An Introduction to Design Science Paul Johannesson,Erik Perjons,2021-09-20 This book is an introductory text on design science intended to support both graduate students and researchers in structuring undertaking and presenting design science work It builds on established design science methods as well as recent work on presenting design science studies and ethical principles for design science and also offers novel instruments for visualizing the results both in the form of process diagrams and through a canvas format While the book does not presume any prior knowledge of design science it provides readers with a thorough understanding of the subject and enables them to delve into much deeper detail thanks to extensive sections on further reading Design science in information systems and technology aims to create novel artifacts in the form of models methods and systems that support people in developing using and maintaining IT solutions This work focuses on design science as applied to information systems and technology but it also includes examples from and perspectives of other fields of human practice Chapter 1 provides an overview of design science and outlines its ties with empirical research Chapter 2 discusses the various types and forms of knowledge that can be used and produced by design science research while Chapter 3 presents a brief overview of common empirical research strategies and methods Chapter 4 introduces a methodological framework for supporting researchers in doing design science research as well as in presenting their results This framework includes five core activities which are described in detail in Chapters 5 to 9 Chapter 10 discusses how to communicate design science results while Chapter 11 compares the proposed methodological framework with methods for systems development and shows how they can be combined Chapter 12 discusses how design science relates to research paradigms in particular to positivism and interpretivism and Chapter 13 discusses ethical issues and principles for design science research The new Chapter 14 showcases a study on digital health consultations and illustrates the whole process in one comprehensive example Also added to this 2nd edition are a number of sections on practical guidelines for carrying out basic design science tasks a discussion on design thinking and its relationship to design science and the description of artefact classifications Eventually both the references in each chapter and the companion web site were updated to reflect recent findings between the method and theory oriented perspectives is presented in this book newly available in paper Chen provides an intensive discussion of the nature and functions of programme theory approaches to constructing programme theories and the integration of programme theory with evaluation processes Specific types of theory driven evaluations as well as principles and guidelines for application are developed for meeting different policy purposes Application of systematic strategies is illustrated by concrete examples from a variety of evaluation studies in different fields

Fourth Generation Evaluation Egon G. Guba, Yvonna S. Lincoln, 1989 Publisher's description Fourth Generation Evaluation represents a monumental shift in evaluation practice Guba and Lincoln point to the inherent problems faced by previous generations of evaluators politics ethical dilemmas imperfections and gaps inconclusive deductions and lay the blame for failure and nonutilization at the feet of the unquestioned reliance on the scientific positivist paradigm of research Fourth Generation Evaluation a more informed and sophisticated approach moves beyond science to include the myriad human political social cultural and contextual elements that are involved Based upon relativism a unity between knower and known and a subjective epistemology the authors show how fourth generation evaluation unites the evaluator and the stakeholders in an interaction that creates the product of the evaluation Differing from previously existing generations this new approach moves evaluation to a new level whose key dynamic is negotiation The constructivist paradigm is espoused by the authors and shown to offer multiple advantages including empowerment and enfranchisement of stakeholders as well as an action orientation that defines a course to be followed Not merely a treatise on evaluation theory Guba and Lincoln also comprehensively describe the differences between the positivist and constructivist paradigms of research and provide a practical plan of the steps and processes in conducting a fourth generation evaluation
