Mach Mit Mach Mit:

Amnesiopolis Eli Rubin, 2016 Amnesiopolis explores the construction of Marzahn the largest prefabricated housing project in East Germany built on the outskirts of East Berlin in the 1970s and 1980s and touted by the regime as the future of socialism It focuses particularly on the experience of East Germans who moved often from crumbling slums left over as a legacy of the nineteenth century into this radically new place one defined by pure functionality and rationality a material manifestation of the utopian promise of socialism Eli Rubin employs methodologies from critical geography urban history architectural history environmental history and everyday life history to ask whether their experience was a radical break with their personal pasts and the German past Amnesiopolis asks can a dramatic change in spatial and material surroundings sever the links of memory that tie people to their old life narratives and if so does that help build a new socialist mentality in the minds of historical subjects The answer is yes and no as much as the East German state tried to create a completely new socialist settlement divorced of any links to the pre socialist past the massive construction project uncovered the truth buried literally in the ground which was that the urge to colonize the outskirts of Berlin was not new at all Furthermore the construction of a new city out of nothing using repeating identical buildings created a panopticon like effect giving the Stasi the possibility of more complete surveillance than they previously had

The Social Organization of Disease Jochen Kleres,2017-07-06 Empirically this book is a case study analysis of dissolution processes in German AIDS organizations Indeed why is it that civic organizers start out with a commitment to a cause but end up dissolving their organization This question is exactly what Kleres seeks to tackle within The Social Organization of Disease Focusing on the emotional bases of dissolved German AIDS organizations to develop a typology of civic action and organizing Kleres presents a perspective on non profit organizations that analyses organizational development through the emotional sense making of individual organizers within the light of larger political processes and cultural contexts To this end this volume develops and applies a new methodology for researching emotions empirically expanding the scope of narrative analysis However parallel to this The Social Organization of Disease also explores how shifting discursive processes establish emotional climates and thus impact on state policies and the evolution of AIDS organizing The book would appeal to sociologists and political scientists working in the field of social movements and non profit organisations but it would also appeal to those who are interested in the sociology of emotions It would potentially be of interest to non profit scholars who consider community based organizations volunteerism and advocacy and secondarily to medical sociologists interested in AIDS service organizations Sociology International relations Social Work Political Science May be of interest for NGO activists and or employees and leadership Na Klar! 3 Student's Book (KS4) Colin Christie,2004 Na klar is a three stage course covering all requirements up to Key Stage 4 At Key Stage 4 the course is particularly appropriate for the AQA specifications Seeing Trees Sonja Dümpelmann,2019-01-08 A fascinating and beautifully illustrated volume that explains what street trees tell us about humanity s changing relationship with nature and the city Today cities around the globe are planting street trees to mitigate the effects of climate change However as landscape historian Sonja D mpelmann explains this is not a new phenomenon In her eye opening work D mpelmann shows how New York City and Berlin began

Einstein in Bohemia Michael D. Gordin,2022-02-22 Though Einstein is undoubtedly one of the most important figures in the history of modern science he was in many respects marginal Despite being one of the creators of quantum theory he remained skeptical of it and his major research program while in Princeton the quest for a unified field ultimately failed In this book Michael Gordin explores this paradox in Einstein s life by concentrating on a brief and often overlooked interlude his tenure as professor of physics in Prague from April of 1911 to the summer of 1912 Though often dismissed by biographers and scholars it was a crucial year for Einstein both personally and scientifically his marriage deteriorated he began thinking seriously about his Jewish identity for the first time he attempted a new explanation for gravitation which though it failed had a significant impact on his later work and he met numerous individuals including Max Brod Hugo Bergmann Philipp Frank and Arno t Kolman who would continue to influence him In a kind of double biography of the figure and the city this book links Prague and Einstein together Like the man the city exhibits the same paradox of being both central and marginal to the main contours of European history It was to become the capital of the Czech Republic but it was always compared to Vienna and Budapest less central in the Habsburg Empire Moreover it was home to a lively Germanophone intellectual and artistic scene though the vast majority of its population spoke only Czech By emphasizing the marginality and the centrality of both Einstein and Prague Gordin sheds new light both on Einstein s life and career and on the intellectual and scientific life of the city in the early twentieth century
