Seeking Something Sacred Managing Our Frustrations Losses And Fears:

Seeking Something Sacred Joseph E. Talley, 2001 Drawing on searing personal experiences including disability and the sudden death of his young son Talley addresses the fragility of human life and our need to be grounded in something beyond ourselves Only through trusting in God's absolute goodness can we cope with the pain inherent in our human condition

Townsend,2016-04-08 The British Prime Minister has avowed to kill off the health and safety culture which he described as a monster Nonetheless industries face ever increasing public expectation and legislative pressure to improve safety when actually rates of safety improvement have slowed to a standstill In Safety Can t Be Measured Andrew Townsend suggests the main reason for the stagnation of safety improvement is the failure to recognise the evolution in accident causation and to evolve with it He severely criticises some aspects of current day management of occupational safety and contends that everyone is trying to continuously improve something in which improvement cannot be measured so the received wisdom underpinning safety management and regulation is not evidence based and much of it is misguided What is measured is the absence of safety through incidents injuries and the occurrence of ill health We cannot continue to justify these ways of doing things and claiming success by association without admitting there might be other explanations In this series of short chapters occupational health and safety is put in context by demystifying the research regulation and management of health and safety Using evidence Townsend challenges orthodox dogma by demonstrating that currently unused data could help deduce how safety really works and thus support alternative thought processes from which new approaches to risk reduction and safety management could emerge Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine ,1883 The MacArthur New Testament
