Shade Ireland Only:

Lights and Shades of Ireland Asenath Nicholson, 1850 Shades of Green Ryan W. Keating, 2017-08-08 Drawing on records of about 5 500 soldiers and veterans Shades of Green traces the organization of Irish regiments from the perspective of local communities in Connecticut Illinois and Wisconsin and the relationships between soldiers and the home front Research on the impact of the Civil War on Irish Americans has traditionally fallen into one of two tracks arguing that the Civil War either further alienated Irish immigrants from American society or that military service in defense of the Union offered these men a means of assimilation In this study of Irish American service Ryan W Keating argues that neither paradigm really holds because many Irish Americans during this time already considered themselves to be assimilated members of American society This comprehensive study argues that the local community was often more important to ethnic soldiers than the imagined ethnic community especially in terms of political social and economic relationships An analysis of the Civil War era from this perspective provides a much clearer understanding of immigrant place and identity during the nineteenth century With a focus on three regiments not traditionally studied the author provides a fine grained analysis revealing that ethnic communities like other types of communities are not monolithic on a national scale Examining lesser studied communities rather than the usual those of New York City and Boston Keating brings the local back into the story of Irish American participation in the Civil War thus adding something new and valuable to the study of the immigrant experience in America s bloodiest conflict Throughout this rich and groundbreaking study Keating supports his argument through advanced quantitative analysis of military service records and an exhaustive review of a massive wealth of raw data his use of quantitative methods on a large dataset is an unusual and exciting development in Civil War studies Shades of Green is sure to shake up several fields of study that rely on ethnicity as a useful category for analysis its impressive research provides a significant contribution to scholarship Shades of Blue Félix Krawatzek, Friedemann Pestel, Rieke Trimcev, Gregor Feindt, 2025-02-15 In Shades of Blue Félix Krawatzek Friedemann Pestel Rieke Trimcev and Gregor Feindt investigate the political project of Europe as it oscillates between the extremes of expectations of an ever wider integration and fear of disintegration The authors interrogate and chart the space between these polarities by tracking the many competing conceptions of Europe in European public discourse and relate these meanings to national regional and ideological divisions Based on qualitative discourse analyses of newspaper articles from six European Union member states between 2004 and 2023 Shades of Blue shifts how we think about Europe s integration and disintegration and offers a new perspective on Europeanization With twelve debates chronicling Europe s past and discussing the implications for Europe s future these authors uncover how politicians intellectuals and journalists negotiate European senses of belonging Shades of Blue moves beyond the binaries of hope and despair to uncover a more nuanced picture of Europe Weathering the Storm Javier Villar Burke, 2016-12-29 Weathering the Storm explores the factors leading up to the recent global financial and economic crisis how the crisis unfolded and the response of European and national authorities The book describes the rationale behind the measures undertaken to mitigate the consequences of the recession and to ensure that a similar situation does not happen again in the future In the wake of the crisis various major changes continue to significantly affect the life and social organization of Europeans For instance a new ESM with a size financially comparable to that of the IMF was created similarly the reforms in economic governance imply much more intrusive participation of European countries in each other's macroeconomic policies Moreover the organization regulation and supervision of the financial sector have been drastically revamped The decisions taken by European and national authorities affect the daily lives of hundreds of millions of European citizens and countless more around the globe An insightful read for anyone interested in understanding the topic and its effect on their lives the book primarily addresses undergraduate students in their final year and graduate students in fields such as economics finance and political science The main messages are explained through examples and charts

Shades of Difference Sujata Iyengar, 2013-04-12 Was there such a thing as a modern notion of race in the English Renaissance and if so was skin color its necessary marker In fact early modern texts described human beings of various national origins including English as turning white brown tawny black green or red for any number of reasons from the effects of the sun's rays or imbalance of the bodily humors to sexual desire or the application of makeup It is in this cultural environment that the seventeenth century London Gazette used the term black to describe both dark skinned African runaways and dark haired Britons such as Scots who are now unquestioningly conceived of as white In Shades of Difference Sujata Iyengar explores the cultural mythologies of skin color in a period during which colonial expansion and the slave trade introduced Britons to more dark skinned persons than at any other time in their history Looking to texts as divergent as sixteenth century Elizabethan erotic verse seventeenth century lyrics and Restoration prose romances Iyengar considers the construction of race during the early modern period without oversimplifying the emergence of race as a color coded classification or a black white opposition Rather race embodiment and skin color are examined in their multiple contexts historical geographical and literary Iyengar engages works that have not previously been incorporated into discussions of the formation of race such as Marlowe's Hero and Leander and Shakespeare's Venus and Adonis By rethinking the emerging early modern connections between the notions of race skin color and gender Shades of Difference furthers an ongoing discussion with originality and impeccable scholarship

Shades of Sovereignty Paul Wilson,2021-07-12 This comprehensive book traces the role of money in the creation of the state Starting in the early modern era Paul Wilson explores the monetary systems of empires and new states in the age of nation building in the eighteenth and nineteenth century Spanning a wide geographical and historical range from the creation of the United States of America to the establishment of the European Union and the breakup of the Soviet Union and beyond the author examines changing attitudes toward monetary sovereignty as dozens of new states created new currencies since the end of the Second World War Wilson analyzes the decision making of newly independent states in their choice of an appropriate currency considering the complex factors involved ranging from the purely economic to questions of security international recognition and outright nationalism that have played a part The author challenges the notion that each country must necessarily have its own currency and explains why some newly independent countries have chosen to adopt the currency of another state Citing the examples of international currency unions of the nineteenth century and the present day he contends that sharing a currency does not represent a surrender of political sovereignty Instead Wilson argues for a more rational attitude toward money as a facilitator of transactions rather than as a symbol of national identity Irish Gardening ,1908 Shades of Green Alan Frizzell,1997-05-15 Is there a real community of interest on the state of the environment that transcends national boundaries An answer to this vital question will ultimately determine the success or failure of initiatives where international co operation and co ordination are essential such as atmospheric or water pollution controls Shades of Green volume two of the ISSP International Social Survey Programme series analyzes data from identical surveys conducted in 22 countries and tackles a wide range of attitudes and priorities Expectations of government in terms of environmental protection a comparison of Canada U S results the level of knowledge on environmental issues from country to country the perceived role for science in solving ecological problems and attitudinal differences between the West and states of the former Soviet Union these issues have serious implications for the environmental movement and government policies worldwide Shades of Love Dorien Kelly,Barbara Dunlop,2010-08-01 Winner Takes All by Dorien Kelly Former NASCAR
