York City postcards providing a snapshot of how much the Big Apple has changed and how much has remained recognizably the same. During the early years of the twentieth century postcard photographers traveled the length and breadth of Manhattan snapping images and documenting landmarks and important new architectural masterpieces such as the Singer Building 1908, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company Tower 1909 and the Woolworth Building 1913, each of which succeeded the other as the world's tallest building at the time of their respective completion. Also celebrated were the engineering feats of the Brooklyn Bridge and the elevated trains and early subway as well as popular amusements such as the original Madison Square Garden and the Hippodrome which occupied an entire city block at Longacre Square since renamed Times Square. Scenic views of the city from a distance were equally popular and in fact led to the coining of the word skyline in 1896. This charming keepsake volume is the perfect souvenir for architecture and history buffs and makes a wonderful gift.

Brutal Bloc Postcards Damon Murray, Stephen Sorrell, 2018. Brutalist hotels, avant garde monuments and futurist TV towers, rare and previously unpublished vintage postcards from the Eastern Bloc. Brutal concrete hotels, futurist TV towers, heroic statues of workers: this collection of Soviet era postcards documents the uncompromising landscape of the Eastern Bloc through its buildings and monuments. These are interspersed with quotes from prominent figures of the time which both support and confound the ideologies presented in the images. In contrast to the photographs of a ruined and abandoned Soviet empire we are accustomed to seeing today, the scenes depicted here publicize the bright future of communism: social housing blocks, palaces of culture and monuments to comradeship. Dating from the 1960s to the 1980s, they offer a nostalgic yet revealing insight into social and architectural values of the time, acting as a window through which we can examine cars, people and, of course, buildings. These postcards, sanctioned by the authorities, were intended to show the world what living in communism looked like. Instead, this postcard propaganda inadvertently communicates other messages: outside the House of Political Enlightenment in Yerevan, the flowerbed reads 'Glory to the Communist Party of the Soviet Union'; in Novopolotsk, art school pupils paint plein air their subject, a housing estate at the Irkutsk Polytechnic Institute; students stroll past a 16 foot tall concrete hammer and sickle. These postcards are at once sinister, funny, poignant and surreal.

As recognized, adventure as skillfully as experience virtually lesson, amusement, as well as accord can be gotten by just checking out a book Sfmoma Architectural Images 30 Postcards Collectible Postcards Unknown furthermore it is not directly done, you could agree to even more around this life, around the world.
