners and other specialists concerned with the development of the Southeast Asian region and the issues and opportunities associated with urban growth and sustainable development will find much to interest them in this book But the book I believe has much wider appeal and that is what I want to touch on briefly here The University of Cincinnati where Michael Chris and I work is attempting to globalize itself to develop its institutional capacity for international activities to infuse its curriculum with international themes and to promote and increase global competence among its graduates Many American universities are doing this of course In the process we are seeing some very interesting experiments in pedagogy as faculty look for learning moments in new and sometimes exotic places Michael Chris and their colleagues have it seems to me developed an outstanding model for learning across national and cultural boundaries In the chapters which follow you will read the results of their work What will be less apparent however is the process by which that work was produced
