The Ethical Use of Touch in Psychotherapy Mic Hunter, Jim Struve, 1997-10-08 Is ethical touch an oxymoron Is the bias against touch in psychotherapy justified Can the recovery process be complete without healing touch Mental health professionals are entrusted with the awesome responsibility of providing appropriate treatment for clients in a safe environment that nurtures trust a necessary ingredient for optimum movement through the therapeutic process Though treatment approaches vary most modalities are verbally based and in theory exclude physical contact Fearing that any form of touch would likely lead to sexual feelings or interaction clinicians tend to shy away from the topic In The Ethical Use of Touch in Psychotherapy however authors Mic Hunter and Jim Struve skillfully demonstrate that touch a most basic human need is intrinsic to the healing process along with talk therapy regardless of the practitioner's theoretical orientation While the use of touch is a given in other health care settings it remains a benefit denied as taboo in psychotherapeutic relationships due to transgressors whose unscrupulous use of a valuable technique have marred its reputation This book encourages readers to conduct a meaningful self reflection and explore possible misconceptions related to touch in order to rejuvenate its acceptance Based on years of sound research and clinical experience The Ethical Use of Touch in Psychotherapy promises to enrich clinical discussion and stimulate further empirical research This insightful and progressive presentation is a must read for clinicians interns and advanced students as well as lay readers interested in the dynamics and innovations in psychotherapy their childhood memories of being sexually victimized because of fear shame and the stigma of stereotypes which equate homosexuality with child abuse Some gay men may view these histories as rites of passage and dismiss other perspectives as betrayals of their community or inadvertant support for the anti gay agenda of the religious right Certain therapists and so called support groups ridicule them as hysterics with false memories Groups like the North American Man Boy Love Association or the Rene Guyon Society dismiss the source of their anguish as wishful thinking or a healthy consensual intergenerational romance Finally here is a book that addresses the unique emotional and psychological needs of gay male survivors of sexual abuse Gay Men and Childhood Sexual Trauma offers new hope by separating the crime of pedophilia from the consensual intimacy of an adult male same sex relationship It provides specific guidance for therapists working with gay men either in individual or group therapy settings and offers practical treatment suggestions as well as moving insights into the painful conflicts gay men may have in accepting their own sexuality and revealing their status as child survivor of an adult sexual predator Gay Men and Childhood Sexual Trauma discusses practical ways to help the survivor heal including adopting eye movement desensitization and reprocessing techniques to treat traumatized gay men helping gay men to break the old arousal patterns associated with their abusers handling survivors formidable issues of trust addictions depression and low self esteem leading survivor groups of mixed sexual orientation discerning the special meaning of HIV to traumatized gay men respecting cross cultural differences in treating the gay male sexual trauma survivor finding new directions for research This powerful volume offers sufficient technical detail to be useful for the therapist working with gay men yet it is written with enough clarity and compassion to be used as bibliotherapy for men just coming out as gay as survivor or as both Gay Men and Childhood Sexual Trauma is an essential resource for mental health professionals as well as for gay men who have themselves survived sexual abuse or who love someone who did

Examining the Benefits of Massage Therapy For Survivors of Sexual and Domestic Violence Audra Hixson,2006-03-15 Women experience sexual and domestic violence at alarmingly high rates Recovery from this type of trauma can be a complex and extensive process that in best cases involves a broad network for support This dissertation examined the experiences of women over the age of 21 who have received massage therapy during their healing process from sexual or domestic violence For the purposes of this study the women who participated were often referred to as survivors of abuse Current research examined in the literature review indicates that the effects of this type of trauma are multifaceted and that one of the interventions sought for diminishing the effects of this trauma is massage The importance of this study completed with the use of descriptive research methodology included the opportunity to gain information from abuse survivors about their personal experiences with massage and how they can best be served by the massage therapist The results of a self report survey and interview process provide valuable information to raise awareness of these societal issues among massage professionals While the subjects were not interviewed about their specific experiences of abuse they provided important information about the effects that these experiences have had on their lives Further the women interviewed shared information about the concerns that they had with regard to massage therapy and some of the specific experiences that they have had during massage sessions Although the sample size was small with 10 women interviewed the information provided has clear implications for the practice of massage therapy Some of the implications found involve therapist gender trust building between client and practitioner and communication with the client during massage therapy sessions Recommendations for massage professionals have been made based on these findings Further research opportunities exist in several areas and include screening massage clients for abuse during the intake process examining the challenges for male massage therapists and female massage therapists and evaluating the massage educational institutions for training in issues of trauma particular to sexual and domestic violence
