The background features a soft, hazy landscape with rolling green hills and a bright, glowing light source, possibly the sun, creating a misty atmosphere. The foreground is filled with lush green grass.

Nature Conservation:

Nature Conservation Klaus-Dieter Hupke, 2023-01-01 Many things happen in nature reserves that are contradictory at first glance For example flower meadows are mown down during maintenance work even though all the plants growing there are protected Elsewhere protected reed beds are burnt down in a fen or the top layer of soil is removed with bulldozers in a dune conservation area Still other areas are to remain completely untouched by human intervention The author Klaus Dieter Hupke shows the different strategies of nature conservation He also shows that nature conservation is mostly not exactly what the term says in essence protection of nature On the contrary in Central Europe nature conservation areas are predominantly the relics of old agricultural and thus cultural landscapes Often aesthetic aspects of a landscape section are also in the foreground when designating it as a natural monument or nature reserve Moreover nature conservation runs the risk of becoming a substitute action and an alibi for a still growing destruction of traditional and near natural landscape systems in Central Europe as well as globally The updated second edition now explicitly includes the consequences of climate change for nature conservation and has also incorporated a stronger reference to Austria as well as to the central Alpine region in some places for the relevant readers The Law of Nature Conservation Christopher Rodgers, 2013-03-21

Providing a detailed account of the law of nature conservation this book reviews and discusses the way in which the law promotes the conservation of species of animal bird and plant and how it protects natural habitats for protected species Using an interdisciplinary approach the book sets nature conservation in its economic and scientific context It explains how the law reconciles the public interest in promoting biodiversity and the conservation of species and habitats on the one hand and the private property rights of landowners and other resource appropriators on the other The book offers an illuminating new interpretation of this area of environmental regulation using a resource allocation model of property rights to explain how legal and economic instruments for promoting nature conservation work in practice The analysis covers all recent legislation and case law including the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 the Conservation of Habitats and Species Regulations 2010 and the 2012 National Planning Policy Framework The book will serve as a critical guide to UK nature conservation law for those working in the system and a valuable reference point on the UK's approach to the area for environmental lawyers and policy makers overseas Environmental Law Toolkit--NSW, 2005 The Environmental Law Toolkit is a community guide to environmental law in New South Wales It is intended to provide a practical resource for members of the community with an interest in using the law to protect the environment In particular this guide covers the following elements of environmental law environmental planning and assessment natural resource management pollution management biodiversity conservation and natural and cultural heritage The guide also includes a chapter on environmental advocacy covering topics such as submissions letters and petitions using the media access to information defamation law and safe speech incorporating an environmental group corporations and environmental advocacy environmental protest and criminal law and seeking legal advice and representation Potential Analysis for Further Nature Conservation in Azerbaijan Michael Succow Stiftung zum Schutz der Natur, 2009 Protecting the Wild George Wuerthner, Eileen Crist, Tom Butler, 2015-02-19 Protected natural areas have historically been the primary tool of conservationists to conserve land and wildlife. These parks and reserves are set apart to forever remain in contrast to those places where human activities, technologies and developments prevail. But even as the biodiversity crisis accelerates, a growing number of voices are suggesting that protected areas are passé. Conservationists argue they should instead focus on lands managed for human use: working landscapes and abandon the goal of preventing human caused extinctions in favor of maintaining ecosystem services to support people. If such arguments take hold, we risk losing support for the unique qualities and values of wild, undeveloped nature. Protecting the Wild offers a spirited argument for the robust protection of the natural world. In it, experts from five continents reaffirm that parks, wilderness areas and other reserves are an indispensable, albeit insufficient, means to sustain species, subspecies, key habitats, ecological processes and evolutionary potential. Using case studies from around the globe, they present evidence that terrestrial and marine protected areas are crucial for biodiversity and human well-being alike, vital to countering anthropogenic extinctions and climate change. A companion volume to Keeping the Wild, Against the Domestication of Earth, Protecting the Wild provides a necessary addition to the conversation about the future of conservation in the so-called Anthropocene, one that will be useful for academics, policymakers and conservation practitioners at all levels, from local land trusts to international NGOs.

Bioenergy from Dendromass for the Sustainable Development of Rural Areas David Butler, Manning, Albrecht Bemmman, Michael Bredemeier, Norbert Lamersdorf, Christian Ammer, 2015-08-17 Based on the results of two bioenergy research initiatives in Germany, this reference examines the sustainable management of wood biomass in rural areas. The large number of participating organizations and research institutes ensures a balanced and unbiased view on the potentials and risks, is presented taking into account economic, ecological and social aspects. Most of the results reported are available here for the first time in English and have been collated in central Europe but are equally applicable to other temperate regions. They highlight best practices for enhancing dendromass potential and productivity while discussing the implications on rural economies and ecosystems.

Modernisation and the Environment J. van Tatenhove,B. Arts,P. Leroy,2013-03-14 Recent years have witnessed a substantial change in both the organisation and substance of environmental policy both national and international Western societies have seen a change in the relationships between the state the market and civil society leading to new conceptions of governance a process here called political modernisation that gives rise to the institutionalisation of new policy arrangements An environmental policy arrangement refers to the organisation and substance of a policy domain in terms of policy coalitions policy discourses rules of the game and resources The book uses these theoretical notions to analyze changes in organisation substance and governance in several environmental policy domains such as infrastructure policies global policies on climate change and biodiversity green planning and agriculture policy Changing relationships between the state the market and civil society caused by processes of globalization privatisation and individualisation have resulted in a plurality of policy arrangements in different domains Despite the fact that environmental politics has been substantially renewed there is a delicate balance between traditional and new policy arrangements One of the main themes of the book is the explanation of this balance Analysis of South Africa's Wildlife Policies and Laws Didi Wamukoya, Mira Dutschke, 2017-10-18 South Africa has a long history of regulation of wildlife conservation that dates as far back as 1656 when Jan van Riebeeck a Dutch colonial administrator and founder of Cape Town gave instructions to regulate hunting in the Cape. From that time South Africa has had several wildlife and biodiversity conservation policies and laws. After the fall of apartheid the new framework policies and laws on environment and wildlife conservation were enacted to further strengthen wildlife conservation in the country. South Africa is also a party to various international agreements that commit the country to its conservation efforts at an international level. This rapid independent assessment of the law and policy governing wildlife crimes in South Africa reviews the Constitution and the national framework laws focusing on those laws and policies that impose criminal liability for wildlife offences. The assessment then turns to the provinces. Provincial governments have a fairly large degree of legislative and executive jurisdiction over conservations and wildlife management issues including enforcing compliance of criminal wildlife laws. The review sets out the offences and penalties that exist across the myriad of relevant environmental legislation and policy and looks at the power and mandate of the various enforcement bodies. Environmental Law and Policy in Wales Patrick Bishop, Mark Stallworthy, 2013-02-15 This book examines Welsh perspectives on the search for sustainable law and policy solutions to modern environmental threats. Innovation and Entrepreneurship in Forestry in Central Europe Ewald Rametsteiner, Gerhard Weiss, Klaus Kubeczko, 2005-07-01 Current developments in Central Europe will have far reaching consequences on the region's forestry and related institutional arrangements such as forest administration extension services and forest research. Future prospects for the rural population living on income from forestry will considerably depend on how individuals and organisations react in view of these changes. It will be vitally important how forest owners and managers apply new knowledge in forestry and how organisations best deal with the emerging changes. Innovation and entrepreneurship are main driving forces for economic growth, competitiveness and employment creation especially in rural areas. From 2001 to 2003 the EFI Regional Project Centre INNOFORCE conducted research on innovation and entrepreneurship in forestry in Central Europe seeking answers to the following questions: What is the situation and perceived future outlook for forestry in the region? How important are innovation and entrepreneurship considered in the sector? How much innovation and entrepreneurship is actually taking place? What are supporting and impeding factors? The research report provides new knowledge on innovation behaviour of forest holdings and forest related innovation systems in Central Europe and on changes that are necessary to enhance innovation and entrepreneurship in the sector. Survey results are accompanied by lessons learned from more than 30 cases referring to innovations in forestry implemented in eight countries. Rural Sustainable Development in the Knowledge Society Dr Hilary Tovey, Dr Karl Bruckmeier, 2012-11-28 Based on the EU funded CORASON research project this volume brings together and compares studies into rural and sustainable development processes in 12 European countries. In doing so it identifies key trends and reveals the changing nature of development processes on the way towards a knowledge society. The book examines the differences between the preconditions and contexts relevant to rural development strategies and those relevant to sustainable development strategies. It explores whether the concept, goals and nature of rural development is better understood and adopted by rural actors than those of sustainable development. Finally, by focusing on the ideas and practices of sustainable resource management, a component in both rural and sustainable development objectives, it links with knowledge used by actors involved in rural development.
