Shadow Maker The Life Of Gwendolyn MacEwen:

Shadow Maker Rosemary Sullivan,1996 How did a young girl who spent much of her early life in the Canadian bush evolve into a woman who has defined contemporary writing not just in Canada but on the international page as well How did Margaret Atwood in those pre feminist pre CanLit days find the courage and confidence to believe in herself Governor General s Award winning biographer Rosemary Sullivan discovers the answers in a beautifully crafted portrait of the life and times of Margaret Atwood Both an exploration of the woman and her generation Sullivan focuses on Atwood s formative years and looks at the interesting discrepancy between the writer s private and public personae Along the way Sullivan gives insight into the issues of female creativity authority and autonomy as well as providing a fascinating look into the heady first days of the Canadian literary scene

Beryl Dustin Galer,2023-11-07 Beryl Potter was a reserved working class mother of three living a decent life or so it seemed when a harmless slip and fall marked the unravelling of everything that she had known about herself and the world around her Over the course of six years she endured unimaginable pain As doctors raced to save her life her limbs and eyesight were taken from her one by one In the span of a few years she lost nearly half her body her financial security her home her husband and any semblance of a recognizable future A survivor of more than one hundred surgeries a dangerous opioid addiction and multiple suicide attempts Beryl Potter devoted herself to bettering the lives of other people with disabilities and made a tremendous contribution to disability awareness from the 1970s to 1990s In this unparalleled biography Dustin Galer demonstrates how Beryl Potter seemed to crack the code of the social system that oppressed her By wading into the weeds of her complicated life before and after her accident Galer leaves readers with a complex portrait of a woman who defied and challenged gender and disability norms of her time paving the way for disability justice

King of Egypt, King of Dreams Gwendolyn MacEwen, 2009-11-07 The Insomniac Library is proud to reissue Gwendolyn MacEwen's second novel more than thirty years after its original appearance in 1971. The novel bears important resemblances to MacEwen's earlier Julian the Magician. Writing to poet Al Purdy, MacEwen confessed she wanted her second novel to be bulky, readable and not overly mysterious. Unlike in Julian, however, here MacEwen sets out to write a deeply serious novel that also functions as entertaining historical fiction. The novel's hero is Akhenaton, Pharaoh of Egypt's Eighteenth Dynasty, who was the first ruler to introduce the idea of monotheism. As Rosemary Sullivan remarks in her biography of MacEwen, he was like Julian, one more human being filled with the god-lust. Akhenaton's single-mindedness in his quest for his own brand of reason is a powerfully paradoxical distillation of the artistic temperament: originality, fertility and beauty set against death and despair and an inability to love.

Julian the Magician Gwendolyn MacEwen, 2009-11-07 MacEwen described what she set out to achieve as a sort of powerful poetic mad-half abandoned prose somewhere between Kenneth Patchen and Virginia Woolf. Set in a medieval past that has distinctly modern overtones, the novel is about Julian, a young man who believes he is Christ. Wandering the countryside in a horse-drawn wagon, Julian learns to suspend logic like a whale on a thread. He becomes a master of alchemy, performing miracles like curing the mad and changing water into wine. When his rapt audiences begin to lose faith, Julian must pay with his life. MacEwen skillfully implies a relationship between alchemy, miracles and belief, and the art forms she is engaged in herself: poetry and prose. What is the price the writer-magician must pay to engender belief in her audience? Is something true merely because we believe it? With an afterword by the author's sister.

Shadow Maker Rosemary Sullivan, 2001

Timothy Findley's Novels Between Ethics and Postmodernism Dagmar Krause, 2005 Timothy Findley (1930-2002) is one of the most important contemporary Canadian writers. His novels have been classified as postmodern, exhibiting characteristic features such as parody, historiographic metafiction and hybrid genres. This classification of Findley as a postmodern writer, however, largely neglects the fact that Findley is deeply committed to the exploration of certain ethical and political themes. Recurring topics in his work are, for instance, fascism, environmental concerns and the problem of responsibility. Sparked off by the fascinating question of how postmodernism and ethics can be reconciled at all and inspired by the so-called ethical turn in the literary theory of the 1990s, this study supplies a closer look at Findley's ethics with regard to its postmodern potential. A detailed analysis of five of his novels: The Wars, Famous Last Words, Not Wanted on the Voyage, The Telling of Lies and Headhunter explores the ethical dimension of Findley's work and its consequences for his categorization as a postmodern writer.
