Shakespeare Without Class:

Shakespeare Without Class Donald Keith Hedrick, Bryan Reynolds, 2000 This study simultaneously supports and challenges Shakespeare's universality. It does this by showing that Shakespeare is not universal insofar as his poetry speaks to all people of all classes beyond class distinctions but by demonstrating just how deeply entrenched Shakespeare is across a spectrum of socioeconomic structures and class, gender, and ethnic struggles. The subjects of these essays range from Shakespeare's own appropriation of the sonnet form from Elizabethan courtiers to reinterpretations of Shakespeare's plays in 19th-century African theatre to Brecht's political reworkings of Shakespeare's plays to pedagogical uses of Shakespeare in cultural studies courses to adaptations of Shakespeare in gay porn films.

Shakespeare Without Women Dymphna Callaghan, 2002-09-11 Shakespeare Without Women is a controversial study of female impersonation and the connections between dramatic and political representation in Shakespeare's plays. In this original and challenging book, Callaghan argues that Shakespeare did not include women and that his transvestite actors did not represent women and were not furthermore meant to do so. All Shakespeare's actors were of historical necessity white males, which meant that the portrayal of women and racial others posed unique problems for his theatre. What is important, Shakespeare Without Women claims, is not to bemoan the absence of women, Africans, or the Irish but to determine what such absences meant in their historical context and why they matter today. Callaghan focuses on the implications of absence and exclusion in several of Shakespeare's works: the exclusion of the female body from Twelfth Night; the impersonation of the female voice in the original performances of the plays; racial impersonation in Othello; echoes of removal of the Gaelic Irish in The Tempest; the absence of women on stage and in public life as shown in A Midsummer Night's Dream.

Adaptations Deborah Cartmell, Imelda Whelehan, 2002 Adaptations: Critical and Primary Sources is a three-volume reference resource that brings together over 80 landmark texts in adaptation studies. Volume One covers the history of adaptation studies by plotting the prehistory of the field beginning with Vachel Lindsay's classic Art of the Moving Picture (1915) through Virginia Woolf's classic essay on The Cinema through to some of the most important critical and theoretical interventions up until the 1990s when the area really emerges as a critical force in the academy. Volume Two collects essays from the last 25 years showing how the scholarly legacy laid out in Volume One still has a profound impact on adaptation studies today while charting the process of critical and theoretical maturation. This volume shows how adaptation studies has outgrown its contested place in the gap of film and literary studies and how its interventions transcend disciplinary perspectives across the arts and humanities. Volume Three covers key case studies such as Christine Geraghty's take on adapting Westerns, Ian Inglis's understanding of the transformation of music into movies, and Eckart Voigts concept on Jane Austen and participatory culture 0With topics ranging from the limitations of the novel to adapting stage to screen contributions from a wide range of international scholars film critics and novelists combine to make Adaptations Critical and Primary Sources an original overview of critical debates today Cartmell and Whelehan introduce each excerpt and offer a critical overview of the collected work the rationale for its inclusion and suggestions for further reading Almost Shakespeare James R. Rematerializing Shakespeare B. Reynolds, W. West, 2005-11-01 To rematerialize in the sense of Rematerializing Shakespeare Authority and Representation on the Early Modern English Stage is not to recover a lost material infrastructure as Marx spoke of nor is it to restore to some material existence its priority over the imaginary Indeed this collection of work by some of the most highly regarded critics in Shakespeare studies does not offer a single theoretical stance on any of the various forms of critical materialism Marxism cultural materialism new historicism transversal poetics gender studies or performance criticism but rather demonstrates that the materiality of Shakespeare is multidimensional and consists of the imagination the intended and the desired Nothing returns in this rematerialization unless it is a return in the sense of the repressed which when it comes back comes back as something else An all star line up of contributors includes Kate McLuskie Terence Hawkes Catherine Belsey and Doug Bruster Shakespeare, The Movie II Richard Burt, Lynda E.
