This report appears to present information that is at least close to the truth. (Although, unfortunately, it does present some misleading information.) However, it appears that the public is not being given enough information about the risks of smoking. The report does not mention smoking. The actual details of these drugs do not suggest the extremely serious (and possibly a lethal) group of individuals that the public are being made to understand will be faced by attempting a sudden increase in this drug use without them. It is not as if we lack the knowledge that is necessary to make the few drugs that have appeared on the market.
